Key Members Of Congress Asked To H-Bomb Tests

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—UP—Key members of Congress have been asked to witness secret H-bomb tests which are expected to get underway at Bikini atoll in the Pacific within the next few weeks, it was revealed Saturday.

Informed sources said preparations for the tests are nearly complete. Although the precise date of the first blast is a closely guarded secret, the best weather conditions in the area will prevail in March, April and May.

The tests will include detonation of several new H-bomb designs. Reports are circulating in military quarters that at least one superbomb will be launched from the capacious belly of a B-36 bomber, possibly in the form of a guided rocket missile.

It was learned that the Atomic Energy Commission has urged members of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy committee to attend at least some of the tests, in order to keep abreast of the latest nuclear weapons developments.

Members of other congressional committees with an interest in atomic affairs, including the Senate and House Armed Services and Appropriations committees, also are eligible to witness the tests if they desire.

How many congressmen will actually make the trip is not yet known.

The tests will be conducted by Joint Task Force Seven commanded by Maj. Gen. Percy W. Clarkson of the Army. The task force includes units of all three services; scientists from the AEC's H-bomb laboratory at Livermore, Calif., and its weapons laboratories at Los Alamos and Sandia, N.M.; and technicians from the armed forces special weapons project at Sandia.

Personnel and equipment for the tests began moving to the mid-Pacific proving ground last month. Construction of test facilities has been going on for nearly a year.

The first postwar atomic tests—"Operation Crossroads" — were conducted at Bikini. Later the AEC switched its testing to Eniwetok, 180 miles to the west. It was on Eniwetok that the world's first big hydrogen blast was set off on Nov. 1, 1952. It wiped out the island on which it was detonated and left a hole in the lagoon 175 feet deep and about a mile in diameter.

Because of the awesome magnitude of hydrogen explosions, the proving ground has now been expanded to include both Bikini and Eniwetok. Unauthorized ships and planes are forbidden to enter a restricted zone of some 30,000 square miles around the atolls.

WILMER S. GUILLORY

State's Outstanding Young Man Of 1953 Is Named

LAKE CHARLES, Feb. 13 (Special)—Wilmer S. Guillory, thirty-five year old oil field supply company official from Lake Charles, was named "Louisiana's outstanding young man of 1953" here Saturday night.

The honor was bestowed on Guillory by the Louisiana Jaycee's who annually present their distinguished service award to an outstanding Louisianian between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-six.

He was selected for the award over nine other young men who had been picked to represent their communities throughout the state. "The young man of the year" project is sponsored by the state Jaycees to honor those young men from various communities throughout the state who have distinguished themselves in leadership, outstanding contributions for the betterment of their communities and state, and success in their vocations.

Lether Frazer, president of McNeese State College of Lake Charles, made the presentation tonight to Guillory at the banquet in his honor. Frazer pointed out that Guillory was selected because of his outstanding record in his professional, religious, social and civic life in the community. Frazer also stated that Guillory's services have been recognized locally as well as nationally.

A native of Kinder, Louisiana, Guillory moved to Lake Charles in 1934. He is married and has two children. Guillory is secretary treasurer of Mud Supply Co., Inc., Childress Construction Co., Inc., and Gordon Drilling Co., Inc. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Gordon Drilling Company.

An accountant for many years, Guillory is currently writing an accounting manual for oil field mud and chemical dealers and distributors. Active in the Lake Charles Junior Chamber of Commerce, Guillory has served as past treasurer, past president, and past national director from Louisiana.

He is a member of the board of directors of the Lake Charles Association of Commerce, chairman of the board of directors of the Salvation Army, secretary of the Lake Charles Memorial Hospital Association, secretary of Boy's Village, and teacher of young men's Sunday School class. Guillory helped organize the Louisiana oil field distributors association and the national oil field mud distributors incorporated.

Other young men of Louisiana considered for the award included Irving Zeidman of Monroe, Rolfe H. McCollister, Baton Rouge, Earl J. Deroche, Lutcher, Jack J. Cousin, New Iberia, John A. Dykes, Shreveport, James L. Cathey, Jr., Bossier City and Enoch Nix, Benton. Past winners of the annual award include Rev. Joseph B. Gremillion, Shreveport, and Gus Kaplan, Alexandria.

DAR Reaffirms Its Support Of Bricker's Plan

More than 100 members of Abram Morehouse Chapter and Fort Miro Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution assembled to celebrate the 40th anniversary of founding of Fort Miro yesterday, reaffirmed their support of the Bricker Amendment.

These chapters endorsed the resolution last year as did all of the 2,737 chapters made up of 171,000 women in line with the fight the DAR is making against world government.

Senator John Bricker and Frank Holman, past president of the American Bar Association, were the principal speakers at the Continental Congress of D.A.R. last April. They found the D.A.R. in full accord with their approach to the abuse of treaty-making powers.

"Abram Morehouse Chapter and Fort Miro Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution assembled today in celebration of the 40th anniversary of Fort Miro Chapter call upon you to support the Bricker Amendment as an additional safeguard to prevent abuse of the treaty making power. The threat of legislation by international agreements that has come with the United Nations and other international bodies presents a potential danger from which the people need constitutional protection.

Western Allies Agree To Five Soviet Points

Austrian Treaty Agreement Still Seems Remote

BERLIN, Feb. 13 —UP— The Western Allies in a surprise attempt to force Soviet agreement to the Austrian state treaty accepted Saturday all Russia's proposed changes to the last five articles blocking acceptance of the pact.

The Allied maneuver was proposed by American Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and caught Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov flat footed.

The Soviet foreign minister's stalling indicated the Soviets were not going to sign an Austrian treaty.

At the end of a four hour debate the United States, Britain and France agreed to accept Soviet amendments to five articles of the treaty on which Big Four agreement has stalled.

Molotov, surprised and apparently dismayed, insisted the articles be turned over to the foreign ministers' deputies. He then agreed to discuss the Western acceptance of the articles at a Sunday afternoon session.

The Soviet foreign minister apparently was stalling for time until he could ask Moscow for new instructions. However, Western observers said his delay also indicated the Russians still will refuse to sign the treaty which will again make Austria independent.

Dulles and Molotov met for 30 minutes before Saturday's 19th session of the foreign ministers in the second of their atomic talks, an American spokesman said.

The Soviet and American foreign ministers agreed that further discussions on procedural matters concerning President Eisenhower's proposed world atomic bank will be carried on through normal channels.

The American spokesman said that the decision of the two foreign ministers not to meet again in Berlin does not signify a breakdown in the atomic talks. Dulles does not have time for further talks on atomics now, the Americans indicated.

At Saturday's 19th meeting of the foreign minister's the Western powers turned a cold shoulder on the Soviet proposal, made Friday, that would have meant a redrafting of the Austrian treaty.

The Russian plan would have tied the Austrian treaty to a German peace pact and a settlement of the Trieste problem.

Dulles proposed the Western acceptance of the five articles as amended by the Soviets sometime ago. British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault announced they agreed.

West Monroe Child Is Struck By Auto

Five-year-old Gary Taylor of 1305 Parnell, West Monroe, was being held in St. Francis hospital Saturday after he suffered a broken leg and lacerations when he was struck by an automobile Friday afternoon.

According to West Monroe police, Gary was injured when he was struck by an automobile driven by G. W. Reitzammer of 117 Short North 5th about 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Police said Reitzammer was driving north in the 300 block of Morris when the child apparently jumped from a ditch on the side of the road into the path of the car.

The boy was hit with the right front fender. He was taken to the hospital in a private car. Officers said he suffered a broken right leg, severe bruises of the lower stomach and chest, and lacerations of the face.

His condition was not serious, hospital attendants reported.

North Louisiana Men Are Invited To White House

Three Monroe men and a number of others from northeast Louisiana towns are among the Louisiana delegation invited to the White House conference on highway safety which meets in Washington Feb. 17-19 at the call of President Eisenhower. Personal invitations from the White House were received by each of the delegates.

Those invited from Monroe include S. J. Rogers, J. L. Ewing, III, and E. J. Seymour. Others in northeast Louisiana who received invitations included: Nathan Bolton, Bastrop; A. S. Holliday, Jonesboro; Roland T. Huson, Jonesville and Fred Preaus, Farmerville.

The White House conference, which has as its objective a 40 per cent reduction in traffic fatalities and injuries during the coming 12 months, will bring together representatives of agriculture, business, labor, media of public information, organizations, public officials and women chosen from each o: the 48 states.

The Louisiana delegation will be headed by Gov Robert F. Kennon. In addition to the delegates named by Governor Kennon the state delegation will include technical consultants, advisers and observers.

Purpose of the conference will be to stimulate in every community in every state, organized action to increase safety on streets and highways by fuller utilization of measures which have proven effective in reducing accidents.

In each of the years 1952 and 1953 fatalities on the highway numbered some 38,000. There were nearly 1,400,000 personal injury accidents, and property damage and other economic losses from highway accidents totalled nearly $4 billion.

If the conference is successful in achieving its objective for the coming 12 months about 15,000 lives will be saved and some 600,000 personal injury accidents prevented and the loss of more than $1.5 billion avoided. In the words of Secretary Weeks "the realization of the goal of the conference will mean the saving of one American's life every 36½ minutes of the coming year."

Communities which have effectively carried on organized safety programs on a continuing basis have sharply reduced their accident tolls. Because of these organized safety programs driving on a mile for mile basis is nearly twice as safe today as it was some years ago. However the total of deaths and injuries has gone up because of the tremendous increase in the number of cars on the road and in the number of miles traveled by those cars.

Fresh Attacks On Democrats Made By GOP

Speaker Martin Lambasts Record Of Opposition

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Republicans brought Lincoln Day oratory tonight to a climax that mingled friendly gestures toward moderate Democrats with another furious fusillade of charges that the opposition party coddled Communists.

Here and there, Democrats thundered back more hot protests that the GOP is trying desperately to convince America that the Democratic party is a party of communism and treason.

In large measure, the oratorical salvos across the land sounded much like the same records the party partisans have been playing over and over for a week or more in tune-ups for what looks like one of the roughest, bitterest congressional election campaigns in many a year.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader of the Senate, held out an appreciative hand to "moderate Democrats in Congress" for "fine support" of Republican policies "essential to the national government."

But House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) called upon the GOP to "sweep back for all time the tide of waste, bankrupt spending and Communist coddling that carried us to the edge of ruin."

And Wendell B. Barnes, head of the Federal Small Business Administration, wrapped together in one speech all the Republican accusations that have been hiking Democratic tempers to the boiling point.

In his prepared text, Barnes spoke, too, of Communist coddling and lit into "fuzzy-minded New Deal Democrats" as "gloom and doom people" who now are ped-

Park Custodian's Slayer Sought

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 13—UP—Police questioned five Negroes Saturday in the pistol slaying of Claude F. Bryant, 60-year old custodian at Shreveport city hall.

Police Chief E. G. Huckabay said Bryant was found slumped over in his automobile. He had been shot at close range with his .38 caliber revolver and authorities said there were signs of a struggle.

A witness, 19-year old Eunice Wright, told police she saw two Negroes approach Bryant's car late Friday night as he returned to it. She said she went to her mother's home nearby and a short time later heard a shot.

Polite Turndown Believed Near

U. N. Officials Cold To Rhee's Offer Of Troops For Indochina Fighting

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 —UP— Official sources indicated Saturday the United Nations Command in Korea will turn down the surprise offer of South Korean President Syngman Rhee to send a division of troops to Indo-China to battle the Communists.

Officially, the South Korean offer is still "under consideration." But it was abundantly clear that high American policy-makers took a cool view of it.

One informant predicted the UN command will soon send Rhee a polite message saying, in effect, "Thank you, but your troops are needed in Korea."

South Korea also proposed that Gen. James A. Van Fleet, former U. S. Army commander in Korea, be sent to Indo-China to help train and organize native resistance forces, as he did in South Korea.

American officials had no comment on this suggestion, and there was no indication it would draw any sort of official reply. The feeling in some quarters was that it was not up to South Korea to select a U. S. general to take over French responsibilities in Indo-China.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith will appear before the Senate Foreign Relations committee in a secret session Tuesday to fill in the senators on administration plans for dealing with the worsening Indo-China situation.

Rotarians Open Annual Meeting In Monroe Today

Six-hundred Rotarians will meet today in Monroe for the annual 202 District Conference at the Virginia Hotel beginning at 2 p.m.

Beginning today, and scheduled through Tuesday noon, 52 Rotary clubs, from Vicksburg, Mississippi and Louisiana, with the exception of New Orleans and the Florida parishes, will review their service activities and plan ways to make their future efforts still more effective, according to W. P. Barnes, Jr., Governor, District 202, of Baton Rouge, La.

The conference program for Sunday: 2:00 p.m. - 5:45, registration-Virginia hotel; 6:00, fellowship session; 6:45, buffet supper-entertainment.

Lewis Slater, president of the Monroe club extended "to members and ladies of the Conference a most cordial welcome to our city."

According to Edward Dalton, chairman of Promotion and Publicity for the Monroe club, there are 8,000 Rotary clubs throughout the world, in 88 countries, with a membership of 375,000.

The clubs and membership of Rotary "are all working for community betterment, for high standards in business and professions, and for international understanding, good will and peace," Dalton said.

Luther H. Hodges, Lieutenant Governor of North Carolina, former Vice-President of Marshall Field and Company and General Manager of Fieldcrest Mills, will speak Monday at 11:20 a.m.

"A Crusade for Rotary" will be delivered by Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi at 10:00 a.m. Monday. Dr. Nyaradi, distinguished speaker, former Minister of Finance of Hungary.

Burns Fatal To 12-Year-Old Girl

Karen Anna Plott, 12-year-old resident of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home, died about 5 a.m. Saturday morning from burns received Friday afternoon when her clothing was ignited by an open gas heater.

Funeral services will be held at the Mulhearn Funeral Home Chapel at 3 p.m. today with Rev. T. Earle Ogg, pastor of the College Place Baptist Church, officiating. Interment will be in the Riverview Burial park under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

C. D. Black, superintendent of the home, said the accident occurred in a cottage where she resided. The child, Black said, backed up to an open flame gas heater. When the clothing became ignited, the superintendent stated, several girls in the cottage ran to Karen's aid and put out the flame by wrapping her in a quilt.

The children then notified a nurse at the home, who in turn summoned an ambulance to take the girl to the hospital.

She is survived by her father, Glenn S. Plott of Lake Charles; her mother, Mrs. Betty Plott of New Orleans; one sister, Sally Plott; and two brothers, Jeffrey Plott and Mike Plott, all living at the Baptist Children Home.

Active pallbearers will be Ted Welch, C. L. Dillingham, Bob Bushnell, H. S. Allen, W. G. Mangham and Don Hoyem. Honorary pallbearers will be H. L. Hales, Clayton Hand, E. C. Simmons, and Barksdale Harrison.

State Official Rallies To Aid Of Dr. Summer

In a vitriolic two and one-half hour session last night, the Ouachita parish police jury voted unanimously to continue present financial support to the parish health center. The vote was brought to the floor by L. U. Fourmy, Ward 10, who moved that the body vote on the question immediately.

The special meeting began shortly after 5 p.m. to discuss several matters which had been before the group at an earlier session held last Wednesday.

Specifically the meeting was called by the president, A. E. Montgomery, Ward 10, so that the group could vote on liability insurance for parish vehicles and to hear a report by Dr. W. Carroll Summer, parish health unit director, who was out of town during Wednesday's meeting.

Dr. Summers was the object of severe criticism by G. P. Avants, Ward 5 member, who accused the director of showing "partiality" in the recent degrading of local dairymen.

Approximately 75 persons crowded the jury room of the parish court house as Dr. Summer told the group that 15 samples had been taken from dairies throughout the parish and that of this number

Cobb Won't Run For Mayor's Job In West Monroe

C. Dale Cobb, who claimed earlier he might be a mayoral candidate in West Monroe, announced yesterday that he "definitely will not" be a candidate.

Cobb said he planned to remove from his present job and would probably take up residence in another state. In such an event there will be a vacancy on the Ouachita Parish School Board, of which Cobb is a member of ward five (West Monroe.)

In a statement issued yesterday, Cobb said:

"I will not be a candidate for mayor in West Monroe for the reason that I am making a change in employment which precludes previous plans.

"I wish to express appreciation to the many friends who have indicated their confidence and interest in my behalf and for their kind encouragement in the matter."

New Orleans To Hold Election

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 13 (AP) —Gov. Robert Kennon was expected today to proclaim a special election in New Orleans for May 4 to fill two vacancies in the state Legislature.

Rep. Edward L. Boesch was certified yesterday as Democratic nominee as register of conveyances and Rep. Paul Burke as city councilman from District B. Both have resigned effective May 1.

The governor's office said it expected the proclamation to come this weekend.

70,000 Acres Of Forest Burned In Past 10 Days

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

ABOARD A FORESTRY COMMISSION PLANE IN SOUTHEAST LOUISIANA, Feb. 13 (AP) — Wispy trails of grey smoke, fed by February's record forest fires, streamed up from the lush pinelands of Southeast Louisiana today, cutting visibility nearly in half.

In Livingston and St. Helena parishes, where rangers have been battling woods blazes for more than a week in round-the-clock shifts, the smoke billowed towards the sky as if from the stacks of giant industrial plants hidden in the deep recesses of the forest.

Occasionally, as the wind came up and parted the treetops, the rich green carpet of woodlands came alive with flame bursts that fanned out voraciously, then died to smoldering embers before the next gust whipped them to life again.

From 2,500 feet, the densely forested landscape, deep green and blue in the late afternoon sun, seemed overlaid everywhere with huge blotches of black, the gutted remnants of what was once a thriving timber stand.

In the last 10 days, more than 1,000 forest fires have blackened some 70,000 acres across the state, making February a record month for the past six years, although the month is only half over.

"See that road down there," pointed pilot Richard Cotter as he dipped his single engine Cessna into the wind and circled a smoke blossoming cluster of woods that appeared neatly bisected by a dusty ribbon of road.

"Five fires were set along that road shortly before dawn today," Cotter continued. "Some are still burning. We know these fires were deliberate because all started just off the roadbed."

In the seat next to him, Forester L. H. Romero, assistant chief of fire control, radioed a lookout man on a tower 20 miles away to dispatch a crew because one fire was getting out of hand.

"They'll sent out a three-man crew and a plow," Romero said. "Notice the plow marks around

Five-year-old Gary Taylor of 1305 Parnell, West Monroe, was being held in St. Francis hospital Saturday after he suffered a broken leg and lacerations when he was struck by an automobile Friday afternoon.

According to West Monroe police, Gary was injured when he was struck by an automobile driven by G. W. Reitzammer of 117 Short North 5th about 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Police said Reitzammer was driving north in the 300 block of Morris when the child apparently jumped from a ditch on the side of the road into the path of the car.

The boy was hit with the right front fender. He was taken to the hospital in a private car. Officers said he suffered a broken right leg, severe bruises of the lower stomach and chest, and lacerations of the face.

His condition was not serious, hospital attendants reported.

Train Derailed

NEW ALBANY, Miss., Feb. 13 (AP) —A 17-car freight train derailed near New Albany today without injuries.

The Frisco Railroad office in Tupelo said cause of the derailment was not known and the engine did not leave the track.

North Louisiana Men Are Invited To White House

Three Monroe men and a number of others from northeast Louisiana towns are among the Louisiana delegation invited to the White House conference on highway safety which meets in Washington Feb. 17-19 at the call of President Eisenhower. Personal invitations from the White House were received by each of the delegates.

Those invited from Monroe include S. J. Rogers, J. L. Ewing, III, and E. J. Seymour. Others in northeast Louisiana who received invitations included: Nathan Bolton, Bastrop; A. S. Holliday, Jonesboro; Roland T. Huson, Jonesville and Fred Preaus, Farmerville.

The White House conference, which has as its objective a 40 per cent reduction in traffic fatalities and injuries during the coming 12 months, will bring together representatives of agriculture, business, labor, media of public information, organizations, public officials and women chosen from each of the 48 states.

The Louisiana delegation will be headed by Gov Robert F. Kennon. In addition to the delegates named by Governor Kennon the state delegation will include technical consultants, advisers and observers.

Purpose of the conference will be to stimulate in every community in every state, organized action to increase safety on streets and highways by fuller utilization of measures which have proven effective in reducing accidents.

In each of the years 1952 and 1953 fatalities on the highway numbered some 38,000. There were nearly 1,400,000 personal injury accidents, and property damage and other economic losses from highway accidents totalled nearly $4 billion.

If the conference is successful in achieving its objective for the coming 12 months about 15,000 lives will be saved and some 600,000 personal injury accidents prevented and the loss of more than $1.5 billion avoided. In the words of Secretary Weeks "the realization of the goal of the conference will mean the saving of one American's life every 36½ minutes of the coming year."

Communities which have effectively carried on organized safety programs on a continuing basis have sharply reduced their accident tolls. Because of these organized safety programs driving on a mile for mile basis is nearly twice as safe today as it was some years ago. However the total of deaths and injuries has gone up because of the tremendous increase in the number of cars on the road and in the number of miles traveled by those cars.

Fresh Attacks On Democrats Made By GOP

Speaker Martin Lambasts Record Of Opposition

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Republicans brought Lincoln Day oratory tonight to a climax that mingled friendly gestures toward moderate Democrats with another furious fusillade of charges that the opposition party coddled Communists.

Here and there, Democrats thundered back more hot protests that the GOP is trying desperately to convince America that the Democratic party is a party of communism and treason.

In large measure, the oratorical salvos across the land sounded much like the same records the party partisans have been playing over and over for a week or more in tune-ups for what looks like one of the roughest, bitterest congressional election campaigns in many a year.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader of the Senate, held out an appreciative hand to "moderate Democrats in Congress" for "fine support" of Republican policies "essential to the national government."

But House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) called upon the GOP to "sweep back for all time the tide of waste, bankrupt spending and Communist coddling that carried us to the edge of ruin."

And Wendell B. Barnes, head of the Federal Small Business Administration, wrapped together in one speech all the Republican accusations that have been hiking Democratic tempers to the boiling point.

In his prepared text, Barnes spoke, too, of Communist coddling and lit into "fuzzy-minded New Deal Democrats" as "gloom and doom people" who now are ped-

Park Custodian's Slayer Sought

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 13—UP—Police questioned five Negroes Saturday in the pistol slaying of Claude F. Bryant, 60-year old custodian at Shreveport city hall.

Police Chief E. G. Huckabay said Bryant was found slumped over in his automobile. He had been shot at close range with his .38 caliber revolver and authorities said there were signs of a struggle.

A witness, 19-year old Eunice Wright, told police she saw two Negroes approach Bryant's car late Friday night as he returned to it. She said she went to her mother's home nearby and a short time later heard a shot.

U. N. Officials Cold To Rhee's Offer Of Troops For Indochina Fighting

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 —UP— Official sources indicated Saturday the United Nations Command in Korea will turn down the surprise offer of South Korean President Syngman Rhee to send a division of troops to Indo-China to battle the Communists.

Officially, the South Korean offer is still "under consideration." But it was abundantly clear that high American policy-makers took a cool view of it.

One informant predicted the UN command will soon send Rhee a polite message saying, in effect, "Thank you, but your troops are needed in Korea."

South Korea also proposed that Gen. James A. Van Fleet, former U. S. Army commander in Korea, be sent to Indo-China to help train and organize native resistance forces, as he did in South Korea.

American officials had no comment on this suggestion, and there was no indication it would draw any sort of official reply. The feeling in some quarters was that it was not up to South Korea to select a U. S. general to take over French responsibilities in Indo-China.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith will appear before the Senate Foreign Relations committee in a secret session Tuesday to fill in the senators on administration plans for dealing with the worsening Indo-China situation.

Rotarians Open Annual Meeting In Monroe Today

Six-hundred Rotarians will meet today in Monroe for the annual 202 District Conference at the Virginia Hotel beginning at 2 p.m.

Beginning today, and scheduled through Tuesday noon, 52 Rotary clubs, from Vicksburg, Mississippi and Louisiana, with the exception of New Orleans and the Florida parishes, will review their service activities and plan ways to make their future efforts still more effective, according to W. P. Barnes, Jr., Governor, District 202, of Baton Rouge, La.

The conference program for Sunday: 2:00 p.m. - 5:45, registration-Virginia hotel; 6:00, fellowship session; 6:45, buffet supper-entertainment.

Lewis Slater, president of the Monroe club extended "to members and ladies of the Conference a most cordial welcome to our city."

According to Edward Dalton, chairman of Promotion and Publicity for the Monroe club, there are 8,000 Rotary clubs throughout the world, in 88 countries, with a membership of 375,000.

The clubs and membership of Rotary "are all working for community betterment, for high standards in business and professions, and for international understanding, good will and peace," Dalton said.

Luther H. Hodges, Lieutenant Governor of North Carolina, former Vice-President of Marshall Field and Company and General Manager of Fieldcrest Mills, will speak Monday at 11:20 a.m.

"A Crusade for Rotary" will be delivered by Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi at 10:00 a.m. Monday. Dr. Nyaradi, distinguished speaker, former Minister of Finance of Hungary.

Burns Fatal To 12-Year-Old Girl

Karen Anna Plott, 12-year-old resident of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home, died about 5 a.m. Saturday morning from burns received Friday afternoon when her clothing was ignited by an open gas heater.

Funeral services will be held at the Mulhearn Funeral Home Chapel at 3 p.m. today with Rev. T. Earle Ogg, pastor of the College Place Baptist Church, officiating. Interment will be in the Riverview Burial park under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

C. D. Black, superintendent of the home, said the accident occurred in a cottage where she resided. The child, Black said, backed up to an open flame gas heater. When the clothing became ignited, the superintendent stated, several girls in the cottage ran to Karen's aid and put out the flame by wrapping her in a quilt.

The children then notified a nurse at the home, who in turn summoned an ambulance to take the girl to the hospital.

She is survived by her father, Glenn S. Plott of Lake Charles; her mother, Mrs. Betty Plott of New Orleans; one sister, Sally Plott; and two brothers, Jeffrey Plott and Mike Plott, all living at the Baptist Children Home.

Active pallbearers will be Ted Welch, C. L. Dillingham, Bob Bushnell, H. S. Allen, W. G. Mangham and Don Hoyem. Honorary pallbearers will be H. L. Hales, Clayton Hand, E. C. Simmons, and Barksdale Harrison.

State Official Rallies To Aid Of Dr. Summer

In a vitriolic two and one-half hour session last night, the Ouachita parish police jury voted unanimously to continue present financial support to the parish health center. The vote was brought to the floor by L. U. Fourmy, Ward 10, who moved that the body vote on the question immediately.

The special meeting began shortly after 5 p.m. to discuss several matters which had been before the group at an earlier session held last Wednesday.

Specifically the meeting was called by the president, A. E. Montgomery, Ward 10, so that the group could vote on liability insurance for parish vehicles and to hear a report by Dr. W. Carroll Summer, parish health unit director, who was out of town during Wednesday's meeting.

Dr. Summers was the object of severe criticism by G. P. Avants, Ward 5 member, who accused the director of showing "partiality" in the recent degrading of local dairymen.

Approximately 75 persons crowded the jury room of the parish court house as Dr. Summer told the group that 15 samples had been taken from dairies throughout the parish and that of this number

Cobb Won't Run For Mayor's Job In West Monroe

C. Dale Cobb, who claimed earlier he might be a mayoral candidate in West Monroe, announced yesterday that he "definitely will not" be a candidate.

Cobb said he planned to remove from his present job and would probably take up residence in another state. In such an event there will be a vacancy on the Ouachita Parish School Board, of which Cobb is a member of ward five (West Monroe.)

In a statement issued yesterday, Cobb said:

"I will not be a candidate for mayor in West Monroe for the reason that I am making a change in employment which precludes previous plans.

"I wish to express appreciation to the many friends who have indicated their confidence and interest in my behalf and for their kind encouragement in the matter."

New Orleans To Hold Election

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 13 (AP) —Gov. Robert Kennon was expected today to proclaim a general election in New Orleans for May 4 to fill two vacancies in the state Legislature.

Rep. Edward L. Boesch was certified yesterday as Democratic nominee as register of conveyances and Rep. Paul Burke as city councilman from District B. Both have resigned effective May 1.

The governor's office said it expected the proclamation to come this weekend.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

ABOARD A FORESTRY COMMISSION PLANE IN SOUTHEAST LOUISIANA, Feb. 13 (AP) — Wispy trails of grey smoke, fed by February's record forest fires, streamed up from the lush pinelands of Southeast Louisiana today, cutting visibility nearly in half.

In Livingston and St. Helena parishes, where rangers have been battling woods blazes for more than a week in round-the-clock shifts, the smoke billowed towards the sky as if from the stacks of giant industrial plants hidden in the deep recesses of the forest.

Occasionally, as the wind came up and parted the treetops, the rich green carpet of woodlands came alive with flame bursts that fanned out voraciously, then died to smoldering embers before the next gust whipped them to life again.

From 2,500 feet, the densely forested landscape, deep green and blue in the late afternoon sun, seemed overlaid everywhere with huge blotches of black, the gutted remnants of what was once a thriving timber stand.

In the last 10 days, more than 1,000 forest fires have blackened some 70,000 acres across the state, making February a record month for the past six years, although the month is only half over.

"See that road down there," pointed pilot Richard Cotter as he dipped his single engine Cessna into the wind and circled a smoke blossoming cluster of woods that appeared neatly bisected by a dusty ribbon of road.

"Five fires were set along that road shortly before dawn today," Cotter continued. "Some are still burning. We know these fires were deliberate because all started just off the roadbed."

In the seat next to him, Forester L. H. Romero, assistant chief of fire control, radioed a lookout man on a tower 20 miles away to dispatch a crew because one fire was getting out of hand.

"They'll sent out a three-man crew and a plow," Romero said. "Notice the plow marks around

Police Try To Close Protestant Church

ROME, Feb. 13 (AP) — Police chiseled the name of the Church of Christ off its building in Rome today. A church spokesman denounced the action as a "violation of the law of the state" and said the Protestant religious group would take the matter to court.

It was the second crackdown in about 12 hours by Italian authorities on the largely Texas-financed Protestant evangelical group, which has been having trouble with the authorities in predominantly Catholic Italy for a long time.

Last night police forced Italian worshippers from the small rented hall of the church in the seaport city of Leghorn. American worshippers refused to leave and continued the service.

This morning police appeared with ladders at the three-story building owned by the church in Rome and chiseled off the 10-inch stone letters "Chiesa di Cristo." They picked up an Associated Press photographer for snapping pictures of their activities, but later released him.

Giacomo Rosepepe, Rome attorney who represents the church, said the police had violated "the law of the state." He said he would take action against the authorities responsible in the Italian courts probably on Monday.

Today's police action came on direct orders from Rome police headquarters, which are under the direction of the Italian Ministry of Interior, headed by Mario Scelba, who is also the country's new Premier.

As interior minister in previous regimes Scelba had criticized the Church of Christ sharply and had accused it of aiding communism in Italy. Church leaders denied strongly his charges.

American Airlines Nonstop Service To Mexico Halted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —The U. S. Court of Appeals today ordered that American Airlines may not start nonstop service between New York and Mexico City pending arguments in a legal effort by Eastern and Pan American Airlines to prevent such service.

American now holds authority from the Civil Aeronautics Board for the nonstop flights but has not started service over the route.

A date for arguments in the case probably will be set early next week.

Glen Harlan, counsel for Eastern, in appealing to the court referred to the CAB order Jan. 21 granting American authority for the 2,000-mile New York-Mexico nonstop sedvice as in an "eight minute decision."

The CAB had said the emergency action was necessary because Air France had arranged with the Mexican government to start nonstop service Jan. 25.

Emory T. Nunnelly Jr., CAB general counsel, told the court that allowing Air France to operate exclusive nonstop service to Mexico City would give that airline an opportunity to become entrenched in that market at the cost of American competition.

45th Division To Return From Korean Service

EAST CENTRAL KOREA, Feb. 13—UP—The U. S. 45th Infantry Division, which captured Old Baldy mountain and battled for Heartbreak ridge, staged a mammoth farewell review Saturday as 1,000 of its men prepared to return home.

The 45th "Thunderbird" Division is the first American division to return to the United States since the Korean war started. It rounded out two years of service with Saturdays parade The return of the division is part of President Eisenhower's plan to reduce troop strength in Korea.

More than 10,000 men and 600 trucks, jeeps, tanks and field guns passed a reviewing stand where Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. Eighth Army commander, took the salute.

Three floats depicted the history of the former Oklahoma National Guard division in Korea.

Division and regimental flags were turned over to the 1,000 men who will return them to the 45th's Guard headquarters in Oklahoma.

Only men normally eligible to go home will accompany the colors to the states. Other members of the division will be assigned to other American units in Korea.

Taylor jokingly warned the returning men that "the dangers of the port of New York, where you will return, are worse than those in the Yanggu Valley."

Although the division was called to service in the Korean war as an Oklahoma Guard unit, the Guardsmen have been rotated home and the division now is made up of regular Army men, draftees and reservists.

The Thunderbird colors were turned over to Brig. Gen. Harvey H. Fischer, Alexandria, Va., who will take them back to Oklahoma.

Maj. Gen. Paul D. Harkins, the division commander, has been assigned to another division in Korea.

Second Lawyer Jailed In Baby Racket Expose

MONTREAL, Feb. 13 —UP— Authorities who cracked a $3 million international baby black market ring announced the arrest of three more persons Saturday after a veteran New York policewoman caught the alleged racketeers redhanded by "buying" an infant for $3,500.

The latest arrests in the drive to stamp out the black market were made Friday night, police said. Those taken into custody were Louis Glazer, 52, the second attorney seized in the investigation of the racket, and two women whose names were not disclosed.

The three were seized shortly after Theresa Bogatto, head of the New York City policewomen's bureau and a veteran baby racket investigator, arranged for the "purchase" of a baby at a house in Montreal.

Miss Bogatta was accompanied by Sgt. Hilda Beaucage of Montreal. They "paid" $3,500 for a baby and received a false birth certificate for it, police said. A short time later, police raided the house and seized the occupants.

Also under arrest was Herman Buller, 38, a Montreal lawyer.

Official police sources said the baby black market ring had operated out of Montreal for 10 years and had many ramifications.

The 145th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln has just been celebrated. It was of general interest that readers learned that only three descendants, all great grandchildren, were present to join an observance in New York.

They were Robert Todd Lincoln Beckwith; his sister, Mary Lincoln Beckwith and Lincoln Isham. They are grandchildren of Robert Todd Lincoln. The Beckwiths are children of Robert Todd Lincoln's daughter, Jessie. Robert Beckwith spent most of his life in Vermont and Washington, D. C.

Captain Roy Byrd, talking to a local service club last week, told of some of the cases that the state police here handle each month. During the year just ended, he said his men had 250 cases in which cars were in operation with no license plates.

Four hundred tickets were given in cases in which there were improper license plates. He told of a man who works in a West Monroe paper plant and lives in Monroe on an acre plot. Although, a "farmer," he sidestepped a $10 cost of plate for his car and operated with one costing $3.

Many from other states move to Louisiana and still carry the license plates that they obtained back in their former out-of-the state homes.

Thirty-five lost their plates and were driving cars without any such designation.

Three hundred cases were turned in in which the driver of an auto had no driver's license.

Seventy-six cases were discovered in which trucks were overloaded. There are weighing scales on highway 80 seven miles east of Monroe and they are the only ones from the Mississippi river to Shreveport.

Drunk drivers, speeders, careless and reckless drivers were found in altogether too many cases.

Fifty-two Rotary clubs with approximately 600 Rotarians are descending on the Twin Cities for their annual district conference which opens Sunday and runs for three days.

Rotary clubs are noted for their distinguished service record. They appeal to and serve causes that are deserving and bring light into many a home that needs timely assistance.

The Rotary movement, initiated soon after World War One, came into existence to fill a definite need of fellowship among businessmen and to see that their efforts were directed toward the welfare of humanity.

The Twin Cities are pleased to have such fine people as guests, the "latch string is out," enjoy yourselves and experience the broadening influence of making new, worth-while acquaintances and in deepening friendships that have existed in times past.

Douglas Urges Job Security For Fleeing Soviets

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 —UP— Sen. Paul H. Douglas urged President Eisenhower Saturday to offer "asylum and employment" to diplomatic and military officers of Communist countries who flee to the free world.

The Illinois Democrat made public a letter to the President in which he said such an appeal by Mr. Eisenhower would be "another important step toward winning the initiative against Communist Russia."

Douglas wrote that "a statement by yourself, to these people, and broadcast to them through all available facilities, might have tremendous repercussions."

He suggested that the offer of protection and employment be made to officers of Communist countries who "flee their posts to seek protective custody, and who bring with them information and documents pertaining to military plans and espionage operations."

Douglas said that "undoubtedly a considerable number of such men and women are deterred from doing this by doubts that they would be received, and fears that they might be handed back to communism and to the firing squad."

However, he said, "I do not believe in monetary rewards for such persons; there is a far greater reward in achieving freedom and the opportunity to work honorably for security."

He pointed out that Igor Gouzenko, who quit communism in Canada, "uncloaked the Russian espionage activities in the western hemisphere." Also he said, valuable military information was obtained from Russian MIG pilots who flew their planes from behind the Iron Curtain to neutral or American soil.

More recently, Douglas said, "Russian espionage and plans in the Far East are being unmasked" by Yuri Alexandrovich Rastorovov, who deserted from the Soviet mission in Tokyo.

Action Against

five showed records of being "watered down."

At first the director did not identify these dairies, merely saying "local dairies in this parish", but upon the request of a citizen, he listed the names of each of the men cited for violating the sanitary code and gave the percentage of water found in each sample. These percentages ranged from 5.45 to 21.35 per cent.

However, because some of the dairies did not deliver milk on the particular day that the samples were taken, the director said, another group of samples were gathered later from these dairies. All of these, the director pointed out, were sealed at the processing plant and signed by both the manager of the plant and the sanitarian taking these samples. After that they were taken immediately to the state testing laboratory in New Orleans, where they were processed.

In answer to a question by G. P. Avant, brother of two of the cited dairymen, Dr. Summer said it was the custom of the unit to pull samples about four times each six months.

"This is done to see that they meet the qualifications of the state laws," the director explained, adding "these samples were taken because Mr. Watts came to me and said to me that added water was noticed in the milk."

"These samples were taken as soon as we could get around to it," Dr. Summer added.

Again answering questions from both the jurors and interested citizens gathered to get more information on the alleged watering down, Dr. Summer said the "law required that the men who violate the law are called in for a hearing . . .there was no partiality shown." Then, explaining the process of bringing dairies previously degraded back up to the original grade, the director stated that three separate samples must be taken before the higher grade can be re-established.

The state laws, sanitary statutes, allow no water in either the raw milk or reconstructed milk, Dr. Summer further told the jury. He added that the only additional element which can be put into milk is vitamin D, which is being used in homogenizing processes. This was verified by Dr. Andrew Hedweg, director of the division of the local services for the state, who had come to Monroe, along with other state health officials to attend the meeting.

In answer to a question by M. M. Bayles, Ward 5, "do you know these (tests) are correct?", Dr. Summer said all I know is what I got from the laboratory. The milk samples are picked up and sealed. This seal is signed by the operator and the sanitarian and is not reopened until it reaches the laboratory, the state lab in New Orleans. He further stated that, should any seal look like it had been 'tampered with', the sample is not tested as an official test.

Dr. Summer said similar samples showing "watered down milk" had been found in the parish over the past several years, but the findings had been "sporadic" and therefore, were not made public. However, since such a large number had been found at one time, no effort was made to suppress it. On this point, it was brought out that records of the health unit are public and can not be refused should a citizen ask to see them.

Taking the floor, James A. Noe told the jury that he had been besieged with telephone calls from persons wanting to know about the "watering down of the milk" and expressed an opion that it "should be the duty of this police jury and the duty of the district attorney" to do something about it. He further inquired whether the parish grand jury could not look into the matter because "if you take a man's money you are stealing, and if you put water in milk, you are still stealing." The former governor further said that the people of the parish are "incensed at having to give their little children 'watered down' milk."

Answering Noe, W. J. Vinson, Ward 2 member, said he felt the entire matter needs more publicity, "and so does the police jury. The juryman further said he was in favor of asking the general public to vote a tax "say one-half mill", for the purpose of supporting the health unit. Then, Vinson stated, "we could get the unit off our shoulders like we did the library." The suggestion met with applause from throughout the entire group, both jurors and spectators.

Explaining the state's position in the matter, Dr. Hedmeg said he had been sent by Dr. Phillips, head of the State Health Department, to Monroe to say "we are completely backing Dr. Summers in this thing." He then added, "we have been criticized for the amount of money put into Ouachita Parish and the comparative amount which you have donated." In comparison, he said, the state and national governments are giving approximately $2 for each $1 from the parish, and two city governments.

Luther Hortman, director of the division of milk and dairy products for the State of Louisiana, told the group that the finding of water in milk is "occurring throughout the state ... we have stopped warning and when we find water in milk we are going to put a stop to it.

"We feel," Hortman continued, "that milk is the most perfect food on the market today and we want to get everybody to drink milk as much as possible. But," he added, "it can also be the most dangerous food if not protected since it can carry germs for so many diseases."

Following the discussion, it was decided to have members of the police jury meet with separate club committees set up to work out some sort of plan for the local health unit. The club committees will notify the police jury when it will meet and extend welcome to all members who wish to attend these meetings.

Immediately prior to adjournment, President Montgomery said he did not believe that any partiality was shown in the recent sampling of milk, but asked Dr. Summers to be careful about that matter. To this the director said he "will enforce the laws impartially as I have tried to do in the past. And I think I did that in the case of the dairies." The entire group, with a few scattered exceptions, gave the doctor a rising vote of thanks for his work.

Health Unit Shift Was In Balance, Relates Summer

In an exclusive statement to the Morning-World Dr. Summer said that, should the police jury have taken away the $12,000 per year support, the state would probably take away its $24,000 contribution. "It would have been a crippling blow to the health department. If they had taken away that much from us, it would be better to close and move to another parish, rather than to have people believe they would be having health protection when they would not."

Dr. Summer also stated that on the day the milk was degraded, Mayor J. Allan Norris of West Monroe called him on the telephone and asked him not to degrade the milk. Later, in a letter dated February 4, Mayor Norris told him, Dr. Summer West Monroe had drawn away its support "for financial reasons." In response to a question, the doctor said, "I don't know whether the milk situation had any bearing or not. All we have to go by is the letter. I can draw my own conclusions, though."

Mayor John E. Coon of Monroe, when contacted late yesterday, said "The City of Monroe is not contemplating withdrawing its financial support from the health department. We see no reason to do so. We think the health department is one of the most important departments in the city."

Justice LeBlanc Plans To Retire

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13 (AP) — Associate Justice Sam A. LeBlanc said today he would not seek re-election to the Louisiana Supreme Court when his term expires Dec. 31.

Justice LeBlanc, 67, was elected without opposition to serve the uncompleted term of the late Chief Justice Charles O'Niell who left the bench in 1949 upon reaching the mandatory retirement age of 80 years.

Referring to the new 14-year term which starts Jan. 1, 1955, Justice LeBlanc said, "The primary for selecting a Democratic candidate for the office will be in July. I might as well make my position clear now for the benefit of aspirants for the office."

Upon retirement, the justice and his wife plan to return to their home in Napoleonville.

dling a "fear deal" and "scare talk."

While playing politics with human misery and the safety of the free world, he said, "they are crying all over the place and threatening to sabotage needed legislation if the President doesn't halt these terrible accusations."

From Sen. Holland (D-Fla) came a counter blast that Republicans are trying to cover up disunity and an inability to get things done.

"Hence," he said, "for want of sound political arguments and despite announced disapproval by the President, a few of their loudest political voices are now desperately branding our party as the party of treason and corruption.

"These false and intemperate charges will come back like a boomerang upon those who hurled them, for the American people believe in fair play and good sportsmanship."

Sen. Lehman (Dem-Lib-NY) saw in "hysterical attacks on the Democratic party" a sign that Republicans "sense fear and defeat." Lehman suggested this:

"Compare the words of Abrham Lincoln, when he said, 'I do not propose to question the patriotism or to assail the motives of any man or class of men' . . . with recent unprincipled pronouncements charging the Democratic party with responsibility for treason . . . by that newly-formed team of smear-and-run consisting of Joseph McCarthy and Thomas E. Dewey."

The political cannonading echoed around the nation in Republican addresses prepared for traditional rallies honoring Lincoln, the party founder, and in Democratic speeches prepared for Jefferson-Jackson Day events or other party get-togethers.

"Of course, fires often jump the lines, so the trick is to get far enough in front of it. We had one recently with a 200-foot head on it. The flames cleared our lines then jumped a road. Sometimes they burn underground, eating at the roots, but that's not likely this time of year. The soil is plenty damp underneath so we just plow it up."

Livingston parish remained the hot spot in the state. A posse of forestry and wild life rangers, headed by V. E. Smith, chief of the enforcement division of the Wild Life and Fisheries Department, combed the parish for seven men believed setting fires along the backroads at night.

Elsewhere things quieted down. Rain was already falling in Caddo and Bossier parishes, and relief was expected in the form of a general rainfall in all areas by tomorrow.

Mixon reported 95 fires had been located across the state by sundown. Most were the result of farmers and cattle owners burning off pastures in search of new grass growths.

The rest, resulting from deliberate arson, would begin to pick up after dark, Mixon added.

"They work at night so our pilot can't spot them," he explained. "There's any number of reasons why they do it, but mainly they're just mad at the land owner."

Police Try To Close Protestant Church

ROME, Feb. 13 (AP) — Police chiseled the name of the Church of Christ off its building in Rome today. A church spokesman denounced the action as a "violation of the law of the state" and said the Protestant religious group would take the matter to court.

It was the second crackdown in about 12 hours by Italian authorities on the largely Texas-financed Protestant evangelical group, which has been having trouble with the authorities in predominantly Catholic Italy for a long time.

Last night police forced Italian worshippers from the small rented hall of the church in the seaport city of Leghorn. American worshippers refused to leave and continued the service.

This morning police appeared with ladders at the three-story building owned by the church in Rome and chiseled off the 10-inch stone letters "Chiesa di Cristo." They picked up an Associated Press photographer for snapping pictures of their activities, but later released him.

Giacomo Rosepepe, Rome attorney who represents the church, said the police had violated "the law of the state." He said he would take action against the authorities responsible in the Italian courts probably on Monday.

Today's police action came on direct orders from Rome police headquarters, which are under the direction of the Italian Ministry of Interior, headed by Mario Scelba, who is also the country's new Premier.

As interior minister in previous regimes Scelba had criticized the Church of Christ sharply and had accused it of aiding communism in Italy. Church leaders denied strongly his charges.

American Airlines Nonstop Service To Mexico Halted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —The U. S. Court of Appeals today ordered that American Airlines may not start nonstop service between New York and Mexico City pending arguments in a legal effort by Eastern and Pan American Airlines to prevent such service.

American now holds authority from the Civil Aeronautics Board for the nonstop flights but has not started service over the route.

A date for arguments in the case probably will be set early next week.

Glen Harlan, counsel for Eastern, in appealing to the court referred to the CAB order Jan. 21 granting American authority for the 2,000-mile New York-Mexico nonstop sedvice as in an "eight minute decision."

The CAB had said the emergency action was necessary because Air France had arranged with the Mexican government to start nonstop service Jan. 25.

Emory T. Nunnelly Jr., CAB general counsel, told the court that allowing Air France to operate exclusive nonstop service to Mexico City would give that airline an opportunity to become entrenched in that market at the cost of American competition.

45th Division To Return From Korean Service

EAST CENTRAL KOREA, Feb. 13—UP—The U. S. 45th Infantry Division, which captured Old Baldy mountain and battled for Heartbreak ridge, staged a mammoth farewell review Saturday as 1,000 of its men prepared to return home.

The 45th "Thunderbird" Division is the first American division to return to the United States since the Korean war started. It rounded out two years of service with Saturdays parade. The return of the division is part of President Eisenhower's plan to reduce troop strength in Korea.

More than 10,000 men and 600 trucks, jeeps, tanks and field guns passed a reviewing stand where Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. Eighth Army commander, took the salute.

Three floats depicted the history of the former Oklahoma National Guard division in Korea.

Division and regimental flags were turned over to the 1,000 men who will return them to the 45th's Guard headquarters in Oklahoma.

Only men normally eligible to go home will accompany the colors to the states. Other members of the division will be assigned to other American units in Korea.

Taylor jokingly warned the returning men that "the dangers of the port of New York, where you will return, are worse than those in the Yanggu Valley."

Although the division was called to service in the Korean war as an Oklahoma Guard unit, the Guardsmen have been rotated home and the division now is made up of regular Army men, draftees and reservists.

The Thunderbird colors were turned over to Brig. Gen. Harvey H. Fischer, Alexandria, Va., who will take them back to Oklahoma.

Maj. Gen. Paul D. Harkins, the division commander, has been assigned to another division in Korea.

MARCH OF DIMES GETS 'PIG' BENEFIT—Shown is the transfer of the contents of the Civitan's club 'pig', which during the year received money dropped in for payment of club fines. Each year it has been the custom of the club to donate the contents to March of Dimes. When this was done Thursday night, the contents were $23.98. In the picture are shown (Left to right) Capt. J. W. Faler, past club president, awarding the "heavily loaded" pig to John Kelso Jr., representing March of Dimes. On extreme right is J. E. Peters, club president. (Staff photo by Bob Hines.)

Second Lawyer Jailed In Baby Racket Expose

MONTREAL, Feb. 13 —UP— Authorities who cracked a $3 million international baby black market ring announced the arrest of three more persons Saturday after a veteran New York policewoman caught the alleged racketeers redhanded by "buying" an infant for $3,500.

The latest arrests in the drive to stamp out the black market were made Friday night, police said. Those taken into custody were Louis Glazer, 52, the second attorney seized in the investigation of the racket, and two women whose names were not disclosed.

The three were seized shortly after Theresa Bogatto, head of the New York City policewomen's bureau and a veteran baby racket investigator, arranged for the "purchase" of a baby at a house in Montreal.

Miss Bogatta was accompanied by Sgt. Hilda Beaucage of Montreal. They "paid" $3,500 for a baby and received a false birth certificate for it, police said. A short time later, police raided the house and seized the occupants.

Also under arrest was Herman Buller, 38, a Montreal lawyer.

Official police sources said the baby black market ring had operated out of Montreal for 10 years and had many ramifications.

Services Today For Mrs. Oliver

Each year this money goes to "March of Dimes" and this time it yielded just $23.98 in small change. In another part of today's paper will be seen photos of Capt. J. W. Faler and J. E. The 145th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln has just been celebrated. It was of general interest that readers learned that only three descendants, all great grandchildren, were present to join an observance in New York.

They were Robert Todd Lincoln Beckwith; his sister, Mary Lincoln Beckwith and Lincoln Isham. They are grandchildren of Robert Todd Lincoln. The Beckwiths are children of Robert Todd Lincoln's daughter, Jessie. Robert Beckwith spent most of his life in Vermont and Washington, D. C.

Captain Roy Byrd, talking to a local service club last week, told of some of the cases that the state police here handle each month. During the year just ended, he said his men had 250 cases in which cars were in operation with no license plates.

Four hundred tickets were given in cases in which there were improper license plates. He told of a man who works in a West Monroe paper plant and lives in Monroe on an acre plot. Although, a "farmer," he sidestepped a $10 cost of plate for his car and operated with one costing $3.

Many from other states move to Louisiana and still carry the license plates that they obtained back in their former out-of-the state homes.

Thirty-five lost their plates and were driving cars without any such designation.

Three hundred cases were turned in in which the driver of an auto had no driver's license.

Seventy-six cases were discovered in which trucks were overloaded. There are weighing scales on highway 80 seven miles east of Monroe and they are the only ones from the Mississippi river to Shreveport.

Drunk drivers, speeders, careless and reckless drivers were found in altogether too many cases.

Fifty-two Rotary clubs with approximately 600 Rotarians are descending on the Twin Cities for their annual district conference which opens Sunday and runs for three days.

Rotary clubs are noted for their distinguished service record. They appeal to and serve causes that are deserving and bring light into many a home that needs timely assistance.

The Rotary movement, initiated soon after World War One, came into existence to fill a definite need of fellowship among businessmen and to see that their efforts were directed toward the welfare of humanity.

The Twin Cities are pleased to have such fine people as guests, the "latch string is out," enjoy yourselves and experience the broadening influence of making new, worth-while acquaintances and in deepening friendships that have existed in times past.

This gentleman, who throughout the years has been an outstanding member of his church and has always found time to lend a helping hand to those in need, did not refuse to disclose his age, but very laughingly added that he "sure felt younger than his gathered years."

All through the day people stopped to wish him a "happy birthday." Even though we are a little late we'd like to say to "Mr. Nick," happy birthday and may you have many, many more.

Douglas Urges Job Security For Fleeing Soviets

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 —UP— Sen. Paul H. Douglas urged President Eisenhower Saturday to offer "asylum and employment" to diplomatic and military officers of Communist countries who flee to the free world.

The Illinois Democrat made public a letter to the President in which he said such an appeal by Mr. Eisenhower would be "another important step toward winning the initiative against Communist Russia."

Douglas wrote that "a statement by yourself, to these people, and broadcast to them through all available facilities, might have tremendous repercussions."

He suggested that the offer of protection and employment be made to officers of Communist countries who "flee their posts to seek protective custody, and who bring with them information and documents pertaining to military plans and espionage operations."

Douglas said that "undoubtedly a considerable number of such men and women are deterred from doing this by doubts that they would be received, and fears that they might be handed back to communism and to the firing squad."

However, he said, "I do not believe in monetary rewards for such persons; there is a far greater reward in achieving freedom and the opportunity to work honorably for security."

He pointed out that Igor Gouzenko, who quit communism in Canada, "uncloaked the Russian espionage activities in the western hemisphere." Also he said, valuable military information was obtained from Russian MIG pilots who flew their planes from behind the Iron Curtain to neutral or American soil.

More recently, Douglas said, "Russian espionage and plans in the Far East are being unmasked" by Yuri Alexandrovich Rastovorov, who deserted from the Soviet mission in Tokyo.

Action Against

At first the director did not identify these dairies, merely saying "local dairies in this parish", but upon the request of a citizen, he listed the names of each of the men cited for violating the sanitary code and gave the percentage of water found in each sample. These percentages ranged from 5.45 to 21.35 per cent.

However, because some of the dairies did not deliver milk on the particular day that the samples were taken, the director said, another group of samples were gathered later from these dairies. All of these, the director pointed out, were sealed at the processing plant and signed by both the manager of the plant and the sanitarian taking these samples. After that they were taken immediately to the state testing laboratory in New Orleans, where they were processed.

In answer to a question by G. P. Avant, brother of two of the cited dairymen, Dr. Summer said it was the custom of the unit to pull samples about four times each six months.

"This is done to see that they meet the qualifications of the state laws," the director explained, adding "these samples were taken because Mr. Watts came to me and said to me that added water was noticed in the milk."

"These samples were taken as soon as we could get around to it," Dr. Summer added.

Again answering questions from both the jurors and interested citizens gathered to get more information on the alleged watering down, Dr. Summer said the "law required that the men who violate the law are called in for a hearing . . .there was no partiality shown." Then, explaining the process of bringing dairies previously degraded back up to the original grade, the director stated that three separate samples must be taken before the higher grade can be re-established.

The state laws, sanitary statutes, allow no water in either the raw milk or reconstructed milk, Dr. Summer further told the jury. He added that the only additional element which can be put into milk is vitamin D, which is being used in homogenizing processes. This was verified by Dr. Andrew Hedweg, director of the division of the local services for the state, who had come to Monroe, along with other state health officials to attend the meeting.

In answer to a question by M. M. Bayles, Ward 5, "do you know these (tests) are correct?", Dr. Summer said all I know is what I got from the laboratory. The milk samples are picked up and sealed. This seal is signed by the operator and the sanitarian and is not reopened until it reaches the laboratory, the state lab in New Orleans. He further stated that, should any seal look like it had been 'tampered with', the sample is not tested as an official test.

Dr. Summer said similar samples showing "watered down milk" had been found in the parish over the past several years, but the findings had been "sporadic" and therefore, were not made public. However, since such a large number had been found at one time, no effort was made to suppress it. On this point, it was brought out that records of the health unit are public and can not be refused should a citizen ask to see them.

Taking the floor, James A. Noe told the jury that he had been besieged with telephone calls from persons wanting to know about the "watering down of the milk" and expressed an opion that it "should be the duty of this police jury and the duty of the district attorney" to do something about it. He further inquired whether the parish grand jury could not look into the matter because "if you take a man's money you are stealing, and if you put water in milk, you are still stealing." The former governor further said that the people of the parish are "incensed at having to give their little children 'watered down' milk."

Answering Noe, W. J. Vinson, Ward 2 member, said he felt the entire matter needs more publicity, "and so does the police jury. The juryman further said he was in favor of asking the general public to vote a tax "say one-half mill", for the purpose of supporting the health unit. Then, Vinson stated, "we could get the unit off our shoulders like we did the library." The suggestion met with applause from throughout the entire group, both jurors and spectators.

Explaining the state's position in the matter, Dr. Hedmeg said he had been sent by Dr. Phillips, head of the State Health Department, to Monroe to say "we are completely backing Dr. Summers in this thing." He then added, "we have been criticized for the amount of money put into Ouachita Parish and the comparative amount which you have donated." In comparison, he said, the state and national governments are giving approximately $2 for each $1 from the parish, and two city governments.

Luther Hortman, director of the division of milk and dairy products for the State of Louisiana, told the group that the finding of water in milk is "occurring throughout the state ... we have stopped warning and when we find water in milk we are going to put a stop to it.

"We feel," Hortman continued, "that milk is the most perfect food on the market today and we want to get everybody to drink milk as much as possible. But," he added, "it can also be the most dangerous food if not protected since it can carry germs for so many diseases."

Following the discussion, it was decided to have members of the police jury meet with separate club committees set up to work out some sort of plan for the local health unit. The club committees will notify the police jury when it will meet and extend welcome to all members who wish to attend these meetings.

Immediately prior to adjournment, President Montgomery said he did not believe that any partiality was shown in the recent sampling of milk, but asked Dr. Summers to be careful about that matter. To this the director said he "will enforce the laws impartially as I have tried to do in the past. And I think I did that in the case of the dairies." The entire group, with a few scattered exceptions, gave the doctor a rising vote of thanks for his work.

Health Unit Shift Was In Balance, Relates Summer

In an exclusive statement to the Morning-World Dr. Summer said that, should the police jury have taken away the $12,000 per year support, the state would probably take away its $24,000 contribution. "It would have been a crippling blow to the health department. If they had taken away that much from us, it would be better to close and move to another parish, rather than to have people believe they would be having health protection when they would not."

Dr. Summer also stated that on the day the milk was degraded, Mayor J. Allan Norris of West Monroe called him on the telephone and asked him not to degrade the milk. Later, in a letter dated February 4, Mayor Norris told him, Dr. Summer West Monroe had drawn away its support "for financial reasons." In response to a question, the doctor said, "I don't know whether the milk situation had any bearing or not. All we have to go by is the letter. I can draw my own conclusions, though."

Mayor John E. Coon of Monroe, when contacted late yesterday, said "The City of Monroe is not contemplating withdrawing its financial support from the health department. We see no reason to do so. We think the health department is one of the most important departments in the city."

Cowart Admits He Made $22,300 In Warehouse Deal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Jack Cowart, former Agriculture Department official, testified today he received $22,300 from the sale of stock in a company in which he had denied having any financial interest.

But Cowart, 48, of Dallas, Tex., insisted he didn't "knowingly" make a false statement to department investigators in October, 1950.

Cowart, on trial in U. S. District Court, is accused of making "false and fraudulent statements" when he said he had no interest in Baton Rouge (La.) Warehouse Co., Inc.

Cowart, testifying in his own behalf, said he honestly didn't believe he had any financial interest in the company at the time of his denial.

He explained he was allocated 163 shares of stock in the company after interesting Texans in buying the former Army engineering depot. The stock, he said, was put in the name of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Zoa Van Winkle, because some of the other stockholders suggested it not be put in his name because of his government job.

Cowart said he actually put up no money for the stock. Instead, he said, the stock was signed over to a Center, Tex. bank along with a promissory note for $4,075.

On Oct. 12, 1950, Cowart testified, he was notified each share of stock had been assessed $35 to improve the company's capital structure, and that the stock would revert to the company unless the assessment was paid by Oct. 27.

Since he lacked that much money, or funds to pay off the note, Cowart said he felt he had no financial interest in the company when he made his denial.

"I just kissed it goodbye," he said.

Later, however, Cowart testified, the assessment was rescinded and his 163 shares were sold to the banker who held the note for $17,500 plus 12 $400 monthly payments.

Cowart said he received the money.

The case is expected to reach the jury Monday.

Army, Air Force Open Oak Grove Recruiting Unit

OAK GROVE, Feb. 13 (Special)—An Army and Air Force recruiting sub-station has been opened here with the office located in the Court House building. The announcement of the new opening was made by Sgt. 1-c S. L. (Sam) Harrison, station commander.

The new station manager spent over four years as a recruiter for the Army and Air Force before being assigned with the Seventh Infantry Division, in Korea.

Sgt. Harrison is a veteran of 13 years with the Army and participated in the Guadalcanal and Bougainville campaigns during the last world war. He also participated in the White Horse Mountain and Kumhwa Ridge battles in Korea, where he was awarded the combat infantry badge, Purple Heart and commendation meal.

In addition to enlistments being open for regular Army and Air Force, Sgt. Harrison said, high school graduates may choose one of 52 technical schools before enlisting. Among these schools are auto mechanics, electronics, radio repair, deisel mechanics, clerk-typist and physical training instructor. High school graduates may also make application for aviation cadet or observer schools with the U. S. Air Force, he pointed out.

Harrison urged all interested parties living in the Bastrop, Oak Grove, Lake Providence and Tallulah areas to contact him at the Court House, Oak Grove.

Harrison said he would be in Bastrop each Tuesday and Thursday for the convenience of those residing in that area.

Cowart Admits He Made $22,300 In Warehouse Deal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Jack Cowart, former Agriculture Department official, testified today he received $22,300 from the sale of stock in a company in which he had denied having any financial interest.

But Cowart, 48, of Dallas, Tex., insisted he didn't "knowingly" make a false statement to department investigators in October, 1950.

Cowart, on trial in U. S. District Court, is accused of making "false and fraudulent statements" when he said he had no interest in Baton Rouge (La.) Warehouse Co., Inc.

Cowart, testifying in his own behalf, said he honestly didn't believe he had any financial interest in the company at the time of his denial.

He explained he was allocated 163 shares of stock in the company after interesting Texans in buying the former Army engineering depot. The stock, he said, was put in the name of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Zoa Van Winkle, because some of the other stockholders suggested it not be put in his name because of his government job.

Cowart said he actually put up no money for the stock. Instead, he said, the stock was signed over to a Center, Tex. bank along with a promissory note for $4,075.

On Oct. 12 1950, Cowart testified, he was notified each share of stock had been assessed $35 to improve the company's capital structure, and that the stock would revert to the company unless the assessment was paid by Oct. 27.

Since he lacked that much money, or funds to pay off the note, Cowart said he felt he had no financial interest in the company when he made his denial.

"I just kissed it goodbye," he said.

Later, however, Cowart testified, the assessment was rescinded and his 163 shares were sold to the banker who held the note for $17,500 plus 12 $400 monthly payments.

Cowart said he received the money.

The case is expected to reach the jury Monday.

Army, Air Force Open Oak Grove Recruiting Unit

OAK GROVE, Feb. 13 (Special)—An Army and Air Force recruiting sub-station has been opened here with the office located in the Court House building. The announcement of the new opening was made by Sgt. 1-c S. L. (Sam) Harrison, station commander.

The new station manager spent over four years as a recruiter for the Army and Air Force before being assigned with the Seventh Infantry Division, in Korea.

Sgt. Harrison is a veteran of 13 years with the Army and participated in the Guadalcanal and Bougainville campaigns during the last world war. He also participated in the White Horse Mountain and Kumhwa Ridge battles in Korea, where he was awarded the combat infantry badge, Purple Heart and commendation meal.

In addition to enlistments being open for regular Army and Air Force, Sgt. Harrison said, high school graduates may choose one of 52 technical schools before enlisting. Among these schools are auto mechanics, electronics, radio repair, deisel mechanics, clerk-typist and physical training instructor. High school graduates may also make application for aviation cadet or observer schools with the U. S. Air Force, he pointed out.

Harrison urged all interested parties living in the Bastrop, Oak Grove, Lake Providence and Tallulah areas to contact him at the Court House, Oak Grove.

Harrison said he would be in Bastrop each Tuesday and Thursday for the convenience of those residing in that area.

The Key In A Rusted Lock

The days, weeks and months which are upon this nation and will be, are combined to make a period of such importance to the human race, that mere man can but ponder as to his future. In the days gone by, days now buried beneath the sands of the desert, the waters of newly formed seas, humans were faced with all forms of destruction and peril. They were also forced to take part in wars and periodic tumult, but they were on what has been termed by economists as "the upgrade." In other words, man was striving for an end which has finally been reached by his modern counterparts.

The culmination is the formation of a great religion based on moral law and honesty before God.

Moreover, from a materialistic point of view, never were such heights reached by the hands of man. The arts, the sciences, the industries, and others are examples of this new civilization. Heretofore, man has depended upon his own resources to keep him alive. Now, he depends mainly upon the hypodermic needle, the heater in the winter and the air conditioner in the summer. So dependent has man become on these things, that he has used his own products in defense of the idea that he is supreme. In fact, there is a new religion based on the idea that man, not God, is supreme. So convincing is this religion, that it has spread all over the world. It spreads here in the United States.

Great civilizations in the past are mere relics in the museums. This is not to say that the past civilizations were not great ones. Scientifically, they were in some cases, farther advanced than the one in which you presently exist. Is there a contracting firm which could build a great pyramid of huge stones, so exact that it was impossible to insert a piece of tissue paper between the boulders when put into place?

Without the optical devices of today, how was it that the Greek astronomers were able to arrive at their hypotheses which are accepted as laws in the textbooks of every modern university? Because the motor industry, the aircraft industry and others are expanding today does not imply that modern man has actually surpassed his forebearers unless it be in modern conveniences.

However, today, man has what his ancient counterparts did not have and that one is a universal religion which teaches that each human is an individual before the eyes of a supreme being, God. One who believes in God, is a follower of the religion founded by him, and of choice believes in moral law.

The religion of God, universal which it is, has brought man to the culmination of the greatest pinnacle in the history of the human race. As in all pinnacles, the height is always reached. There appears then, a gate or a door which opens and leads into two roads. One road leads to progress and the other to mobocracy and degeneration. The gate is locked and must be first opened. The lock is rusty. The rust is the confusion and turmoil of today.

In past civilizations, man could gradually destroy the progress made by his own idiocy and incompetence. On the ashes of one "age" another could be constructed. In the final analysis, no previous civilization possessed (to the knowledge of the historians) the tools with which man could destroy not only a civilization, but himself and the machine of nature upon which he rides at breakneck speeds through the trackless wastes of time and space. That point has finally been reached.

The door, or the gate before which you presently stand is one which must be opened. Man cannot turn around and retrace his steps, merely allowing another civilization to dissolve. Unless the rust of confusion is penetrated by the oil of human decency and ingenuity, only destruction can await.

Consider now the roads on the other side of the door. One leads in the direction of progress through the individuality of man and his belief in moral law based on God and life ever after, while the other leads in the direction of mobocracy, belief that man is supreme and that the afterlife exists here on Earth. One is a true religion, a good, broad highway, while the other leads to a bridge which does not completely cross the stream.

Today, mankind is being buffeted by the engineers of the latter and dangerous road. The bridge ends in fiery destruction. Is there a man with a heart today who deep inside that heart does not know that one day he will have to face his past before the greatest court ever known? Even the most adroit students of Dialectical Materialism or Marxism have frequently been known on their death beds, to ask mercy of God, and forgiveness for all their sins.

Today, you stand before a door which is locked only in the mind. The key is there to turn if the rust could only be penetrated. In God alone is the energy to penetrate that rusty confusion and the turning of the key. Even after you open the door and pass onto what might seem to be a great new threshold as many new believers in God frequently do, the choice is there. Which road will you take? In which direction will you proceed?

In order to proceed down the road of life through God and belief in His moral laws, one must provide his own power through work, toil and effort. The broad highway is there for your use. The other way, mobocracy and degeneration, offers what seems also to be a broad highway and gives you the modern conveniences in which it would seem you could travel. Like so many dreams, it will end.

The American people today, through belief in God and the strength in that belief, must first open the door and then, choose the right road which returns to the fundamental laws of God. On you rest the hopes of the world. On you rests the future of the planet on which you thrive.

The choice is yours.

You have but to turn the key in a rusted lock.

St. Valentine's Day

Today is the day in which the perennial deluge of "valentines" is sent from house to house, city to city and sometimes, from nation to nation. The celebration of Valentine's day is an ancient one. It stemmed from the execution of a young Roman priest executed on February 14th, 270 AD for refusing to renounce the Christian Church.

It was not until about the year 1400 that the custom of sending communications in memory of the kind young Saint became popular. In the middle ages, the valentines were made by each sender and the impassioned poetry was the outpouring of the individual's own ideas. In the middle 1840's, an English firm actually began the commercial printing of the valentines and some of them were adorned with precious stones.

Great poets were hired by the wealthy to write the pleas of the lovesick on a piece of most expensive paper adorned with lace. In this nation, the "golden age" of valentines centered around the middle 1800's. Today, there is a split between the humorous and the more serious valentines. The great commercial printing houses have been prepared for months for this weekend. The candy companies and the flower shops are already deluged.

Valentines apparently have come to represent love. What a pity it is that there isn't a Valentine's day every day. The spirit of kindly St. Valentine could be the guiding light of civilization.

In any case, the question which is sent, perhaps not answered of age old terminology, "will you be my valentine?", is on the minds of nearly every young and some older Americans. It's a grand tradition and has a very deep meaning. It is hoped that St. Valentine's day does not become another casualty of the "modern times."

The Truth Brings Howls

Since the Bricker proposal (for instance) was brought up some weeks ago, the truth has been graphically presented to the American people even through the screen of propaganda and distortion against it. The facts concerning the extent to which the American sovereignty has been offered the foreign nations has been produced in example after example. The result has been howls from the internationalists camp, and screams from the "United Nations" and its allied associates.

Those who come in possession of the true state of affairs are rapidly deciding in favor of the Bricker proposal. Those aligned against the proposal are the main reasons for some conversions.

One of the voices of doom against the proposal asserted the other day that "all Democrats are against the Bricker Amendment". This of course, is a foolish statement and would almost be laughable if it was not for the danger of some people believing it. It is believed that there are as many if not more Democrats behind the proposal than are Republicans. This could be due to the fact there are more registered Democrats in the nation than Republicans although the actual figures are not known.

The Republican party has no monopoly on patriotism.

Many of its leaders have, in late years, proven stronger believers in the constitutional American governmental processes than have the Democrat leaders, but in general, the rank and file of the Democrat voters are just as patriotic as are the Republicans. The propaganda by the left wing press and by some ADA Democrats has attempted to point out that the GOP leaders are denouncing all Democrats as Communists which is far from the truth.

If the Republicans on Lincoln day speeches were correctly quoted, it would be found that they had denounced the past Democrat administrations as supporting the pro-Marxist ticket, a fact which is unfortunately true if the records of the White case and others are any indications of the facts.

No place in the United States, and this statement is made without qualification, and with the intention of almost a "dare", is as intensely patriotic as is the land within the borders of the Old Confederacy. Let the North scream its head off about the "reactionary south" but it is believed that the Bricker proposal would find more support in the south than in any other area.

As the south is predominately Democratic in political alignment, it stands to reason that all Democrats are certainly not left-wingers. No Republican has made such a statement.

Unfortunately, it is a known fact that the southern leaders no longer control the Democrat party. Instead, a few scalawag southerners and a hassel of pro-Socialist zealots now operate the national headquarters of the party. Does Governor Shivers sit in the highest councils? What about Senator Byrd? What about Governor Byrnes? What about Governor Kennon of this state? What about Governor Talmadge of Georgia?

The answer is clear, when the names of Hubert Humphries, Stephen Mitchell, Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., Adlai Stevenson, Harry S. Truman, Paul Douglas, Oscar R. Ewing, the dean of socialized medicine and others are brought into light. It is these men who time and time again have voiced beliefs other than those in the best interests of their southern party associates that now control the Democrat party. It is these people who for years, in control of the federal government, pulled the propaganda strings and kept the American people from knowing the actual facts.

For years, the adroit left winger, Elmer Davis was head of the government information bureau in the nation. He prevented the truth from coming out. Now, the Republicans know that they have dynamite in capital letters and they are hardly ready to halt its use. The Democrat national leaders are preparing for the worst and have petitioned the President to stop the clamor. In fact, they demanded that he slap his own party in the teeth by ordering it to stop the attack on the Democrat leadership. The President merely asked the leaders of the Republicans to stop "extreme" measures.

It was not.

The truth has brought howls. It will not hurt the Democrat voters for the simple reason that few of them were ever implicated with the Trumanites. The leaders are the suffering ones and they are merely receiving their just rewards. The truth indeed, brings howls.

Of Great Local Interest

This is an agricultural community whether many people realize it or not. What happens to the farmer effects in one manner or another, almost every citizen in the Twin Cities. The merchants and other business people are directly affected because if the farmer is poor, he is certainly not inclined to spend heavily unless it be on necessary staples.

The present situation as regards the administration's farm surplus program should be of interest not only to the farmers but to every businessman. It is reliably reported that next year's cotton quota (for instance), will be cut again. As cotton is of major importance in the area, someone will suffer if the quota is again slashed. The same thing applies to the butter industry, the wheat, the grain, the corn and all agricultural products under the present price support program. Yet, the government warehouses are flooded with the support products and the government technically owns enough cotton to make nearly everyone comfortable in long underwear.

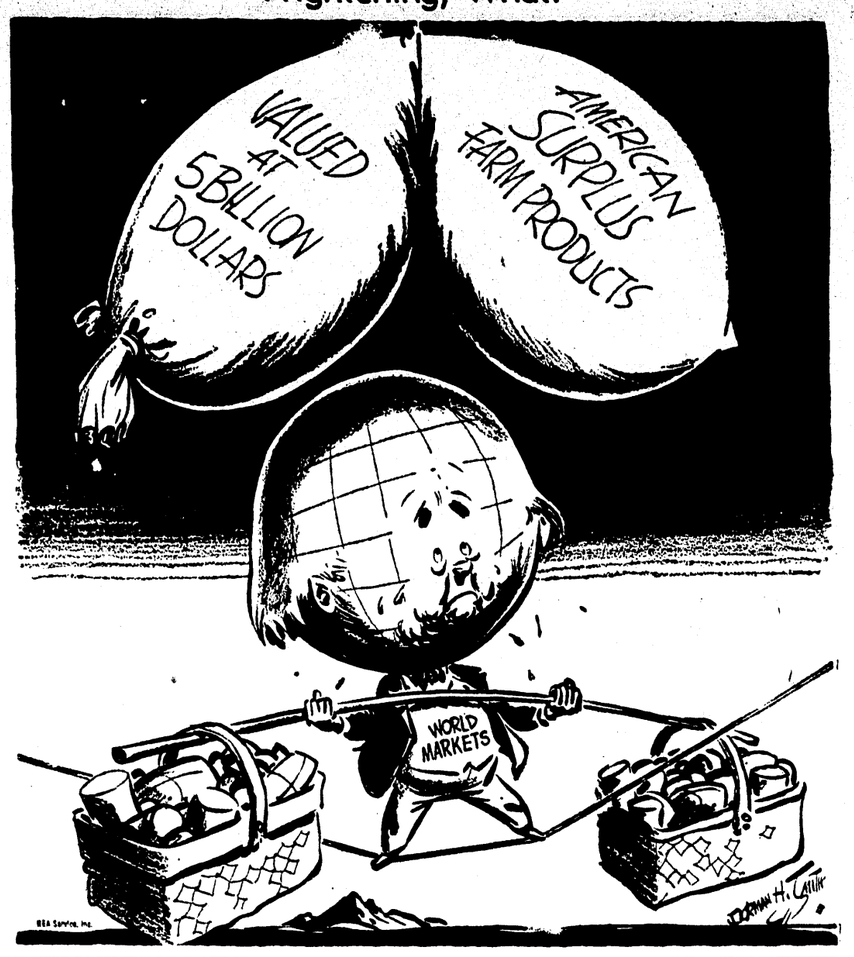

It is not hard to realize that something must be done to assist the situation. The cotton industry in a recent Atlanta meeting has decided to work hard on actually selling their product. In many advertisements, one scarcely sees cotton as a product advertised while the synthetic products are seen in the press, heard about on the radio and through the other various media of communication. The cotton industry, for one, has started an intensive research program in an effort to arrive at even better fabrics than are presently in production today. Industry leaders are planning an extensive advertising program to help sell the product.

In the case of butter, the producers and the wholesalers have merely priced their product off the market while hoping that the American people will pick up the tax bill for the surplus which is growing into an even greater pile every day. Some method must be had to make butter more attractive lest the margarine industry completely overtake and ruin the dairy industry as far as butter is concerned.

The surplus program needs a great amount of study. At present, the result of many years of government controls over the agricultural economy of the nation is finally coming to pass. The President is apparently determined to attempt the flexible program which indeed has great merit. There is unfortunately, no concrete solution in sight.

The farm situation is a most acute one and deserves the closest scrutiny by every citizen of this area.

South Will Never Support Republican Party

Rayville, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Recently there appeared an article in this paper relative to a new national party and expressing the idea for a two-party system in Louisiana.

I wholeheartedly endorse the idea because Louisiana could best be served by a strong two-party system. One party could serve as a check and balance weight on the other party. As for the Republican party in Louisiana, I agree with the writer, it is deader than a can of soured mackeral.

There are many reasons why the south will never enthusiastically support the Republican party. First, the people of the south are not likely to forget the reconstruction program of the black Republicans following the Civil War. Second, the south is predominately an agriculture section and has remained so for many years because of that black Republican reconstruction program. Third, the Republican leadership has, on more than one occasion, demonstrated its unwillingness or either its inability to cope with the problems of the common man.

As for the Democratic party, it like the Republicans, is controlled by the powerful money monopolies in the north and east and has been baptised in the sea of internationalism. Therefore it cannot speak for the common good of all Americans without first and last apologizing to its masters for doing so.

Our only mode of escape from a bad situation brought on by two old worn out parties is to organize a new national party dedicated to the principles of Jefferson and Lincoln They believed the eradication of poverty was a principle of democracy. They believed in improving our school system until any individual regardless how poor could obtain an education. They believed in equal and exact justice to all men. They believed in the common good of the common man. In fact, they practiced democracy in the pure and simple. When they entered the White House, stiff formality gave way to common simplicity.

They were American statesmen and Nationalist advocates. The leadership of today in both major parties are controlled lock, stock and barrel by the one worlders or internationalists. They have thrown billions of our dollars away on ill-designed oversea projects while thousands of American citizens have been destitute. Wil lthey never learn the simple lesson that charity begins at home?

Surplus Commodities

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

It is a known fact today that we have produced too much of everything and our surplus is piling up at a tremendous rate, in so much as it is baffling our government to know what to do with it. It is our No. one problem of today. The American people have solved our production problem. We can't consume what we have produced. The fact that our stock piles are increasing everyday is conclusive proof we have reached the saturation point as to production. The next thing is, what are we to do about a situation like this? Can we go on producing, in a situation of this kind?

The president said in a speech not long ago, that we could not destroy the surplus goods. He stated that course of action would be wrong and would serve no useful purpose. On this I agree.

How did this surplus accumulate, in the first place? Here's how it is. When we begin to set parity prices and support prices in order that the farmers and others might receive a fair price for the things they raise, then there is such an abundance of products raised, that it forces prices down to the point where the producer could not sell his produce at the low prices and come out. Then in order to protect the producers, the government had to step into the picture and buy up with government money all of the surplus goods to protect the producers; that is how the government came into possession of these tremendous stock piles that they now have and apparently don't know what to do with.

These surplus goods were bought with government money and that is money that belongs to all of the people—our tax dollars. We now have millions of dollars invested in surplus products of all kinds. It is, in fact, beginning to be a great burden for the American people to carry. Can we, as a people, continue to carry on like this year in and year out? Personally, I don't think we can. Do we want to go into bankruptcy with this kind of an experiment? I think not. This kind of an undertaking could eventually cause this nation to go broke. The government would have no money to go out into the markets and spend great quantities of money to buy surplus goods. If this should happen it would be the cause of millions of citizens going broke and losing everything they possess.

Last year when the cotton farmers produced a record 16,000,000 bale crop, if the government had not intervened, doubtlessly the farmer would have been forced to sell his crop below 15 cents a pound. That would have automatically broke every cotton raiser in the United States. Now it cost over 30 cents a pound to produce a pound of cotton, then how could they affort to take 15 cents per pound, or less? These are simple questions; it could possibly happen. All this artificial tinkering with prices and foolish experiments has not solved our problems or gotten us anywhere, but it has gotten us in trouble. We are "messed" up and we are unable to get out of the "mess". The worse may yet come. Who knows?

We had better let supply and demand rule the markets of the earth.

We had better get back to the natural laws of God and nature,

D. G. CHATHAM.

Valentine Prayer

I SAY a prayer of gratitude . . . That you are really mine . . . And may God always bless your soul . . . My loving valentine . . . God bless you for your faithfulness . . . And kindliness to me . . . And all the joy that I have known . . . In your sweet company . . . There is no other heart alive . . . As bountiful as yours . . . Or one in which the warmth of love . . . So ardently endures . . . You are my precious valentine . . . In every happy way . . . Not once a year but all around . . . The clock of every day . . . And so I say this grateful prayer . . . May God be good to you . . . And may my humble efforts help . . . To make your dreams come true.

Timmons In Washington

Political Parties Will Not Exchange Valentines Today

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A year ago, St. Valentine's day was the occasion for a figurative exchange of valentines between leading Democrats and Republicans in Congress. None will be passed back and forth on this anniversary of the beloved legendary figure. So far as the political parties of the United States are concerned, he might as well never have existed.

The current bitterness need never have come about. As in so many instances, the wave of reckless condemnation probably would not have happened had Senator Robert A. Taft lived. No new voice of experience has come forward to counsel moderation. On the Republican side, the amateurs have taken over, and aggrieved Democrats in House and Senate are resentful of what is being said about their party.

Some cynical observers say the exchange of insults is all part of an act, but in truth it is quite serious. Political name calling is frequent in government, and the Democrats have no clean record on that score. They used former President Hoover as their whipping boy for 20 years, and the Rebublicans are now retaliating with an attempt to cast former President Truman in the same role.

The amateurish thinking which now is evidenced in the White House itself, where Sherman Adams, assistant to the President—described by Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas Democratic leader of the House, as "the Administration's No. 2 man"—in a speech described Democrats who, he said, are trying to talk the country into a depression as "political sadists".

Sadism is defined by Webster's dictionary as "sexual perversion with cruelty" so that the term is not entirely without point in this instance, but certainly can be considered highly insulting.

A criticism of this sort does the country no good, at this or any other stage. It is regrettable that the bitterness which it has caused, may jeopardize the Administration's legislative program by influencing enough embittered Democrats to vote in opposition. Adams in the past has blurted out other uncomplimentary opinions, but none quite so senseless.

In fact, the attack seemed to be aimed chiefly at Adlai Stevenson, who has been the foremost Democrat to harp on a coming depression. Many Democrats in both Houses resent some of his remarks as much as do the Republicans. Beyond that, political debate over the state of the nation is as continuous today as it has been in every Congress of record.

Senator Joseph R. McCarthy had previously said at Charleston, W. Va. that "the hard fact is that those who wear the label—Democrat—wear it with the stain of a historic betrayal." Rep. Rayburn interpreted this as meaning that all Democrats were tinged with communism.

In the early 20s, when the GOP had only recently returned to power veteran reporters here can remember Representative Joseph Fordney, Michigan Republican who headed the Ways and Means Committee, waving his arms in the House and, facing the minority side, shouting "Dimmycrats" as a term of opprobrium, while the Democrats roared with laughter.

Those were also days of name calling, but not even when the Teapot Dome scandal broke in 1923-24 do old timers recall any partisan bitterness such as that which has swept over Congress today. Last year, Senator Taft kept it in check by working in harmony with Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader. But so far as can be learned, Senator William F. Knowland of California, the new and as yet untried Republican leader, has served no warning on other GOP leaders that unreasoning tirades against the Democrats may kickback on their party. If continued, they can result in an interparty feud which could lose them control of both Houses.

It has long been said that business men usually don't make good politicians. Up until recently the business men in this administration have stuck to their jobs and avoided party political discussions. But those who have talked, supposedly with the encouragement of President Eisenhower, have frequently been inept. In view of the report that all speeches must be cleared by the White House, the Democrats do not regard any of the speakers as irresponsible nor do they feel their remarks can be disclaimed by the White House.

The Key In A Rusted Lock

The days, weeks and months which are upon this nation and will be, are combined to make a period of such importance to the human race, that mere man can but ponder as to his future. In the days gone by, days now buried beneath the sands of the desert, the waters of newly formed seas, humans were faced with all forms of destruction and peril. They were also forced to take part in wars and periodic tumult, but they were on what has been termed by economists as "the upgrade." In other words, man was striving for an end which has finally been reached by his modern counterparts.

The culmination is the formation of a great religion based on moral law and honesty before God.

Moreover, from a materialistic point of view, never were such heights reached by the hands of man. The arts, the sciences, the industries, and others are examples of this new civilization. Heretofore, man has depended upon his own resources to keep him alive. Now, he depends mainly upon the hypodermic needle, the heater in the winter and the air conditioner in the summer. So dependent has man become on these things, that he has used his own products in defense of the idea that he is supreme. In fact, there is a new religion based on the idea that man, not God, is supreme. So convincing is this religion, that it has spread all over the world. It spreads here in the United States.

Great civilizations in the past are mere relics in the museums. This is not to say that the past civilizations were not great ones. Scientifically, they were in some cases, farther advanced than the one in which you presently exist. Is there a contracting firm which could build a great pyramid of huge stones, so exact that it was impossible to insert a piece of tissue paper between the boulders when put into place?

Without the optical devices of today, how was it that the Greek astronomers were able to arrive at their hypotheses which are accepted as laws in the textbooks of every modern university? Because the motor industry, the aircraft industry and others are expanding today does not imply that modern man has actually surpassed his forebearers unless it be in modern conveniences.

However, today, man has what his ancient counterparts did not have and that one is a universal religion which teaches that each human is an individual before the eyes of a supreme being, God. One who believes in God, is a follower of the religion founded by him, and of choice believes in moral law.

The religion of God, universal which it is, has brought man to the culmination of the greatest pinnacle in the history of the human race. As in all pinnacles, the height is always reached. There appears then, a gate or a door which opens and leads into two roads. One road leads to progress and the other to mobocracy and degeneration. The gate is locked and must be first opened. The lock is rusty. The rust is the confusion and turmoil of today.

In past civilizations, man could gradually destroy the progress made by his own idiocy and incompetence. On the ashes of one "age" another could be constructed. In the final analysis, no previous civilization possessed (to the knowledge of the historians) the tools with which man could destroy not only a civilization, but himself and the machine of nature upon which he rides at breakneck speeds through the trackless wastes of time and space. That point has finally been reached.

The door, or the gate before which you presently stand is one which must be opened. Man cannot turn around and retrace his steps, merely allowing another civilization to dissolve. Unless the rust of confusion is penetrated by the oil of human decency and ingenuity, only destruction can await.

Consider now the roads on the other side of the door. One leads in the direction of progress through the individuality of man and his belief in moral law based on God and life ever after, while the other leads in the direction of mobocracy, belief that man is supreme and that the afterlife exists here on Earth. One is a true religion, a good, broad highway, while the other leads to a bridge which does not completely cross the stream.

Today, mankind is being buffeted by the engineers of the latter and dangerous road. The bridge ends in fiery destruction. Is there a man with a heart today who deep inside that heart does not know that one day he will have to face his past before the greatest court ever known? Even the most adroit students of Dialectical Materialism or Marxism have frequently been known on their death beds, to ask mercy of God, and forgiveness for all their sins.

Today, you stand before a door which is locked only in the mind. The key is there to turn if the rust could only be penetrated. In God alone is the energy to penetrate that rusty confusion and the turning of the key. Even after you open the door and pass onto what might seem to be a great new threshold as many new believers in God frequently do, the choice is there. Which road will you take? In which direction will you proceed?

In order to proceed down the road of life through God and belief in His moral laws, one must provide his own power through work, toil and effort. The broad highway is there for your use. The other way, mobocracy and degeneration, offers what seems also to be a broad highway and gives you the modern conveniences in which it would seem you could travel. Like so many dreams, it will end.

The American people today, through belief in God and the strength in that belief, must first open the door and then, choose the right road which returns to the fundamental laws of God. On you rest the hopes of the world. On you rests the future of the planet on which you thrive.

The choice is yours.

You have but to turn the key in a rusted lock.

St. Valentine's Day

Today is the day in which the perennial deluge of "valentines" is sent from house to house, city to city and sometimes, from nation to nation. The celebration of Valentine's day is an ancient one. It stemmed from the execution of a young Roman priest executed on February 14th, 270 AD for refusing to renounce the Christian Church.

It was not until about the year 1400 that the custom of sending communications in memory of the kind young Saint became popular. In the middle ages, the valentines were made by each sender and the impassioned poetry was the outpouring of the individual's own ideas. In the middle 1840's, an English firm actually began the commercial printing of the valentines and some of them were adorned with precious stones.

Great poets were hired by the wealthy to write the pleas of the lovesick on a piece of most expensive paper adorned with lace. In this nation, the "golden age" of valentines centered around the middle 1800's. Today, there is a split between the humorous and the more serious valentines. The great commercial printing houses have been prepared for months for this weekend. The candy companies and the flower shops are already deluged.

Valentines apparently have come to represent love. What a pity it is that there isn't a Valentine's day every day. The spirit of kindly St. Valentine could be the guiding light of civilization.

In any case, the question which is sent, perhaps not answered of age old terminology, "will you be my valentine?", is on the minds of nearly every young and some older Americans. It's a grand tradition and has a very deep meaning. It is hoped that St. Valentine's day does not become another casualty of the "modern times."

The Truth Brings Howls

Since the Bricker proposal (for instance) was brought up some weeks ago, the truth has been graphically presented to the American people even through the screen of propaganda and distortion against it. The facts concerning the extent to which the American sovereignty has been offered the foreign nations has been produced in example after example. The result has been howls from the internationalists camp, and screams from the "United Nations" and its allied associates.

Those who come in possession of the true state of affairs are rapidly deciding in favor of the Bricker proposal. Those aligned against the proposal are the main reasons for some conversions.

One of the voices of doom against the proposal asserted the other day that "all Democrats are against the Bricker Amendment". This of course, is a foolish statement and would almost be laughable if it was not for the danger of some people believing it. It is believed that there are as many if not more Democrats behind the proposal than are Republicans. This could be due to the fact there are more registered Democrats in the nation than Republicans although the actual figures are not known.

The Republican party has no monopoly on patriotism.

Many of its leaders have, in late years, proven stronger believers in the constitutional American governmental processes than have the Democrat leaders, but in general, the rank and file of the Democrat voters are just as patriotic as are the Republicans. The propaganda by the left wing press and by some ADA Democrats has attempted to point out that the GOP leaders are denouncing all Democrats as Communists which is far from the truth.

If the Republicans on Lincoln day speeches were correctly quoted, it would be found that they had denounced the past Democrat administrations as supporting the pro-Marxist ticket, a fact which is unfortunately true if the records of the White case and others are any indications of the facts.

No place in the United States, and this statement is made without qualification, and with the intention of almost a "dare", is as intensely patriotic as is the land within the borders of the Old Confederacy. Let the North scream its head off about the "reactionary south" but it is believed that the Bricker proposal would find more support in the south than in any other area.

As the south is predominately Democratic in political alignment, it stands to reason that all Democrats are certainly not left-wingers. No Republican has made such a statement.

Unfortunately, it is a known fact that the southern leaders no longer control the Democrat party. Instead, a few scalawag southerners and a hassel of pro-Socialist zealots now operate the national headquarters of the party. Does Governor Shivers sit in the highest councils? What about Senator Byrd? What about Governor Byrnes? What about Governor Kennon of this state? What about Governor Talmadge of Georgia?

The answer is clear, when the names of Hubert Humphries, Stephen Mitchell, Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., Adlai Stevenson, Harry S. Truman, Paul Douglas, Oscar R. Ewing, the dean of socialized medicine and others are brought into light. It is these men who time and time again have voiced beliefs other than those in the best interests of their southern party associates that now control the Democrat party. It is these people who for years, in control of the federal government, pulled the propaganda strings and kept the American people from knowing the actual facts.

For years, the adroit left winger, Elmer Davis was head of the government information bureau in the nation. He prevented the truth from coming out. Now, the Republicans know that they have dynamite in capital letters and they are hardly ready to halt its use. The Democrat national leaders are preparing for the worst and have petitioned the President to stop the clamor. In fact, they demanded that he slap his own party in the teeth by ordering it to stop the attack on the Democrat leadership. The President merely asked the leaders of the Republicans to stop "extreme" measures.

It was not.

The truth has brought howls. It will not hurt the Democrat voters for the simple reason that few of them were ever implicated with the Trumanites. The leaders are the suffering ones and they are merely receiving their just rewards. The truth indeed, brings howls.

Of Great Local Interest

This is an agricultural community whether many people realize it or not. What happens to the farmer effects in one manner or another, almost every citizen in the Twin Cities. The merchants and other business people are directly affected because if the farmer is poor, he is certainly not inclined to spend heavily unless it be on necessary staples.

The present situation as regards the administration's farm surplus program should be of interest not only to the farmers but to every businessman. It is reliably reported that next year's cotton quota (for instance), will be cut again. As cotton is of major importance in the area, someone will suffer if the quota is again slashed. The same thing applies to the butter industry, the wheat, the grain, the corn and all agricultural products under the present price support program. Yet, the government warehouses are flooded with the support products and the government technically owns enough cotton to make nearly everyone comfortable in long underwear.

It is not hard to realize that something must be done to assist the situation. The cotton industry in a recent Atlanta meeting has decided to work hard on actually selling their product. In many advertisements, one scarcely sees cotton as a product advertised while the synthetic products are seen in the press, heard about on the radio and through the other various media of communication. The cotton industry, for one, has started an intensive research program in an effort to arrive at even better fabrics than are presently in production today. Industry leaders are planning an extensive advertising program to help sell the product.

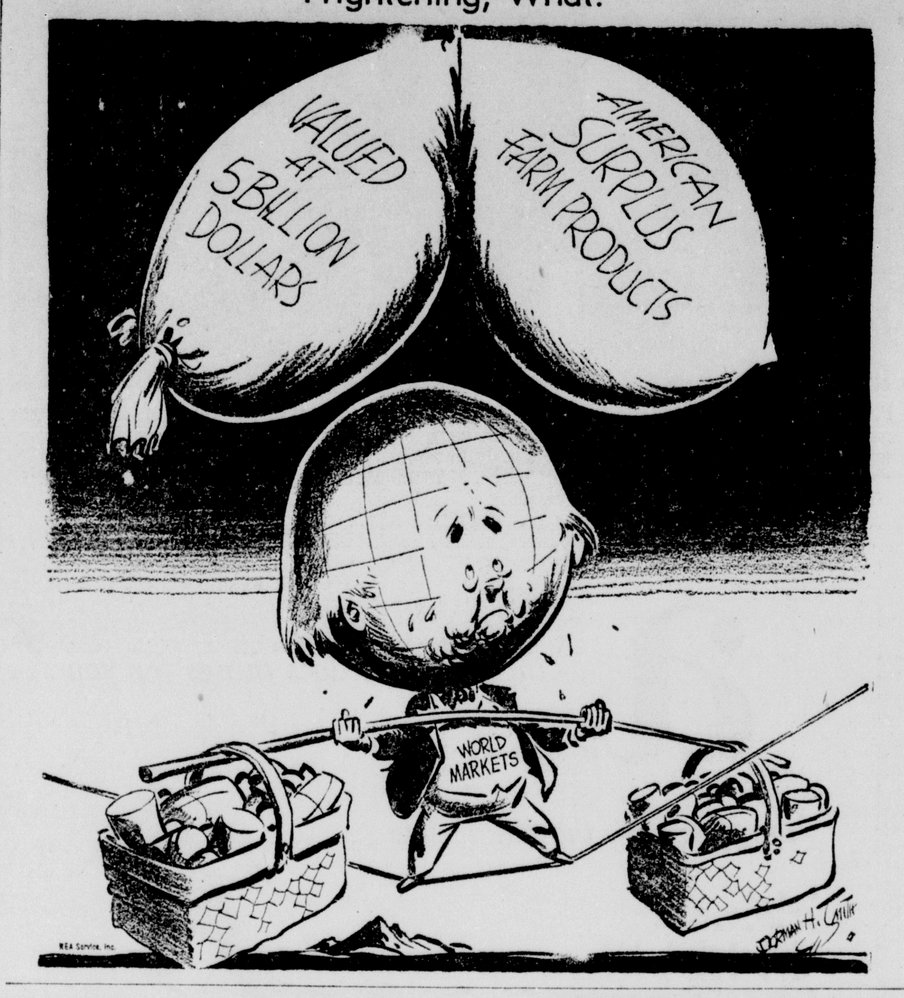

In the case of butter, the producers and the wholesalers have merely priced their product off the market while hoping that the American people will pick up the tax bill for the surplus which is growing into an even greater pile every day. Some method must be had to make butter more attractive lest the margarine industry completely overtake and ruin the dairy industry as far as butter is concerned.

The surplus program needs a great amount of study. At present, the result of many years of government controls over the agricultural economy of the nation is finally coming to pass. The President is apparently determined to attempt the flexible program which indeed has great merit. There is unfortunately, no concrete solution in sight.

The farm situation is a most acute one and deserves the closest scrutiny by every citizen of this area.

Frightening, What?

South Will Never Support Republican Party

Rayville, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Recently there appeared an article in this paper relative to a new national party and expressing the idea for a two-party system in Louisiana.

I wholeheartedly endorse the idea because Louisiana could best be served by a strong two-party system. One party could serve as a check and balance weight on the other party. As for the Republican party in Louisiana, I agree with the writer, it is deader than a can of soured mackeral.

There are many reasons why the south will never enthusiastically support the Republican party. First, the people of the south are not likely to forget the reconstruction program of the black Republicans following the Civil War. Second, the south is predominately an agriculture section and has remained so for many years because of that black Republican reconstruction program. Third, the Republican leadership has, on more than one occasion, demonstrated its unwillingness or either its inability to cope with the problems of the common man.

As for the Democratic party, it like the Republicans, is controlled by the powerful money monopolies in the north and east and has been baptised in the sea of internationalism. Therefore it cannot speak for the common good of all Americans without first and last apologizing to its masters for doing so.

Our only mode of escape from a bad situation brought on by two old worn out parties is to organize a new national party dedicated to the principles of Jefferson and Lincoln They believed the eradication of poverty was a principle of democracy. They believed in improving our school system until any individual regardless how poor could obtain an education. They believed in equal and exact justice to all men. They believed in the common good of the common man. In fact, they practiced democracy in the pure and simple. When they entered the White House, stiff formality gave way to common simplicity.

They were American statesmen and Nationalist advocates. The leadership of today in both major parties are controlled lock, stock and barrel by the one worlders or internationalists. They have thrown billions of our dollars away on ill-designed oversea projects while thousands of American citizens have been destitute. Wil lthey never learn the simple lesson that charity begins at home?

Surplus Commodities

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

It is a known fact today that we have produced too much of everything and our surplus is piling up at a tremendous rate, in so much as it is baffling our government to know what to do with it. It is our No. one problem of today. The American people have solved our production problem. We can't consume what we have produced. The fact that our stock piles are increasing everyday is conclusive proof we have reached the saturation point as to production. The next thing is, what are we to do about a situation like this? Can we go on producing, in a situation of this kind?

The president said in a speech not long ago, that we could not destroy the surplus goods. He stated that course of action would be wrong and would serve no useful purpose. On this I agree.

How did this surplus accumulate, in the first place? Here's how it is. When we begin to set parity prices and support prices in order that the farmers and others might receive a fair price for the things they raise, then there is such an abundance of products raised, that it forces prices down to the point where the producer could not sell his produce at the low prices and come out. Then in order to protect the producers, the government had to step into the picture and buy up with government money all of the surplus goods to protect the producers; that is how the government came into possession of these tremendous stock piles that they now have and apparently don't know what to do with.

These surplus goods were bought with government money and that is money that belongs to all of the people—our tax dollars. We now have millions of dollars invested in surplus products of all kinds. It is, in fact, beginning to be a great burden for the American people to carry. Can we, as a people, continue to carry on like this year in and year out? Personally, I don't think we can. Do we want to go into bankruptcy with this kind of an experiment? I think not. This kind of an undertaking could eventually cause this nation to go broke. The government would have no money to go out into the markets and spend great quantities of money to buy surplus goods. If this should happen it would be the cause of millions of citizens going broke and losing everything they possess.

Last year when the cotton farmers produced a record 16,000,000 bale crop, if the government had not intervened, doubtlessly the farmer would have been forced to sell his crop below 15 cents a pound. That would have automatically broke every cotton raiser in the United States. Now it cost over 30 cents a pound to produce a pound of cotton, then how could they affort to take 15 cents per pound, or less? These are simple questions; it could possibly happen. All this artificial tinkering with prices and foolish experiments has not solved our problems or gotten us anywhere, but it has gotten us in trouble. We are "messed" up and we are unable to get out of the "mess". The worse may yet come. Who knows?

We had better let supply and demand rule the markets of the earth.

We had better get back to the natural laws of God and nature.

Valentine Prayer

I SAY a prayer of gratitude . . . That you are really mine . . . And may God always bless your soul . . . My loving valentine . . . God bless you for your faithfulness . . . And kindliness to me . . . And all the joy that I have known . . . In your sweet company . . . There is no other heart alive . . . As bountiful as yours . . . Or one in which the warmth of love . . . So ardently endures . . . You are my precious valentine . . . In every happy way . . . Not once a year but all around . . . The clock of every day . . . And so I say this grateful prayer . . . May God be good to you . . . And may my humble efforts help . . . To make your dreams come true.

Timmons In Washington

By Bascom N. Timmons

Political Parties Will Not Exchange Valentines Today

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A year ago, St. Valentine's day was the occasion for a figurative exchange of valentines between leading Democrats and Republicans in Congress. None will be passed back and forth on this anniversary of the beloved legendary figure. So far as the political parties of the United States are concerned, he might as well never have existed.

The current bitterness need never have come about. As in so many instances, the wave of reckless condemnation probably would not have happened had Senator Robert A. Taft lived. No new voice of experience has come forward to counsel moderation. On the Republican side, the amateurs have taken over, and aggrieved Democrats in House and Senate are resentful of what is being said about their party.

Some cynical observers say the exchange of insults is all part of an act, but in truth it is quite serious. Political name calling is frequent in government, and the Democrats have no clean record on that score. They used former President Hoover as their whipping boy for 20 years, and the Rebublicans are now retaliating with an attempt to cast former President Truman in the same role.

The amateurish thinking which now is evidenced in the White House itself, where Sherman Adams, assistant to the President—described by Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas Democratic leader of the House, as "the Administration's No. 2 man"—in a speech described Democrats who, he said, are trying to talk the country into a depression as "political sadists".

Sadism is defined by Webster's dictionary as "sexual perversion with cruelty" so that the term is not entirely without point in this instance, but certainly can be considered highly insulting.

A criticism of this sort does the country no good, at this or any other stage. It is regrettable that the bitterness which it has caused, may jeopardize the Administration's legislative program by influencing enough embittered Democrats to vote in opposition. Adams in the past has blurted out other uncomplimentary opinions, but none quite so senseless.

In fact, the attack seemed to be aimed chiefly at Adlai Stevenson, who has been the foremost Democrat to harp on a coming depression. Many Democrats in both Houses resent some of his remarks as much as do the Republicans. Beyond that, political debate over the state of the nation is as continuous today as it has been in every Congress of record.

Senator Joseph R. McCarthy had previously said at Charleston, W. Va. that "the hard fact is that those who wear the label—Democrat—wear it with the stain of a historic betrayal." Rep. Rayburn interpreted this as meaning that all Democrats were tinged with communism.

In the early 20s, when the GOP had only recently returned to power veteran reporters here can remember Representative Joseph Fordney, Michigan Republican who headed the Ways and Means Committee, waving his arms in the House and, facing the minority side, shouting "Dimmycrats" as a term of opprobrium, while the Democrats roared with laughter.

Those were also days of name calling, but not even when the Teapot Dome scandal broke in 1923-24 do old timers recall any partisan bitterness such as that which has swept over Congress today. Last year, Senator Taft kept it in check by working in harmony with Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader. But so far as can be learned, Senator William F. Knowland of Calfiornia, the new and as yet untried Republican leader, has served no warning on other GOP leaders that unreasoning tirades against the Democrats may kickback on their party. If continued, they can result in an interparty feud which could lose them control of both Houses.

It has long been said that business men usually don't make good politicians. Up until recently the business men in this administration have stuck to their jobs and avoided party political discussions. But those who have talked, supposedly with the encouragement of President Eisenhower, have frequently been inept. In view of the report that all speeches must be cleared by the White House, the Democrats do not regard any of the speakers as irresponsible nor do they feel their remarks can be disclaimed by the White House.

Ouachita Group Gets 20 Minutes To Show Facts

The Ouachita River Valley has been allotted 20 minutes before the house subcommittee on appropriations on the morning of February 17 at 10 o'clock to present publicly its request for civil functions appropriations for the fiscal year 1955. H. K. Thatcher, executive vice - president of the association, will leave for Washington over the Trans-Texas Airways Sunday morning to present the Ouachita River appropriation request. He will be joined in Washington by Theo G. Preston, marine manager of the Commercial Solvents Corporation of New York City. It is not known at this time whether anyone will go to Washington specifically representing the Little Missouri River project.

According to Mr. Thatcher, 20 minutes is a very short time in which to present such important matters as the development projects of the Ouachita River and its tributaries and, for this reason, it takes months of preparation beforehand. Full and complete detailed reports have been prepared on all phases of development in the Ouachita River basin and these will be presented to the Congress through the appropriations committee.

The Ouachita River basin fared very well with regard to budget requests made by the Eisenhower administration. The budget request for $446,500 for the maintenance of the present locks and dams and the dredging of the navigable portion of the river is the largest recommended in many years. Other items are treated equally well, including a $492,000 request for the completion of the Little Missouri River flood control project, $2,367,710 for the completion of the Blakely Mt. Dam and $1,727,000 for continued drainage work in northeastern Louisiana and southeastern Arkansas. Budget requests are not appropriations and do not become appropriations unless the people affected by the various projects exhibit a considerable amount of interest by their appearance before the budget committees and otherwise contacting Congressmen and Senators.

The present administration has made no budget requests for starting the DeGray dam and the construction of the modern nine-foot navigation channel on the Ouachita River. Requests for these projects will be made by Mr. Thatcher and his committee appealing directly to the Congress for an initial appropriation.

The Ouachita River Valley Association committee will be assisted before the budget committee by Congressman Oren Harris, Congressman W. F. Norrell and Congressman Otto Passman in the house and by Arkansas and Louisiana senators when the matter is presented to the senate appropriations committee. Senator John L. McClellan, senior senator from Arkansas, is on the appropriations committee and has for many years sponsored civil functions work in the Senate and he is in a position to be of more aid to the Ouachita River project.. than any other man in Congress. Senator McClellan has arranged for the Ouachita River Valley Association Committee to be heard before the Senate Appropriations committee on the morning of February 18 at 11:20 o'clock.

Operation 2,000 In Nat'l Guard Proving Success

"Operation 2,000," the Louisiana National Guard's intensive recruiting drive, is coming along nicely, according to word today from Maj. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming, Louisiana Adjutant General.

In the past five weeks new enlistments have numbered 610 with a net gain of 483 men. Transfers and discharges and other attrition accounted for the other 127 men.

General Fleming reported that some units of the Louisiana Guard have topped 100 per cent strength and can no longer enlist new men. Company G of the 156th at New Iberia is not only up to strength but now has 17 men on a waiting list, ready to join whenever there is an opening.

Last night in New Orleans a total of 33 prospective recruits for the 122nd Light Bombardment Squadron signed up for pre-enlistment physical examinations. The two battalions of the famed Washington Artillery at Jackson Barracks today reported 41 new enlistments since February 1.

"Operation 2,000" is expected to put the Louisiana National Guard out in front of the National Guards of all 48 states and the District of Columbia in percentage of authorized strength attained. South Carolina is in first place, Louisiana now in second place.

In New Orleans enlistments are now being accepted by various units at Jackson Barracks, by anti-aircraft units at Camp Nichols on Bayou St. John and by Air National Guard and engineer aviation units at New Orleans Airport.

Louisiana National Guard units are located in every major city and town of the state. There are nearly 100 units of company or battery size spread among 43 separate communities in the state.

Governor Robert F. Kennon has proclaimed the entire month of February as "Join the National Guard Month." Mayors in many cities and towns have issued similar proclamations.

Jack Hayeses To Be Honored Here

The Ouachita Parish Alumni Association will hold an informal open house at the Frances Hotel here Wednesday between 5 and 7 p.m. in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hayes, formerly of Monroe but now residing in Corydon, Ky.

Hayes, who is now visiting in Monroe with his wife, was principal of Ouachita Parish High School here 41 years but has been living in Corydon since his retirement five years ago.

Mrs. Elizabeth Manheim, teacher at Ouachita, said not only members of the alumni association but all of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes' friends are invited to attend the open house.

Mrs. Hayes was librarian at the school while her husband was principal.

French Warplanes Pound Rebels In Nam Bac Valley

LUANG PRABANG, Laos, Feb. 13—UP—Heavy losses were inflicted Friday on Communist-led Viet Minh invaders in the jungled river valleys north of Luang Prabang by French - piloted American - made warplanes, the French high command announced.

Fighters and B-26 attack bombers joined in raids against "large enemy concentrations" spotted in the precipitious Nam Bac River valley some 35 miles north of here.

A considerable number of France's precious force of some 200 combat planes, many of which are kept flying by American aviation technicians, made the raids.

The Red invasion, mounted by the elite 308th "Iron" Division, was reported to have been slowed during the past 24 hours. The rebels were reported regrouping and restocking with food and water. The main enemy units were said to be still some 25 miles from this "city of golden pagados."

Reports filtering down from the tangled mountain and jungle country said the advancing Reds are systematically pillaging what is left in the villages burned by the French in their scorched earth withdrawal to the fortifications of this city.

Returning pilots said the Reds were slaughtering water buffalo, the natives most prized possession, for food. Refugees said the Communists demanded food from natives on pain of death.

Closer to this royal Laotian capital, the guerrilla screens faded back. They had harassed French union defenses during the past two days; patrols failed to contact any of the guerrilla bands in widespread probes around the defense perimeter.

ROY ACUFF AND THE SMOKY MOUNTAIN BOYS

Roy Acuff Will Show Here With 'Mountain Boys'

"The King of Mountain Music," Roy Acuff and his Smoky Mountain Boys, are scheduled to appear in person in Monroe at Neville auditorium Friday for both matinee and night performances. Traveling in their own DC-3 airplane, "The Roy Acuff-WSM Grand Ole Opry Special," the show troupe, which also includes Dot and Smoky is slated to land at Selman Field early in the morning on February 19.

The Acuff show, known to millions by radio, recordings and the movies, is currently touring the nation each week between regular appearances on the WSM Grand Ole Opry each Saturday night. They fly back to Nashville, Tenn., each week.

Acuff, who, despite much fine competition, still retains the number one spot in the hearts of America's lovers of folk music, brings a great show to the stage of Neville auditorium. Pap and his band, Bashful brother Oswald, Jimmy Riddle, Tommy Magness, Joe Zinkan and Jesse Easterday, all topnotchers in their own right, join with Roy to make the show a real folk music event. Dot and Smoky, also on the bill, are one of radio's best duet teams, lending real harmony to many of the best known songs.

It's a show that no one in Monroe will want to miss, regardless of age. Tickets are now on sale at Howard Bros. Jewelry Store and Dew Music Co., with a limited number remaining. This show is sponsored by the Monroe Lions Club, and proceeds are used by the club in their many and various fields of civic activity.

Negro Held On Robbery Charge

A 36-year-old Monroe Negro was being held in county jail here Saturday morning, accused of slugging and robbing a local man of $10 and a leather jacket.

The Negro is Dave Beckworth of 602 North 7th street, who was arrested and booked on charges of robbery at 9:30 p.m. Friday.

According to Chief of Detectives Hugh Tolbert, Beckworth was arrested in Ross Ladart's bar after Fred Sterrett, 48, of 610 Wilson reported to police he was robbed.

Sterrett told investigating officers he was walking down a street in Bryant's addition about 2:15 p.m. Friday when a Negro walked up to him, hit him over the eye with his fist, and took the jacket and the money.

Beckworth was arrested, the detective chief said, after officers learned he was seen with the coat in a local grocery during the afternoon.

Fort Miro Chapter Of D. A. R. Unveils Marker

Members of the Fort Miro chapter of the D. A. R. marked the 40th anniversary of its founding and paid tribute to Baron de Bastrop, as colonizer of this entire area, by unveiling a marker at Pargoud boulevard and Stewart Street, Saturday afternoon. Members of the Abraham Morehouse chapter of Bastrop were special guests.

Mrs. Charles M. Mitchell gave the address of unveiling which was in part as follows:

"It is with great pleasure that Ft. Miro Chapter National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution welcome you to participate with them in the unveiling of the marker commemorating the Spanish Land Grant of the Baron de Bastrop and the marking of the site which played an important role in the early history of the Ouachita Valley in the period 1796 to 1851.

"On June 20, 1796, the Baron de Bastrop petitioned Baron Carondolet, governor general of the Spanish Province of Louisiana, for permission to bring immigrants into the Ouachita Valley. In the petition he stated that the immigrants would raise wheat and that he would construct flour mills. He asked that a tract of land twelve leagues square be set aside to receive his settlers.

"On June 21 the governor, being impressed with the petition of the Baron de Bastrop, wrote Don Juan Filhiol, commandant of the Ouachita, to designate the twelve leagues square upon which the settlers would be located.

"On June 14, 1797 Carlos Trudeau, Royal Surveyor of the Province, transmitted to Governor Carondolet the plat of the survey and on June 20th, Governor Carondolet confirmed the concession to the Baron de Bastrop together with a plat of the survey. One of the articles of the concession was that the Spanish government provide maintenance to the settlers for the first year and also to furnish them with seed.

"When the Baron de Bastrop came up to Ouachita Valley from New Orleans he was accompanied by the three Breard brothers, Alexander, Auguste and Breville and their sister Sophie. There are many of the Breard descendants still in our midst, occupying prominent places in the business and social life of our community.

"After coming up to Ouachita, now Monroe, the Baron went to Kentucky to secure settlers, in all he brought in upwards of one hundred fifty settlers."

Friend Seeking Whereabouts Of Lois Burkhart

Assistance in locating the former Miss Lois Burkhart, whose address during the war was given as 809 Alabama Street, Monroe, was asked in a letter received by the Monroe police department from Mrs. Ann Eakin of Paramus, N. J.

Mrs. Eakin, the former Ann Ballerino, is seeking a reunion of those who served with her in the WACs during the war. She stated she had lost contact with her friend.

Miss Burkhart, the letter stated, married while at Barksdale field, near Shreveport, but became a widow shortly afterward, and Mrs. Eakin does not know her present name.

Youth Taken To Hospital After Auto Overturns

A fast-moving, out-of-control automobile early Saturday morning overturned on the Loop road between Pargoud Boulevard and the Sterlington highway, and the 17-year-old driver was treated at St. Francis hospital for shock.

The driver was Rex Dillingham of 212 Sherrouse, a student in a local school. He was taken to the hospital in a Mulhearn funeral home ambulance, suffering from shock, but was released later Saturday morning. He was apparently alone in the car.

Police said the accident occurred about 12:15 a.m. Saturday while Dillingham's 1950 Plymouth was heading east toward the Sterlington highway on the Loop road.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $500.

Cong. Passman Will Address Women Voters

Congressman Otto E. Passman will be the principal speaker at a general meeting of the Monroe League of Women Voters, slated for the Frances Hotel Monday evening. The dinner-meeting will begin at 6:45 p. m.

Rep. Passman will discuss "The National Budget, Taxation, and the State of the Economy of the Nation." This address is slated for approximately 7:45 p. m.

The league is presenting Rep. Passman as a community service and all interested citizens should hear him discuss this vital subject, Mrs. Laverne Riddle, president, said. Passman is a member of the house appropriations committee, which plays a key role in deciding how much the federal government should spend and for what this money goes.

Passman will be introduced by Mrs. A. Dent Tisdale, program chairman for the meeting.

Local league members have been studying this budgetary item in discussion groups during this month. The item is on the current agenda at the national level of government.

Reservations for the dinner may be made with Mrs. Guy DuPriest, telephone 3-6471, before the deadline at 9 a.m. Monday.

RICHARD HELLER

Naval Tests Are Passed By Heller At College Here

Richard Heller, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Heller of this city, and president of the senior class at St. Matthew's High School, recently passed successfully the first set of examinations issued by the Naval Reserve Officers Training corps. Preliminary tests were taken at Northeast Louisiana State College and followed by further examinations in Little Rock on January 28.

Acceptance of a student in the NROTC gives him the privilege and choice of entering under government scholarship any of 52 colleges in the nation. Further, the scholarship guarantees a full 4-year college course and upon graduation the rank of a commissioned officer in the United States Navy. Because of his interest in the chemical engineering field, Dick is contemplating Rice University as his future alma mater.

Transient Held As Suspect In Setting Fires

Monroe firemen, understandably annoyed when they answered alarms on two box car fires at the same location at different times Friday night, have accused Harry L. Darby, 42-year-old Alabama transient, of setting at least one of them.

Saturday, Darby was being held in jail on vagrancy and trespassing charges and an investigation was being conducted to determine whether arson charges should be filed, Monroe Chief of Detectives Hugh Tolbert said.

Firemen received the first report of a fire in a box car at South 2nd and Railroad at 8:55 p.m. Friday, rushed to the scene and extinguished the fire within a short time.

At 11:25 p.m., they answered a second call to the same location and doused another fire in another box car.

This time, however, according to Tolbert, they also nabbed Darby and turned him over to police. Tolbert said Darby had apparently been clambering into the cars, then setting the fires to keep warm.

Damage was slight in both fires

Ouachita Group Gets 20 Minutes To Show Facts

The Ouachita River Valley has been allotted 20 minutes before the house subcommittee on appropriations on the morning of February 17 at 10 o'clock to present publicly its request for civil functions appropriations for the fiscal year 1955. H. K. Thatcher, executive vice - president of the association, will leave for Washington over the Trans-Texas Airways Sunday morning to present the Ouachita River appropriation request. He will be joined in Washington by Theo G. Preston, marine manager of the Commercial Solvents Corporation of New York City. It is not known at this time whether anyone will go to Washington specifically representing the Little Missouri River project.

According to Mr. Thatcher, 20 minutes is a very short time in which to present such important matters as the development projects of the Ouachita River and its tributaries and, for this reason, it takes months of preparation beforehand. Full and complete detailed reports have been prepared on all phases of development in the Ouachita River basin and these will be presented to the Congress through the appropriations committee.

The Ouachita River basin fared very well with regard to budget requests made by the Eisenhower administration. The budget request for $446,500 for the maintenance of the present locks and dams and the dredging of the navigable portion of the river is the largest recommended in many years. Other items are treated equally well, including a $492,000 request for the completion of the Little Missouri River flood control project, $2,367,710 for the completion of the Blakely Mt. Dam and $1,727,000 for continued drainage work in northeastern Louisiana and southeastern Arkansas. Budget requests are not appropriations and do not become appropriations unless the people affected by the various projects exhibit a considerable amount of interest by their appearance before the budget committees and otherwise contacting Congressmen and Senators.

The present administration has made no budget requests for starting the DeGray dam and the construction of the modern nine-foot navigation channel on the Ouachita River. Requests for these projects will be made by Mr. Thatcher and his committee appealing directly to the Congress for an initial appropriation.

The Ouachita River Valley Association committee will be assisted before the budget committee by Congressman Oren Harris, Congressman W. F. Norrell and Congressman Otto Passman in the house and by Arkansas and Louisiana senators when the matter is presented to the senate appropriations committee. Senator John L. McClellan, senior senator from Arkansas, is on the appropriations committee and has for many years sponsored civil functions work in the Senate and he is in a position to be of more aid to the Ouachita River project than any other man in Congress. Senator McClellan has arranged for the Ouachita River Valley Association Committee to be heard before the Senate Appropriations committee on the morning of February 18 at 11:20 o'clock.

Operation 2,000 In Nat'l Guard Proving Success

"Operation 2,000," the Louisiana National Guard's intensive recruiting drive, is coming along nicely, according to word today from Maj. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming, Louisiana Adjutant General.

In the past five weeks new enlistments have numbered 610 with a net gain of 483 men. Transfers and discharges and other attrition accounted for the other 127 men.

General Fleming reported that some units of the Louisiana Guard have topped 100 per cent strength and can no longer enlist new men. Company G of the 156th at New Iberia is not only up to strength but now has 17 men on a waiting list, ready to join whenever there is an opening.

Last night in New Orleans a total of 33 prospective recruits for the 122nd Light Bombardment Squadron signed up for pre-enlistment physical examinations. The two battalions of the famed Washington Artillery at Jackson Barracks today reported 41 new enlistments since February 1.

"Operation 2,000" is expected to put the Louisiana National Guard out in front of the National Guards of all 48 states and the District of Columbia in percentage of authorized strength attained. South Carolina is in first place, Louisiana now in second place.

In New Orleans enlistments are now being accepted by various units at Jackson Barracks, by anti-aircraft units at Camp Nichols on Bayou St. John and by Air National Guard and engineer aviation units at New Orleans Airport.

Louisiana National Guard units are located in every major city and town of the state. There are nearly 100 units of company or battery size spread among 43 separate communities in the state.

Governor Robert F. Kennon has proclaimed the entire month of February as "Join the National Guard Month." Mayors in many cities and towns have issued similar proclamations.

Jack Hayeses To Be Honored Here

The Ouachita Parish Alumni Association will hold an informal open house at the Frances Hotel here Wednesday between 5 and 7 p.m. in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hayes, formerly of Monroe but now residing in Corydon, Ky.

Hayes, who is now visiting in Monroe with his wife, was principal of Ouachita Parish High School here 41 years but has been living in Corydon since his retirement five years ago.

Mrs. Elizabeth Manheim, teacher at Ouachita, said not only members of the alumni association but all of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes' friends are invited to attend the open house.

Mrs. Hayes was librarian at the school while her husband was principal.

French Warplanes Pound Rebels In Nam Bac Valley

LUANG PRABANG, Laos, Feb. 13—UP—Heavy losses were inflicted Friday on Communist-led Viet Minh invaders in the jungled river valleys north of Luang Prabang by French - piloted American - made warplanes, the French high command announced.

Fighters and B-26 attack bombers joined in raids against "large enemy concentrations" spotted in the precipitious Nam Bac River valley some 35 miles north of here.

A considerable number of France's precious force of some 200 combat planes, many of which are kept flying by American aviation technicians, made the raids.

The Red invasion, mounted by the elite 308th "Iron" Division, was reported to have been slowed during the past 24 hours. The rebels were reported regrouping and restocking with food and water. The main enemy units were said to be still some 25 miles from this "city of golden pagados."

Reports filtering down from the tangled mountain and jungle country said the advancing Reds are systematically pillaging what is left in the villages burned by the French in their scorched earth withdrawal to the fortifications of this city.

Returning pilots said the Reds were slaughtering water buffalo, the natives most prized possession, for food. Refugees said the Communists demanded food from natives on pain of death.

Closer to this royal Laotian capital, the guerrilla screens faded back. They had harassed French union defenses during the past two days; patrols failed to contact any of the guerrilla bands in widespread probes around the defense perimeter.

Louisiana's Delegation Splits On Ike's Kindness

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (Special) —A mirror held up to Washington's bubbling political caldron this week would have reflected widely varied reaction among the Louisiana delegation to President Eisenhower's so-called "be kind to the Democrats" advice to the Republicans.

From the state's junior senator, Russell Long, came the declaration, "My whole attitude is that I never have asked for any quarter from the Republicans and I don't expect to receive any."

Senator Long added that he feels he can take care of himself, that others here can do the same, and those who can't take care of themselves may find someone else taking their places.

He observed that "McCarthy has been following the line of villifying the Democrats for a long time. But I'm sure he'd excuse any Democrat who voted for a Republican for president."

"It's a two-way street," was the comment of Congressman Edward Hebert of New Orleans.

"The whole trouble is exaggeration on both sides for political gain. I certainly think the Democrats had a right to complain at the things that were said. I think the Republicans had the right to complain about the propaganda being put out by the Democratic National Committee and press agents, which distort, misconstrue, misinterpret and practice the 'big lie' against Mr. Eisenhower. I don't condone this type of action in any party and it is an example of how hatred can be spread by extremeness in either party," continued Hebert.

He concluded, "It is about time we all get back on a sane basis of evaluation. It is refreshing to know that Mr. Eisenhower as president acted in the manner in which he did and didn't hesitate to condemn individuals in his own party for having done something so patently wrong. Truman would have called it a 'red herring'."

The President's statement came at a very appropriate time, according to Congressman Overton Brooks of Shreveport, "just before the beginning of a heavy legislative schedule."

"It will undoubtedly have an effect on administration bills in Congress where party strength is practically tied. The President's statement also is historically appropriate. This week we observed Lincoln's birthday. Lincoln said, in his Gettysburg address, 'with malice toward none and charity for all. . let us strive to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds.' President Eisenhower's overture to the Democrats might well be accepted in this light," he asserted.

Approving "completely" with Ike, Congressman Hale Boggs of New Orleans said the President's advice was "very fine and shows real statesmanship."

Also approving of the President's efforts was Congressman Ashton Thompson of Ville Platte.

He said, "The President is certainly sincere in trying to stop the rat alley type of tirades. It is just unfortunate that some members of his own party insist on being politicians of the past instead of builders of the future."

Congressman George Long of Pineville thinks "President Eisenhower was right," and that he doesn't think the Democratic party is a party of traitors.

"There are good, patriotic citizens in both parties. I think President Eisenhower's statement was grand and everybody ought to be happy. . .These are time when we have a lot to do. All Americans ought to stand together. It doesn't behoove either party to villify the other," he ended.

Three Peafowls New Residents Of Monroe Zoo

Commissioner of Streets and Parks Wayne Huckaby announced yesterday Mrs. Aline Bannister had donated a trio of peafowls to the city zoo in Bernstein Park. The trio of birds included a male, not quite three years old, and two females, less than a year old. Huckaby pointed out that they have not yet reached full plumage.

The birds have been placed in the zoo yard.

Huckaby also said the Department of Streets and Parks, in conjunction with the Monroe Recreation Board, will construct a softball diamond on the eastern side of the park. He added that the diamond is expected to be completed in time to be open to the public this summer.

Playing dates and time for usage of the ball diamond will have to be scheduled through the Recreation Department.

Additional land, in a growth of cypress trees in the northeast corner of the park is also being cleared for use by the public.

Friday morning J. C. James began planting shrubs and making other improvements on the wishing well in the park. Others taking part in the work included Mrs. Buddy Tolson, Mrs. Jack Rushing, Jr., and Mrs. Carl Thompson.

Sergeant Luther Into Retirement After N. E. Tour

M-Sgt. Marshall K. Luther has retired from service after two years of duty with the Northeast State Military Department. He had been active in the army over twenty-one years and at the local college since January 1952.

Luther is now affiliated with a life insurance company in Albany, Georgia, where his wife and nine-year-old daughter, Gloria Jean, accompanied him to make their new home.

A native of Tennessee, the retired sergeant enlisted late in 1932 at Fort Benning, Ga. During his career he served as a first lieutenant for three and a half years in the European Theater in World War II. Following re-enlistment as a master sergeant, he spent sixteen and a half months in Korea.

Luther is the holder of the European Service Ribbon and six battle stars, among other decorations.

Vast Search On For Racing Yacht

ACAPULCO, Mex., Feb. 13—UP—A vast air and sea search was underway Saturday for the American racing yacht Dirigo II crippled in a tropical storm off Mexico's west coast Monday and missing since Thursday.

All ships from Acapulco southward to Panama were alerted to be on the lookout for the 60-foot two-masted schooner commanded by owner - captain James W. Crawford, St. Petersburg, Fla. The yacht ran into trouble after competing in the San Diego to Acapulco yacht race.

Four American Air Force planes from Albrook Field, Panama, and two air-sea rescue planes from San Diego were also assigned to the search. The Panama planes are being based in Guatemala and the San Diego planes are flying from Mexico City.

Elias Navarro, chief Mexican communications ministry radio monitor here, said a strong north wind kicking up thick spray limited visibility to six miles in the area 250 miles south of Acapulco where the yacht was believed to be.

Dirigo II was in radio communication with Acapulco after signalling for aid. But its last message was received here Thursday.

Green Resigns As Police Chief In Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 13—UP—Joe H. Green has confirmed that he has resigned as chief of the Baton Rouge police force.

The resignation followed action of the city council in turning the entire police department problem over to Mayor-President Jesse Webb Jr.

The council told Webb in a statement issued after numerous closed sessions that Green's resignation appeared to be a requisite to reorganization of the department, which has been under fire for some time.

Most likely candidate as a successor to Green appeared to be Louie A. Jones, former state police major and one-time warden at Louisiana state penitentiary.

Two other men, Perry M. Johnson and J. B. Sevario, are still on the eligibility list from which Green was named last year, but Johnson said he was "not interested" and Sevario said "no one has said anything to me about it. He declined further comment.

Subsidizing Of Industry Hit By Sen. Ellender

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La) said tonight the government should not attempt to subsidize "uneconomical northern industries."

"Either new, more suitable industries should be developed or—harsh as it may sound—these people should take their skills to areas which require them," he said.

The "cold hard facts," Ellender said, are that the textile industries of the northeastern states have "existed too far from their source of raw products."

"They were located in New England, while they depended upon the cotton fields of the Deep South for their basic materials. These uneconomical industries were kept afloat by virtue of a system of discriminatory freight rates, high protective tariffs, and sweatshop labor.

Ellender, in an address prepared for delivery in his home state, said he would oppose "any efforts by selfish northern interests to return the South to the status of a conquered province."

He said he would fight any proposal to use federal funds to subsidize "uneconomical northern industries, whether this proposal come in the form of an increase in the minimum wage, hidden tax benefits, through the negotiation of contracts rather than their being awarded on the basis of low bid, or any other medium."

Threat Of Floods Grows In Italy

The Tiber River overflowed its banks north of Rome and a dike of the mighty Pro River collapsed at Stienta, in the Polesine area where 273 persons were drowned in the 1951 floods.

Traffic was blocked on flooded roads north of Rome when the Tiber poured over its banks in the Marsciano mountain area near Perugia.

Heavy crop damage was reported as the muddy swirling Tiber waters spread over 6,000 acres, covering them to a depth of up to three feet.

Biography Writing Contest

First prize will be the cost of a four-year tuition. The winner will be reimbursed for his previous years of expense at the institution in which he presently is enrolled.

Second prize will be $500. Third place winner will be awarded $300; fourth place, $200, and fifth place, $150.

The contest is directed and sponsored by the American Institute of Management. All manuscripts become the property of the Institute.

Most outstanding biography profiles will be printed in National Biographic Magazine.

Subjects must be listed in the 1952-53, Volume 27 of Who's Who in America" or in Volume 28, which will be in circulation March 1. Manuscripts may range from 6,000 to 8,000 words and will be judged on style, content and neatness.

The manuscripts are to be submitted in triplicate so that they may be considered for next year's awards.

Students must signify their intention of entering the contest on or before March 15 and designate the subject of their manuscript. Deadline for entries is May 15.

Firetruck Stolen At Abata Springs

The truck was stolen last midnight from the firehouse and was found abandoned on U. S. Highway 61 south of Baton Rouge. Volunteer firemen were sent out about noon to pick it up.

$300,000 School Bond Issue Voted In Winn Parish

WINNFIELD, Feb. 13 (Special) —Eugene F. Love, superintendent of schools in Winn Parish revealed today that a $300,000 bond issue won by a majority vote.

The bond issue and property tax will finance the construction of new gymnasiums, additional class rooms, home economic cottages, installation of new heating systems and other major items in Winn Parish.

In the voting today, Winn Parish citizens voted 27 against the bond issue, representing property assessment in the amount of $62,830.

For the proposed bond issue for improvements on the parish educational system, 229 votes were cast for the issue, representing a property assessment of $494 290. The bond issue will cost property owners about six mills tax on the dollar for a period of fifteen years.

Love said that the voting Saturday ran about nine to one in favor of the proposal.

Work is scheduled to begin after the advertisement for the sale of bonds. The superintendent of Winn Parish school system said that the work will "probably start in three to four months."

Vast Search On For Racing Yacht

ACAPULCO, Mex., Feb. 13—UP —A vast air and sea search was underway Saturday for the American racing yacht Dirigo II crippled in a tropical storm off Mexico's west coast Monday and missing since Thursday.

All ships from Acapulco southward to Panama were alerted to be on the lookout for the 60-foot two-masted schooner commanded by owner - captain James W. Crawford, St. Petersburg, Fla. The yacht ran into trouble after competing in the San Diego to Acapulco yacht race.

Four American Air Force planes from Albrook Field, Panama, and two air-sea rescue planes from San Diego were also assigned to the search. The Panama planes are being based in Guatemala and the San Diego planes are flying from Mexico City.

Elias Navarro, chief Mexican communications ministry radio monitor here, said a strong north wind kicking up thick spray limited visibility to six miles in the area 250 miles south of Acapulco where the yacht was believed to be.

Dirigo II was in radio communication with Acapulco after signalling for aid. But its last message was received here Thursday.

Sidney Freeman, W. M. Merchant, Is Dead At 62

Funeral services for Sidney Freeman, 62, of 311 Cotton Street, West Monroe, who died of a cerebral hemorrhage Saturday afternoon, will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. from the First Baptist Church in West Monroe, with Rev. Jaroy Weber, pastor, officiating.

Freeman, a life-long resident of West Monroe, was a member of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe. A World War I veteran, serving overseas during that war, he was an active member of the West Monroe Veterans Post. He was past commander of the West Monroe post. He was well known as a farmer and grocer.

The body will remain in the chapel of Hall Funeral Home until 1 p.m. Sunday, at which time it will be moved to the church where it will lie in state until time for funeral services.

Interment, under the direction of Hall Funeral Home, will be in Hasley cemetery, West Monroe.

Freeman is survived by his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Lavinia Gulledge, Monroe; one brother, Silas Freeman, Mansfield; three sisters, Mrs. Sadie Averett and Mrs. Sallie Sears, West Monroe and Mrs. J. H. Milling, Dallas, Tex.; and one grandchild, Ronald Stephens, Monroe.

Active pallbearers will be Jack McElroy, Odie Lindsey, John Pennington, Leon Prestwood, Elmer Hargrove, and Jesse S. Heard.

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 13—UP—Joe H. Green has confirmed that he has resigned as chief of the Baton Rouge police force.

The resignation followed action of the city council in turning the entire police department problem over to Mayor-President Jesse Webb Jr.

The council told Webb in a statement issued after numerous closed sessions that Green's resignation appeared to be a requisite to reorganization of the department, which has been under fire for some time.

Most likely candidate as a successor to Green appeared to be Louie A. Jones, former state police major and one-time warden at Louisiana state penitentiary.

Two other men, Perry M. Johnson and J. B. Sevario, are still on the eligibility list from which Green was named last year, but Johnson said he was "not interested" and Sevario said "no one has said anything to me about it. He declined further comment.

Subsidizing Of Industry Hit By Sen. Ellender

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La) said tonight the government should not attempt to subsidize "uneconomical northern industries."

"Either new, more suitable industries should be developed or—harsh as it may sound—these people should take their skills to areas which require them," he sail.

The "cold hard facts," Ellender said, are that the textile industries of the northeastern states have "existed too far from their source of raw products."

"They were located in New England, while they depended upon the cotton fields of the Deep South for their basic materials. These uneconomical industries were kept afloat by virtue of a system of discriminatory freight rates, high protective tariffs, and sweatshop labor.

Ellender, in an address prepared for delivery in his home state, said he would oppose "any efforts by selfish northern interests to return the South to the status of a conquered province."

He said he would fight any proposal to use federal funds to subsidize "uneconomical northern industries, whether this proposal come in the form of an increase in the minimum wage, hidden tax benefits, through the negotiation of contracts rather than their being awarded on the basis of low bid, or any other medium."

Threat Of Floods Grows In Italy

The Tiber River overflowed its banks north of Rome and a dike of the mighty Pro River collapsed at Stienta, in the Polesine area where 273 persons were drowned in the 1951 floods.

Traffic was blocked on flooded roads north of Rome when the Tiber poured over its banks in the Marsciano mountain area near Perugia.

Heavy crop damage was reported as the muddy swirling Tiber waters spread over 6,000 acres, covering them to a depth of up to three feet.

Biography Writing Contest

First prize will be the cost of a four-year tuition. The winner will be reimbursed for his previous years of expense at the institution in which he presently is enrolled.

Second prize will be $500. Third place winner will be awarded $300; fourth place, $200, and fifth place, $150.

The contest is directed and sponsored by the American Institute of Management. All manuscripts become the property of the Institute.

Most outstanding biography profiles will be printed in National Biographic Magazine.

Subjects must be listed in the 1952-53, Volume 27 of Who's Who in America" or in Volume 28, which will be in circulation March 1. Manuscripts may range from 6,000 to 8,000 words and will be judged on style, content and neatness.

The manuscripts are to be submitted in triplicate so that they may be considered for next year's awards.

Students must signify their intention of entering the contest on or before March 15 and designate the subject of their manuscript. Deadline for entries is May 15.

Firetruck Stolen At Abata Springs

The truck was stolen last midnight from the firehouse and was found abandoned on U. S. Highway 61 south of Baton Rouge. Volunteer firemen were sent out about noon to pick it up.

$300,000 School Bond Issue Voted In Winn Parish

WINNFIELD, Feb. 13 (Special) —Eugene F. Love, superintendent of schools in Winn Parish revealed today that a $300,000 bond issue won by a majority vote.

The bond issue and property tax will finance the construction of new gymnasiums, additional class rooms, home economic cottages, installation of new heating systems and other major items in Winn Parish.

In the voting today, Winn Parish citizens voted 27 against the bond issue, representing property assessment in the amount of $62,830.

For the proposed bond issue for improvements on the parish educational system, 229 votes were cast for the issue, representing a property assessment of $494 290. The bond issue will cost property owners about six mills tax on the dollar for a period of fifteen years.

Love said that the voting Saturday ran about nine to one in favor of the proposal.

Work is scheduled to begin after the advertisement for the sale of bonds. The superintendent of Winn Parish school system said that the work will "probably start in three to four months."

Home Building Shows Decline

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 —UP— Work was started on 66,000 new non-farm homes last month, a decline of three per cent from December and eight per cent from a year ago, the government reported Saturday.

The number of privately-financed housing starts also declined three per cent from December to a total of 64,700, five per cent less than a year ago.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the weather was more favorable for construction work in January 1953, and also that private home-building was at a relatively high level then following the relaxation of mortgage credit controls.

Allowing for seasonal factors, the bureau said private home starts in January was at an annual rate of 1,078,000, the second highest rate since March, 1953.

Coon Proclaims National Crime Prevention Week

Monroe Mayor John E. Coon Saturday proclaimed the observance of National Crime Prevention week in Monroe during the week of Feb. 14 through Feb. 20.

The National crime prevention week is sponsored by the National Exchange Club and Bill Goldsmith is chairman of the local Exchange Club crime prevention committee.

The mayor's proclamation, which was signed in Goldsmith's presence follows:

"Whereas, the greatest crime is the tolerance of crime and citizens must be aroused to the dangers of the rising crime wave in order to combat the problem effectively; and

"Whereas, the National Exchange Club has initiated National Crime Prevention Week, the seventh annual observance of which is bieng held this year, for the purpose of renewing the fight against crime and keeping the public alert to this ever-present danger; and

"Whereas, the local observance of National Crime Prevention week is being sponsored by the Exchange Club of Monroe, La., with the cooperation of law enforcement agencies, churches, schools, and other civic groups;

"Now, Therefore, I, John E. Coon, Mayor of the City of Monroe, La. do hereby proclaim the observance of National Crime Prevention Week February 14 through 20, 1954, and do urge all citizens of this city to do their utmost to interest themselves in this educational program and to support all agencies and efforts to put down crime and the breeding of crime in this community."

Government Rests In Gulf Shrimper Anti-Trust Suit

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 13 (AP)—The government rested its anti-trust case against the Gulf Coast Shrimpers' and Oystermen's Association following testimony by State Sen. Hermes Gautier.

Gautier, who said he has been in the ice and freezing business in Pascagoula since 1919, told of activities there during the 1951 fishermen's strike.

On July 7, when the picketing began, Gautier said his car was halted at the dock gates by pickets shouting that he caused the strike by bringing out-of-state fishermen into Pascagoula.

He said he wasn't permitted to pass until Louis Simmons, president of the association, came to his aid. Gautier testified that Simmons was the only one he could identify as a member of the association.

Earlier, Nick French, a Pass Christian seafood packer, testified that several times he was forced to close his plant because of the association's high prices on seafood. He said if he had remained open, he would have realized no profit.

A former member of the association, French told the court he had attended association meetings to discuss prices, "but usually they (the association) set the price and that was it."

Pat Hester, a Pascagoula boat owner, testified he had been fined by the association for not taking part in the 1951 strike. He said he had been asked to participate, but illness prevented his doing so.

Others testifying today were Nick Mavar of Mavar Shrimp and Oyster Co. Ltd., and W. W. Gillis of B. Taltavull Shrimp and Oyster Co., both of Biloxi.

Gillis was questioned regarding a fine imposed on his company by the association in 1951. He said the company was fined its share of the proceeds from a catch one of its boats made against the association's regulations.

Judge Sidney C. Mize recessed court until 9:30 a.m. Monday.

Monroe Girl Returns From European Trip

Not only did Miss Margaret Kalil, daughter of Mrs. Fred Kalil, Sr., attain great heights as a soprano, but she also attained a knowledge of the people in various European countries where she lived and visited.

After more than a year away from the United States Miss Kalil remarked in a very expressive voice "We only realize what a wonderful country America is when we leave and have a chance to compare it with others."

Speaking in contrast she said, "America is a young and vigorous country whereas the European countries are old and a lot of the vigor has been lost. To America progress is taken in one's stride, whereas in Europe progress is a mechanism curtailing a lot of hard work."

While in Italy Miss Kalil worked in the Italian opera with La Scala, DeAngelis and Baxastrop maestros in Milan. She further made radio appearances on the Italian National Radio and a solo with organ in the Pantheon at Rome.

Miss Kalil's main objective in Europe was perfection of her soprano voice. Her maestro was Enrico Pessina, Italian radio and opera coach in Southern Europe and Switzerland.

The Maestros with whom she worked were recommended by the tenor Tito Schipa, of Metropolitan and LaScala fame, with whom she discussed many phases of singing and operatic interpretation.

Auditions took Miss Kalil to Vienna, one of the international spots of unrest. Enroute the train, upon entering a Soviet section of Austria, was stopped at several check points, and it was common to see armed Soviet soldiers pass through the train along the way. She also traveled to Bonn, Germany, capital of West Germany, for auditions. In Bonn she visited the home of Beethoven and had the occasion to sound a few notes on his piano from which some of his most famous music was composed.

Some of the sights which Miss Kalil viewed were the leaning tower of Pisa in Tuscony, attended all opera performances at the famous LaScala Opera House in Milano, the grand opera house in Paris, Arch de Triumph, Eiffel Tower, the original Mona Lisa painting at the Louvre in Paris, St. Peters Basilicia in Rome, and many famous religious sculptures of Michael-Angelo, The Colosseum, the ancient arena, the Catacombs and the remains of the Roman forum.

In Vienna she visited the famous castles of the Hofburgs and Schonbrunns in Milan she saw the original painting of The Last Supper by Leonardo da Vinci at the rectory of the church of Santa Maria delle Grazie, and in Venice she attended the High Mass in the beautiful Byzantine structure.

Miss Kalil's descriptions of the many places she visited are very full and the ones mentioned above are only a few of those which she took time to study very carefully.

On her return trip home Miss Kalil performed on board the Andrea Doria, an Italian steamer, in duets with baritone colleague Laurence Malfatti, also returning to America after radio and opera work in Switzerland. She also performed on board the Italian Liner S. S. Homeland en route to Milan in concert with orchestra members of the San Carlo opera company of Naples.

Miss Kalil received a music diploma from Northeast Junior College and her first voice study was done with Estelle Sanders, of Monroe. She studied with Paul Althouse while attending Columbia University in New York where she received a B. S. and M. A. degree in Music and Music Education. While in New York working on her degrees Miss Kalil appeared in radio, concert and opera appearances.

To climax the European tour which she made Miss Kalil added "All of my wonderful experiences were climaxed as the ship sailed into the harbor of New York and before me stood the Statue of Liberty representing a freedom loving nation with a way of life unequaled throughout the whole world."

Miss Kalil's future plans include some concert and opera work, a possible New York debut recital in Town Hall and the imparting with her vocal and musical knowledge through teaching.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SUE SHARMAN

"Craig's Wife," a tense inviting satire on human nature, has been chosen for the fourth Little Theatre production this year.

First readings and tryouts for the play will be held this Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening, February 15 through the 17, 8 p.m. at the Selman Field Playhouse.

A three act drama written by George Kelly, "Craig's Wife" won the Pulitzer Prize when it was first presented and Hollywood has come up with at least two popular screen versions of it's theme. The play is a study of contemporary character. Mrs. Craig is a full length portrait of a woman of tremendous power, who, through selfishness, succeeds in driving out of her home, her husband, her husbands' friends and her own relatives.

A cast of six women and four men will be chosen during the three nights of try-outs. The roles include Mrs. Craig, a dynamic woman somewhere between 30 and 35; Mr. Criag, also in his early 30s; Miss Austin (Mr. Craig's aunt) probably in her 50s; Mrs. Harold, a housekeeper, also 50ish; Mazie, a young maid; Ethel Landreth, Mrs. Craig's niece, who is about 23; Mrs. Frazier, the woman next door, who could be about 40; Billy Birkmire, a friend of Mr. Craig, between 30 and 35; Joseph Catelle, police detective, 25 to 40; and Eugene Fredericks, Ethel's boyfriend about 27.

The play has one set and the entire action happens between 5:30 p.m. one afternoon and 9 o'clock the next morning.

The public is cordially invited to attend try-outs this Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening. Though you have never acted before, let that not be a stumbling block to hold you back from a rich and interesting experience in theatre. Just this last Thursday evening, "Be Your Age" was held over for an eighth night of production and Little Theatre members are still glowing from all of the wonderful praise and enthusiastic applause that acclaimed it one of the best productions to ever be presented at the Selman Field Playhouse. In the cast of "Be Your Age," out of ten actors and actresses, only two had ever had any appreciable experience.

Maybe, you or you or you will be the brilliant new discovery for "Craig's Wife."

RANDOM NOTES — The former Frances Ritter, who made her Little Theatre stage debut at Selman Field as the coy maid in "Angel Street", has moved with her husband John Reardon from Seattle, Washington to Birmingham, Ala. They were visited this weekend by her mother Mrs. Frances Ritter and brother A. J. The Reardons will welcome their first baby this March . . . .Gee! 'twas nice to hear Garland Shell's familiar voice on the telephone again early Saturday morning. Welcome home Ann and Garland Shell, who have been honeymooning in the east . . . . Don't mss the Northeast Louisiana League of Artists's first art exhibit of 1954, which will be held at the Art Shop on Louisville, today from 2:30 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. There will be between 75 and 100 paintings on exhibition and they include pictures by League members as well as some by local high school students and a few professional.

LITTLE THEATRE EXTRA . . . Stepping out to claim an ever wider scope in it's Twin City endeavor, Little Theatre will offer something new and different, when director Thom Feuerstein inaugurates a class in public speaking at the Playhouse on Monday evening February 15.

This should prove great news for Little Theatre members and their friends, for they will have an opportunity to learn Public Speaking along with the many other phases of theatre work and at the same time the individuals own possibilities will be explored and developed.

Interwoven with this course will be speech and voice correction and preparation for an individual to meet and face an audience will be taught through drama. Pantomine acting and short speeches will be the basis of the course. In addition to work on voice and diction there will be exercises in movement that will develop poise in the individual.

This integration of abilities is keyed to aid the participant in his work in evryday life. Good poise and speaking ability are not only essential to success in the business world but they are a definite advantage to one's social life.

The class depending on the convenience of the members will meet one or two nights a week, from 6 p.m. putil 8 p.m. and will continue for 16 or more sessions, depending on the progress of the group.

Monday evening, February 15, the doors of Little Theatre Playhouse will open at 7 p.m., to hold the first organizational meeting of the special public speaking class. It is one of those, once in a life time, opportunities for those people who have always thought they'd like to do something about their speaking ability and stage presence.

King Henry I of England established the length of the yard as the distance from the end of his nose to the tip of his thumb.

"More than 500 blind corners were tabulated in the Monroe-West Monroe city limits," Chamber of Commerce Traffic Chairman Harry Frazer said, "as a result of final checks on the recent survey conducted by pep-squads of the Twin City high schools along with city beautification board members."

An immediate follow - up on the results of the survey are presently being made by the Chamber of Commerce and West Monroe Businessman's Association. The chamber is contacting property owners in Monroe while the W. M. Businessman's Association is handling all blind-query's in West Monroe.

"Over 850 man - hours in actual survey time has been spent on this Twin City blind corner survey project," Chamber Secretary Jim Williams exclaimed, "this does not take into consideration some three weeks of advance planning where school pep - squad leaders and police officials held briefing and extra - curricula sessions on the events."

"Our follow-up methods," Chairman Frazer stated, "will consist of a letter pointing out to the property owners that in the initial survey overgrown or heavy types of shrubbery, etc., was noted; which appeared to be causing a danger-area relative to safe traffic. Too, the full cooperation of the city in removing or cutting - back the shrubs is offered for the convenience of the property owner."

It was pointed out that this was the "initial" survey made; and, that a secondary re-check would also be conducted.

The full cooperation of the city of Monroe's engineering and streets departments has been assured in immediately working with property owners in coping with the plants obliterating intersection approaches.

"In our letter from the Chamber of Commerce that is going into the mails on Monday," Frazer asserted, "we are actually appealing to the civic minded side of the property owners and are offering them three basic means of action."

Property owners are asked to either cooperate with the city crews (which upon invitation will come on the owner's premises and work towards removing or pruning back the shrubs) or to personally trim back the shrubbery.

"We are not overlooking any possibilities in this matter," Frazer said, "and upon request of the property owner we will gladly conduct a resurvey upon the particular intersection if the individual feels that an error has been committed."

Thursday, February 18th, has been set as a deadline to clarify owner - participation in the voluntary shrubbery - removal project.

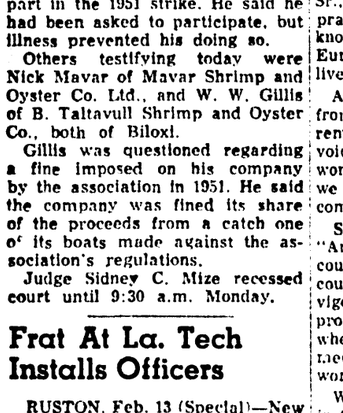

Chamber officials expressed the hope that while the weather was ideal for pruning and replanting that the entire job of corner-clearing could be accomplished.

"We feel this way," Frazer said, "if through our committee project efforts that from an accident angle we can prevent a series of traffic collisions which may have accrued due to poor visibility on the various blind - corners, that our project has been a success in every respect."

A secondary report will be given to the citizens of the Twin Cities immediately after responses from property owners have been received, chamber officials asserted.

Government Rests In Gulf Shrimper Anti-Trust Suit

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 13 (AP)—The government rested its anti-trust case against the Gulf Coast Shrimpers' and Oystermen's Association following testimony by State Sen. Hermes Gautier.

Gautier, who said he has been in the ice and freezing business in Pascagoula since 1919, told of activities there during the 1951 fishermen's strike.

On July 7, when the picketing began, Gautier said his car was halted at the dock gates by pickets shouting that he caused the strike by bringing out-of-state fishermen into Pascagoula.

He said he wasn't permitted to pass until Louis Simmons, president of the association, came to his aid. Gautier testified that Simmons was the only one he could identify as a member of the association.

Earlier, Nick French, a Pass Christian seafood packer, testified that several times he was forced to close his plant because of the association's high prices on seafood. He said if he had remained open, he would have realized no profit.

A former member of the association, French told the court he had attended association meetings to discuss prices, "but usually they (the association) set the price and that was it."

Pat Hester, a Pascagoula boat owner, testified he had been fined by the association for not taking part in the 1951 strike. He said he had been asked to participate, but illness prevented his doing so.

Others testifying today were Nick Mavar of Mavar Shrimp and Oyster Co. Ltd., and W. W. Gillis of B. Taltavull Shrimp and Oyster Co., both of Biloxi.

Gillis was questioned regarding a fine imposed on his company by the association in 1951. He said the company was fined its share of the proceeds from a catch one of its boats made against the association's regulations.

Judge Sidney C. Mize recessed court until 9:30 a.m. Monday.

Monroe Girl Returns From European Trip

Not only did Miss Margaret Kalil, daughter of Mrs. Fred Kalil, Sr., attain great heights as a soprano, but she also attained a knowledge of the people in various European countries where she lived and visited.

After more than a year away from the United States Miss Kalil remarked in a very expressive voice "We only realize what a wonderful country America is when we leave and have a chance to compare it with others."

Speaking in contrast she said, "America is a young and vigorous country whereas the European countries are old and a lot of the vigor has been lost. To America progress is taken in one's stride, whereas in Europe progress is a mechanism curtailing a lot of hard work."

While in Italy Miss Kalil worked in the Italian opera with La Scala, DeAngelis and Baxastrop maestros in Milan. She further made radio appearances on the Italian National Radio and a solo with organ in the Pantheon at Rome.

Miss Kalil's main objective in Europe was perfection of her soprano voice. Her maestro was Enrico Pessina, Italian radio and opera coach in Southern Europe and Switzerland.

The Maestros with whom she worked were recommended by the tenor Tito Schipa, of Metropolitan and LaScala fame, with whom she discussed many phases of singing and operatic interpretation.

Auditions took Miss Kalil to Vienna, one of the international spots of unrest. Enroute the train, upon entering a Soviet section of Austria, was stopped at several check points, and it was common to see armed Soviet soldiers pass through the train along the way. She also traveled to Bonn, Germany, capital of West Germany, for auditions. In Bonn she visited the home of Beethoven and had the occasion to sound a few notes on his piano from which some of his most famous music was composed.

Some of the sights which Miss Kalil viewed were the leaning tower of Pisa in Tuscony, attended all opera performances at the famous LaScala Opera House in Milano, the grand opera house in Paris, Arch de Triumph, Eiffel Tower, the original Mona Lisa painting at the Louvre in Paris, St. Peters Basilicia in Rome, and many famous religious sculptures of Michael-Angelo, The Colosseum, the ancient arena, the Catacombs and the remains of the Roman forum.

In Vienna she visited the famous castles of the Hofburgs and Schonbrunns in Milan she saw the original painting of The Last Supper by Leonardo da Vinci at the rectory of the church of Santa Maria delle Grazie, and in Venice she attended the High Mass in the beautiful Byzantine structure.

Miss Kalil's descriptions of the many places she visited are very full and the ones mentioned above are only a few of those which she took time to study very carefully.

On her return trip home Miss Kalil performed on board the Andrea Doria, an Italian steamer, in duets with baritone colleague Laurence Malfatti, also returning to America after radio and opera work in Switzerland. She also performed on board the Italian Liner S. S. Homeland en route to Milan in concert with orchestra members of the San Carlo opera company of Naples.

Miss Kalil received a music diploma from Northeast Junior College and her first voice study was done with Estelle Sanders, of Monroe. She studied with Paul Atlhouse while attending Columbia University in New York where she received a B. S. and M. A. degree in Music and Music Education. While in New York working on her degrees Miss Kalil appeared in radio, concert and opera appearances.

To climax the European tour which she made Miss Kalil added "All of my wonderful experiences were climaxed as the ship sailed into the harbor of New York and before me stood the Statue of Liberty representing a freedom loving nation with a way of life unequaled throughout the whole world."

Miss Kalil's future plans include some concert and opera work, a possible New York debut recital in Town Hall and the imparting with her vocal and musical knowledge through teaching.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SUE SHARMAN

"Craig's Wife," a tense inviting satire on human nature, has been chosen for the fourth Little Theatre production this year.

First readings and tryouts for the play will be held this Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening, February 15 through the 17, 8 p.m. at the Selman Field Playhouse.

A three act drama written by George Kelly, "Criag's Wife" won the Pulitzer Prize when it was first presented and Hollywood has come up with at least two popular screen versions of it's theme. The play is a study of contemporary character. Mrs. Craig is a full length portrait of a woman of tremendous power, who, through selfishness, succeeds in driving out of her home, her husband, her husbands' friends and her own relatives.

A cast of six women and four men will be chosen during the three nights of try-outs. The roles include Mrs. Craig, a dynamic woman somewhere between 30 and 35; Mr. Criag, also in his early 30s; Miss Austin (Mr. Craig's aunt) probably in her 50s; Mrs. Harold, a housekeeper, also 50ish; Mazie, a young maid; Ethel Landreth, Mrs. Craig's niece, who is about 23; Mrs. Frazier, the woman next door, who could be about 40; Billy Birkmire, a friend of Mr. Craig, between 30 and 35; Joseph Catelle, police detective, 25 to 40; and Eugene Fredericks, Ethel's boyfriend about 27.

The play has one set and the entire action happens between 5:30 p.m. one afternoon and 9 o'clock the next morning.

The public is cordially invited to attend try-outs this Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening. Though you have never acted before, let that not be a stumbling block to hold you back from a rich and interesting experience in theatre. Just this last Thursday evening, "Be Your Age" was held over for an eighth night of production and Little Theatre members are still glowing from all of the wonderful praise and enthusiastic applause that acclaimed it one of the best productions to ever be presented at the Selman Field Playhouse. In the cast of "Be Your Age," out of ten actors and actresses, only two had ever had any appreciable experience.

Maybe, you or you or you will be the brilliant new discovery for "Criag's Wife."

"Our follow-up methods," Chairman Frazer stated, "will consist of a letter pointing out to the property owners that in the initial survey overgrown or heavy types of shrubbery, etc., was noted; which appeared to be causing a danger-area relative to safe traffic. Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The coon hunters were saying their farewells this morning and departing for their homes in widely separate sections of the country. Needless to say there were some disappointments to sportsmen who figured to finish higher, but they'll just try to make a better showing their next times out, and there were many who were well pleased with the showings of their hounds.

It was a widely assorted group with the main representation from the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Texas and Louisiana. With so many men gathered for the sport of the chase, we're taking this occasion to compliment the coonhunters on their conduct at the hunt.

We followed them rather closely, learned a lot we didn't know about hounds and coon hunters before and at the same time was impressed by the very outstanding fact that there was no intoxicating drink in evidence. These men were so serious about their pastime and so obviously interested in their dogs, the performance of their rivals, and the work in the woods that there was no other indulgence.

The National Coonhunt Association, Publisher Eddie Ross of the sponsoring coonhunters' magazine, Mountain Music, and all who had anything to do with making the Wild Coon Hunt here can be proud that the many hunters proved themselves sportsmen, gentlemen, and a class of hunters who will go a long way toward promoting goodwill for their nocturnal activity.

Compliments are going out to the Three H's of northeast Louisiana--- Bobby Harmon of Ferriday, Tommy Hinton of Ruston, and William "Red" Hendrix of Rayville. The Harmon-Hinton-Hendrix trio represents this section's contribution to the high school All-America football squad annually selected by the Wigwam Wisemen of America.

Harmon was the all-state quarterback on Ferriday's state championship Class B team; Hinton was a standout tackle at Ruston; and Hendrix, a durable guard, was the standout performer all season for a Rayville team that reached the state Class A finals. Hinton and Hendrix, like Harmon, also made the all-state team of their class.

By the way! Don't forget the visit of Roy Acuff and his Smoky Mountain Boys at Neville High auditorium next Friday night. Of course this is not a sports event, but it is a program being presented by the Monroe Lions Club which annually uses proceeds from such shows as contributions toward recreation, development of projects for youth and other worthy causes. The playgrounds of the city and Little League baseball have been the most recent to benefit by Lions Club shows.

Twin City Baseball Clinic Big Success

423 Boys Receive Instruction From Big League Stars

Four hundred and twenty-three boys--and one girl—enrolled yesterday for the first annual Twin City Boys Baseball Clinic to receive valuable instruction in diamond lore from such major league greats as Billy Joe Adcock, "Schoolboy" Rowe, Earl Harrist, Ed Head, Tony John, and Harry Strohm featured the list of instructors that included several local tutors.

Among local talent serving the clinic as instructors were Bob Ledbetter, George Luffey, and David McKenzie, all of professional baseball experience, and Coach Fred Lindsey of Louisiana Training Institute and Coach Woody Boyles of Northeast Louisiana State College where the clinic was conducted.

Many high school coaches were on hand with their boys, and Little League and Babe Ruth League participants came out in strong numbers.

Also here to assist local sponsors in making their first such effort a success were Antley Donald and Lou Maguola, Yankee scouts, and "Hap" Morris, scout for the Phillies.

Adcock, first baseman for the Milwaukee Braves, opened the clinic with hitting instruction for all boys, giving a 30-minute demonstration in right and wrong batting techniques.

The turnouts were then split into groups for pitchers, catchers, infielders, and outfielders who received special instruction from the experts on the tricks of the particular positions.

Rowe, well known to Monroe fans as an athlete who made his home here around 20 years ago as a basketball player for the Brown Paper Mill before going to the Detroit Tigers, worked with the young pitchers as did Head, the former Brooklyn Dodger who now manages the Monroe entry in the Cotton States League, and Harrist, McKenzie and Ledbetter. Harrist is a product of Dubach who went up to the majors. Ledbetter, who was pitching high class ball several years ago, makes his home here.

Tony John, who once caught for the Brown Paper Mill team of the old Ouachita Valley League and was instrumental in organization of the very successful baseball clinic at Baton Rouge, aided Matt Batts of the Detroit Tigers and Boyles in working with the prospective catchers.

One youngster, after attending the class, was heard to remark: "I thought I was a catcher. I just found out I didn't know anything, but now I'm gonna be."

Fielders got instruction from Adcock, Strohm who is manager of the Alexandria Aces of the Evangeline loop, and Luffey, the product of Monroe's Neville High who has played the Evangeline circuit.

"Buddy" Blair, once of the Philadelphia Athletics, who is president of the Twin City Boys Baseball Clinic, last night expressed the appreciation of the youth of this area for the appearance of the "name" instructors and the donations from local men and business houses that made it possible.

The smaller boys' class during the morning was particularly large, and the kids were very attentive as they hung on every word. But the turnout was not only restricted to boys. Many men of this area were present as well, taking in the courses from the background. The daddies learned a lot too, and should be able to use it in future workouts with their boys.

CALHOUN, La., Feb. 13 (Special)—The Calhoun High School cagers swept a twinbill from the Ouachita Parish High teams here tonight, with the home team boys winning, 48-40; and the Calhoun sextette on the long end of a 44-31 score.

Ouachita's Larry Barnes and the winner's Joe White each hit for seven goals, but White made five free throws to Barne's four to lead in the scoring branch, 19-18. Helen Spillers and Barbara Coon led the Chieftain sextette to their victory, with 16 and 14 points respectively; while Virginia Brunson paced the Lion lassies, with 16, to tie Miss Spillers for game-high honors.

Signs '54 Contract

DETROIT, Feb. 13 (AP)—Billy Hoeft, left handed pitcher who had a 9-14 record with the Detroit Tigers last season, came to terms Saturday for an undisclosed sum.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

Ellis Leads At Laredo

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 13 (AP)—Wesley Ellis, the San Antonio amateur with the smooth-as-silk swing, lashed a record six-under-par 66 over windswept Casa Blanca Country Club course today to snatch the first round lead in the $3,000 Laredo Open Golf Tournament.

Ellis headed a field of 105, many of them from the winter P. G. A. tour, as he took the 6,683-yard course apart at the seams.

Ellis' 66 was the lowest competitive score ever registered on the course.

Another amateur, Marion Hiskey of North Texas State College, Denton, Tex., also had a 67 to tie Holguin for second place.

The leaders:

aWesley Ellis, San Antonio, 35-31—66.
Tony Holguin, Midlothian, Ill., 33-34—67.

CUPIT STRONG

"Buster" Cupit, who left McGuire Park's pro job in West Monroe to join the winter tournament trail, had a 36-35—71 for his first round in the Laredo Open yesterday for a seven-way tie for 14th. Johnny Myers, Bastrop amateur, also participating, shot a 42-36—78.

Milwaukee Lass From Behind To Win Golf Meet

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13 (AP)—Nineteen-year-old Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee, Wis. came from behind today to win the 36th annual women's golf championship of Palm Beach by defeating Vonnie Colby, 21, of Hollywood, Fla., 2 and 1.

Miss Ziske, former Wisconsin women's amateur champion, drove well off the tees but didn't succeed in taking the lead until the 16th hole when Miss Colby was short to the green and then missed a putt.

Bulldogs' Spring Football Training Gets Weather Aid

RUSTON, La., Feb. 13 (Special)—Taking advantage of some good weather the past two weeks, the Louisiana Tech football squad is well into the annual spring practice period.

Joe Aillet, athletic director and head football coach, says practice sessions are going along fine with stress being placed upon fundamental procedures. Practice, which began February 3, will continue for 20 sessions.

"Our only handicap is that we are without the services of Milford Andrews, our regular quarterback of last season," the coach reported. Andrews is a guard on the Tech basketball team which will not finish its schedule until the end of the month.

Paul Crowe, quarterback for the Springhill High School team in 1952, has reported for the Bulldog squad and has been assisting quarterbacks Jim Coleman and Pete McCulley in the ball handling chores.

Co-champions of the Gulf States Conference last season, the Bulldogs will lose six seniors from the championship squad. Sophomore center Tommy Allen has been drafted into military service.

Central won the crown in their division by defeating the Holly Ridge boys, 27-19. Baker Boyd was high for the winners, with ten points, and Zelma Dooley led the losers with five.

In the boys semi-finals, Central won over Ogden 24-19; and Holly Ridge downed Transylvania, 29-25. Earlier Saturday results in the boys' bracket were Epps 42, Ferriday 11; Transylvania 32, Wisner 17; Ogden 19, Winnsboro 8; Central 28, Lake Providence 21; Holly Ridge 21, Epps 18; and Transylvania 40, A. L. Smith of Sterlington 35.

ATLANTA, Feb. 13 (AP)—Louisiana State's Bob Pettit netted 44 points tonight, half of them in the third quarter, to shove Georgia Tech to its 18th consecutive loss of the season 89-54.

The 6-foot-9 LSU center, hounded for most of the game by three Tech players, scored most of his points on tip-ins after teammates missed the mark. Pettit and forward Ned Clark, a 6-foot-4 lefthander, dominated both backboards and made the shorter Engineers studies in futility and frustration.

Clark, with 12 points, was next high for LSU. Dick Lenholt was Tech's most effective shotmaker with 15.

It was LSU's eighth SEC victory and they are unbeaten in the conference. Tech's loss was its 10th in league play.

Kallio Boxing Card For Feb. 22 Announced

Bastrop's Norris Ray will appear in one-half of the double-main-event boxing program slated for Kallio's Arena Monday night, February 22. His opponent will be John Burnette, Memphis, Tenn., over the six-round route.

The other half of the double-main is a six-rounder also, between Dorsy Burnette, a widely-acclaimed middleweight from Memphis; and Frank Smith, Jackson, Tenn., whose most interesting feat, so far as local fans are concerned, is that he decisively beat Bastrop's Bill Williams.

Three four round preliminaries are scheduled, with Jimmy Stuart, Memphis, fighting Mackey Gore, Jackson; Tommy Parks, Drew, Miss., vs Rockey Jones, Memphis; and Byron Rozier, Memphis against any local fighter who desires to challenge the 126-pound battler. (Local aspirants are requested to notify Mr. Kallio as soon as possible.)

Smokelore Wins Black Gold 'Cap At Fair Grounds

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13 (AP)—Reverie Knoll farms' Smokelore stamped himself as a definite threat for the March 13 $40,000-added Louisiana Derby by scoring a half-length victory today in the $5,000 Black Gold Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

The smooth-running black son of Adaris, rated perfectly by jockey Billy Fisk, swept into contention at the top of the stretch and battled the front-running Sub Factor down to the wire, finishing one-half length ahead of Mrs. Grace Kosiba's colorbearer.

Smokelore traveled the mile and one-sixteenth derb prep in 1.46.4 and returned $10.40, $5.60 and $4.20. Sub Factor paid $7.60 and $4.60, with Poco Reto returning $4.40.

Smokelore was held in fourth place throughout the early running and was called on as the seven-horse field swept into the stretch. He collared Sub Factor midway through the final steps to win pull-

WHO SAID 'BOYS CLINIC?' — Nine-year-old Elizabeth Cudd Loftin did a little "gate-crashing" on a boys' event yesterday when she announced herself as a catcher at the Twin City Boys Baseball Clinic. Tech's Rodgers Inks Baltimore Grid Pact

BALTIMORE, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Baltimore Colts today announced they had signed up Georgia Tech's Pepper Rodgers for quarterback duties in the 1954 pro football campaign.

The club carefully explained the contract is dated June 1, 1954, so Pepper doesn't lose his amateur standing until after he rounds out the season with the Grogia Tech basketball team.

Rodgers—Franklin C. Rodgers—won the Warren V. Miller trophy as most valuable player in Tech's win over West Virginia in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day. He threw four touchdown passes in the game.

Harrist is a product of Dubach who went up to the majors. Ledbetter, who was pitching high class ball several years ago, makes his home here.

Tony John, who once caught for the Brown Paper Mill team of the old Ouachita Valley League and was instrumental in organization of the very successful baseball clinic at Baton Rouge, aided Matt Batts of the Detroit Tigers and Boyles in working with the prospective catchers.

One youngster, after attending the class, was heard to remark: "I thought I was a catcher. I just found out I didn't know anything, but now I'm gonna be."

Fielders got instruction from Adcock, Strohm who is manager of the Alexandria Aces of the Evangeline loop, and Luffey, the product of Monroe's Neville High who has played the Evangeline circuit.

"Buddy" Blair, once of the Philadelphia Athletics, who is president of the Twin City Boys Baseball Clinic, last night expressed the appreciation of the youth of this area for the appearance of the "name" instructors and the donations from local men and business houses that made it possible.

The smaller boys' class during the morning was particularly large, and the kids were very attentive as they hung on every word. But the turnout was not only restricted to boys. Many men of this area were present as well, taking in the courses from the background. The daddies learned a lot too, and should be able to use it in future workouts with their boys.

CALHOUN, La., Feb. 13 (Special)—The Calhoun High School cagers swept a twinbill from the Ouachita Parish High teams here tonight, with the home team boys winning, 48-40; and the Calhoun sextette on the long end of a 44-31 score.

Ouachita's Larry Barnes and the winner's Joe White each hit for seven goals, but White made five free throws to Barne's four to lead in the scoring branch, 19-18. Helen Spillers and Barbara Coon led the Chieftain sextette to their victory, with 16 and 14 points respectively; while Virginia Brunson paced the Lion lassies, with 16, to tie Miss Spillers for game-high honors.

Ellis Leads At Laredo

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 13 (AP)—Wesley Ellis, the San Antonio amateur with the smooth-as-silk swing, lashed a record six-under-par 66 over windswept Casa Blanca Country Club course today to snatch the first round lead in the $3,000 Laredo Open Golf Tournament.

Ellis headed a field of 105, many of them from the winter P. G. A. tour, as he took the 6,683-yard course apart at the seams.

Ellis' 66 was the lowest competitive score ever registered on the course.

Another amateur, Marion Hiskey of North Texas State College, Denton, Tex., also had a 67 to tie Holguin for second place.

The leaders:

aWesley Ellis, San Antonio, 35-31—66.
Tony Holguin, Midlothian, Ill., 33-34—67.
aMarion Hiskey, Denton, Tex., 35-32—67.

CUPIT STRONG

"Buster" Cupit, who left McGuire Park's pro job in West Monroe to join the winter tournament trail, had a 36-35—71 for his first round in the Laredo Open yesterday for a seven-way tie for 14th. Johnny Myers, Bastrop amateur, also participating, shot a 42-36—78.

Milwaukee Lass From Behind To Win Golf Meet

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13 (AP)—Nineteen-year-old Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee, Wis. came from behind today to win the 36th annual women's golf championship of Palm Beach by defeating Vonnie Colby, 21, of Hollywood, Fla., 2 and 1.

Miss Ziske, former Wisconsin women's amateur champion, drove well off the tees but didn't succeed in taking the lead until the 16th hole when Miss Colby was short to the green and then missed a putt.

Bulldogs' Spring Football Training Gets Weather Aid

RUSTON, La., Feb. 13 (Special)—Taking advantage of some good weather the past two weeks, the Louisiana Tech football squad is well into the annual spring practice period.

Joe Aillet, athletic director and head football coach, says practice sessions are going along fine with stress being placed upon fundamental procedures. Practice, which began February 3, will continue for 20 sessions.

"Our only handicap is that we are without the services of Milford Andrews, our regular quarterback of last season," the coach reported. Andrews is a guard on the Tech basketball team which will not finish its schedule until the end of the month.

Paul Crowe, quarterback for the Springhill High School team in 1952, has reported for the Bulldog squad and has been assisting quarterbacks Jim Coleman and Pete McCulley in the ball handling chores.

Co-champions of the Gulf States Conference last season, the Bulldogs will lose six seniors from the championship squad. Sophomore center Tommy Allen has been drafted into military service.

Central won the crown in their division by defeating the Holly Ridge boys, 27-19. Baker Boyd was high for the winners, with ten points, and Zelma Dooley led the losers with five.

In the boys semi-finals, Central won over Ogden, 24-19; and Holly Ridge downed Transylvania, 29-25. Earlier Saturday results in the boys' bracket were Epps 42, Ferriday 11; Transylvania 32, Wisner 17; Ogden 19, Winnsboro 8; Central 28, Lake Providence 21; Holly Ridge 21, Epps 18; and Transylvania 40, A. L. Smith of Sterlington 35.

Signs '54 Contract

DETROIT, Feb. 13 (AP)—Billy Hoeft, left handed pitcher who had a 9-14 record with the Detroit Tigers last season, came to terms Saturday for an undisclosed sum.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

ATLANTA, Feb. 13 (AP)—Louisiana State's Bob Pettit netted 44 points tonight, half of them in the third quarter, to shove Georgia Tech to its 18th consecutive loss of the season 89-54.

The 6-foot-9 LSU center, hounded for most of the game by three Tech players, scored most of his points on tip-ins after teammates missed the mark. Pettit and forward Ned Clark, a 6-foot-4 left-hander, dominated both backboards and made the shorter Engineers studies in futility and frustration.

Clark, with 12 points, was next high for LSU. Dick Lenholt was Tech's most effective shotmaker with 15.

It was LSU's eighth SEC victory and they are unbeaten in the conference. Tech's loss was its 10th in league play.

Kallio Boxing Card For Feb. 22 Announced

Bastrop's Norris Ray will appear in one-half of the double-main-event boxing program slated for Kallio's Arena Monday night, February 22. His opponent will be John Burnette, Memphis, Tenn., over the six-round route.

The other half of the double-main is a six-rounder also, between Dorsy Burnette, a widely-acclaimed middleweight from Memphis; and Frank Smith, Jackson, Tenn., whose most interesting feat, so far as local fans are concerned, is that he decisively beat Bastrop's Bill Williams..

Three four round preliminaries are scheduled, with Jimmy Stuart, Memphis, fighting Mackey Gore, Jackson; Tommy Parks, Drew, Miss., vs Rockey Jones, Memphis; and Byron Rozier, Memphis against any local fighter who desires to challenge the 126-pound battler. (Local aspirants are requested to notify Mr. Kallio as soon as possible.)

Smokelore Wins Black Gold 'Cap At Fair Grounds

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13 (AP)—Reverie Knoll farms' Smokelore stamped himself as a definite threat for the March 13 $40,000-added Louisiana Derby by scoring a half-length victory today in the $5,000 Black Gold Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

The smooth-running black son of Adaris, rated perfectly by jockey Billy Fisk, swept into contention at the top of the stretch and battled the front-running Sub Factor down to the wire, finishing one-half length ahead of Mrs. Grace Kosiba's colorbearer.

Smokelore traveled the mile and one-sixteenth derb prep in 1:46.4 and returned $10.40, $5.60 and $4.20. Sub Factor paid $7.60 and $4.60, with Poco Reto returning $4.40.

Smokelore was held in fourth place throughout the early running and was called on as the seven-horse field swept into the stretch. He collared Sub Factor midway through the final steps to win pull-

Tech's Rodgers Inks Baltimore Grid Pact

BALTIMORE, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Baltimore Colts today announced they had signed up Georgia Tech's Pepper Rodgers for quarterback duties in the 1954 pro football campaign.

The club carefully explained the contract is dated June 1, 1954, so Pepper doesn't lose his amateur standing until after he rounds out the season with the Grogia Tech basketball team.

Rodgers—Franklin C. Rodgers—won the Warren V. Miller trophy as most valuable player in Tech's win over West Virginia in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day. He threw four touchdown passes in the game.

Crown Wild Coon Hunt Champs Here This Morning

Hounds Of Texas, Indiana Set Pace For Final Chases

Prized coonhounds last night were making their last bids for fancy trophies and National Coonhound Association champion ship points as the final races of the National Championship Wild Coon Hunt, sponsored by the magazine, Mountain Music, were in progress.

Missouri Mack, who failed to run the first night, went to the woods Friday night to come in yesterday morning with 400 plus points to put the dog owned by Doyle Smith, Anderson, Ind., into the lead in the registered class. Big Lucky, the Dale Brandenberger hound from Bellville, Ill., leader after the first night's run with 300 points, came in with a minus 75 yesterday to reduce his plus points to 225.

Taking the field last night as Mack's closest contenders were Pat, owned by Ezra Clarkson, Rector, Ark., and Blue Dan, Loy Humphreys, Van, Tex., each with 300 points. Warrior III, owned by Elbert Vaughn, Paragould, Ark., had 275.

Choctaw, the defending registered champion owned by Bill Culbertson, Benton, La., had an unproductive night on his second run, showing 200 minus against his 125 plus for the first night to total a minus 75 as he made his last bid.

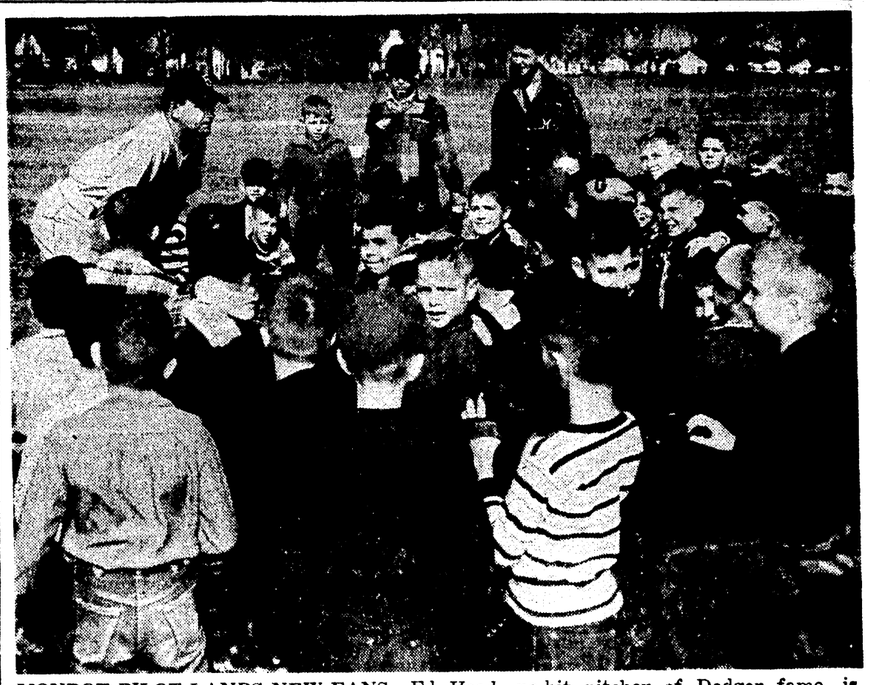

The L. J. Saucier entry, Red, from Waco, Tex., added 650 to his openig 200 to hold a 850 margin in the non-registered class. Second best going into the final heat was Verdigris Blue, owned by Perry Ethridge, Stillwell, Okla., with 775. Other high scorers in the grade class entering last night's races were Mack, D. R. Carlton, Goodwater, Ala., 675; Tar, Art Hendrix, Keota, Okla., 600; Sam, R. R. Parker, Ozark, Ala., 580; Skeet, N. R. Erwin, El Dorado, Ark., 555; Rusty, Hap Counts, Weatherford, Tex., 525; Rock, Rex Graham, Golden, Miss., 505; and Andy, W. N. Wittie, Waco, Tex., 500.

The coonhounds, running in packs of four, treed 24 coons Friday night although some dogs that showed most success Thursday night was finding game scarce on their second trip to the woods.

When all dogs are in this morning, the final tabulation of points will take place at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds, West Monroe, headquarters for the hunt, where Eddie Ross, publisher of the sponsoring magazine, will announce the winners. The top ten dogs in the registered class will receive championship points from the N.C.A.

LaSalle Quintet Driving Toward District Throne

OLLA, La., Feb. 13 (Special)—The rangy, sharp-shooting cagers of Coach Bill Waters are still going strong in district 2-A competition having won 10 games against no defeats. Latest victims of the Tiger onslaught were Jonesboro-Hodge by the score of 43-38, Many 44-41, and Winnfield 57-41. High scoring honors in all three games were divided between Earl K. Long, Kenneth Winberry, and Leon Sykes. Also helping the Tigers cause in these three victories by good defensive and rebound play were Doug Winberry, Bruce Esters, and Bill Nethery.

The Tigers suffered their sixth non-conference loss last week at the hands of the Jena Giants, 43-32, compared to 25 victories in all games played.

The remainder of the LaSalle schedule finds the Tigers on the road against Pineville and Natchitoches in its two remaining conference games. On February 19 and 20 both the LaSalle boys and girls teams will enter the Class A division of the Central Rally at Louisiana College. The boys' team will be back to improve its runner-up position of last year being defeated in the finals by Jena.

Here is a "thumbnail" sketch of the first "six" boys who have led the Tigers to 25 victories in 31 games:

Earl K. Long—6-feet-3-inches, 170 pounds, senior (eligibility), two-year letterman, center, has scored 424 points for an average of 13.7 per game. Good jump shot and hook shot. Excellent rebounder.

Ken Winberry — 5-feet-11-inches, 175 pounds, sophomore, two year letterman, guard, has scored 328 points for an average of 12.1 per game. Excellent floor man, good set shot and drives hard.

Leon Sykes—6-feet, 155 pounds, junior, two-year letterman, forward, has scored 280 points for an average of 10.8 per game. Excellent jump shot and good rebounder.

Doug Winberry — 6-feet-two-inches, 175-pounds, senior, four year letterman, forward, has scored 175 points for an average of 5.8 per game. Defensive and rebound specialist.

Bruce Esters — 6-feet-3-inches, 180-pounds, senior, one-year letterman, forward, has scored 146 points for an average of 4.8 per game. Good rebounder.

Bill Nethery — 5-feet-9-inches, 155 pounds, senior, two-year letterman, guard, has scored 65 points for an average of 2.4 per game. Good floor man and hustler.

The Louisiana Training Institute Pelicans went out of their class to defeat the Class A Tallulah Trojans in the L.T.I. gym yesterday afternoon, 39-26. The Pels were playing stellar ball and hitting a large percentage of their shots as they led all the way, 12-1 in the first, 22-7 at the half, and 31-13 going into the last quarter.

Bobby Boudreaux, just up from the junior league, led the Pels with 13 points, closely followed by Joe Carlisle with 12. Tallulah's leading scorer was Turner with 10 points. The contest put the Pelicans ahead in basketball games with the Trojans this year as they split two contests in Tallulah earlier this year with the varsity team losing, and the B team winning. A "B" contest scheduled for yesterday was cancelled.

A contest here with Choudrant next Tuesday afternoon will be the last scheduled basketball game for the L.T.I. cagemen who have won 21 games, while losing 14 and tieing one against high school teams in regular scheduled games and three tournaments. They end their season next Friday when they enter the Class C division of the North Louisiana Rally at Ruston's Louisiana Tech.

Their record this year has been good considering the fact that their lineup yesterday contained the name of only one boy who was on their first team when the season opened. Many of their star players have returned to their homes either during the Christmas season or at mid-term. Particularly hurting the L.T.I. team was the loss of such stalwarts as Johnny Hernandez, Bill Paulk, Arbon Felker, and Raymond Bender.

The lineups:

L.T.I.	Pos.	Tallulah
Smith (6)	F.	(4) A.Williamson
Thibodeaux (2)	F.	(10) Turner
Carlisle (12)	C.	(3) Hopkins
Boudreaux (13)	G.	(3) King
Rentz (6)	G.	S. Williamson

Girls Grapple Tuesday Plus Two Male Matches

Kallio's Arena comes up with a top-notch wrestling program Tuesday—one of the best ever carded here, with three popular bouts slated; two between men and one between women.

Perhaps the prettiest girl-grappler ever to appear here, Bonnie Watson, wrestles speedy Ida May in half of the double-main event; and Jack Curtis, all-time local favorite, goes against big Elmer Davis in the other half. Both bouts are one hour and 15 minute time limit attractions, with two of three falls required to win. For a preliminary match, "Irish Jack" Kelly is slated to go against George Curtis in a one-fall-to-win bout.

Bonnie Watson, in her first appearance at the local arena, is hailed as the "dream girl" of female wrestling. Standing 5-6½ and weighing 145, the agile miss is 21 years of age, and hails from West Union, W. Va.

The Irish lass, who formerly was a drum majorette and trumpeteer in the West Union High band, became interested in wrestling from TV matches and ringside seats, went into training, and has become a top-notch contender for Mildred Burke's title.

She'll have a hard row to hoe here Tuesday night in Ida May, an El Paso, Texas speedster, who has appeared here twice in the past, and is recognized as the fastest girl grappler ever to fight in the Twin Cities. Numerous fans, who have seen her in action here, have asked promoter Kallio when she would return, so Tuesday they'll have the opportunity to see her again against an up-and-coming newcomer, plus two other male matches between well-known rivals.

Davis and Kelly defeated the Curtis brothers as a tag duo, and will have the chance to see how they can do as individuals this week.

Ouachita Lions Get Busy Week

The Ouachita Parish High School Lions are in for a busy week that calls for a Tuesday night engagement with the West Monroe Rebels, a Friday date with the Haynesville Tornado, and a Saturday scrap with Bossier City. All the games, Class AA conference affairs, will be played in the Ouachita gymnasium.

Boys and girls' games will be played on each card, Lion coach Herbert Holliman announced last night.

Cook-Valdez Headline Bastrop Bouts Monday

Clarence Cook, the popular Oak Grove 148-pounder, goes against "Kid" Valdez, Houston, Texas, in a 10-round rematch of their Houston battle, in which the powerful Valdez floored Cook in the fourth round, only to have Clarence come back to win an unpopular decision. Cook was only saved by the bell as he lay on the canvas in the fourth, and the bout was a preliminary to last December's Willie Pep-Bill Loomis feature.

Cline Elledge, the Tallulah smoothie with an outstanding middleweight record, fights Al "Red" Horton, who hails from Louisville, Ky., in the six round semifinal; Monroe's Rhodrie Savage goes against Joe Gonzales, Houston, in one four-rounder; and Roy Weeks, Oak Grove, tangles with Pat Patterson, Houston in the other.

Mark-Ye-Well Gains Victory At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 13 (AP)—Calumet's Mark-Ye-Well splashed through the rain and the mud of a sloppy track today and won the $59,400 San Antonio Handicap over 10 rivals at Santa Anita park.

The King Ranch 4-year-old, Rejected, came up with a flourish in the final strides to almost catch the flying Mark-Ye-Well, but the best he could get was second.

The time for the mile and one-eighth was 1.52.0.

The Calumet 5-year-old, a son of Bull Lea, went to the post the betting favorite and paid $7.80, $5.10 and $3.90; Rejected $6.80 and $4.70, and Decorated $6.10.

Crown Wild Coon Hunt Champs Here This Morning

Prized coonhounds last night were making their last bids for fancy trophies and National Coonhound Association championship points as the final races of the National Championship Wild Coon Hunt, sponsored by the magazine, Mountain Music, were in progress.

Missouri Mack, who failed to run the first night, went to the woods Friday night to come in yesterday morning with 400 plus points to put the dog owned by Doyle Smith, Anderson, Ind., into the lead in the registered class. Big Lucky, the Dale Brandenberger hound from Bellville, Ill., leader after the first night's run with 300 points, came in with a minus 75 yesterday to reduce his plus points to 225.

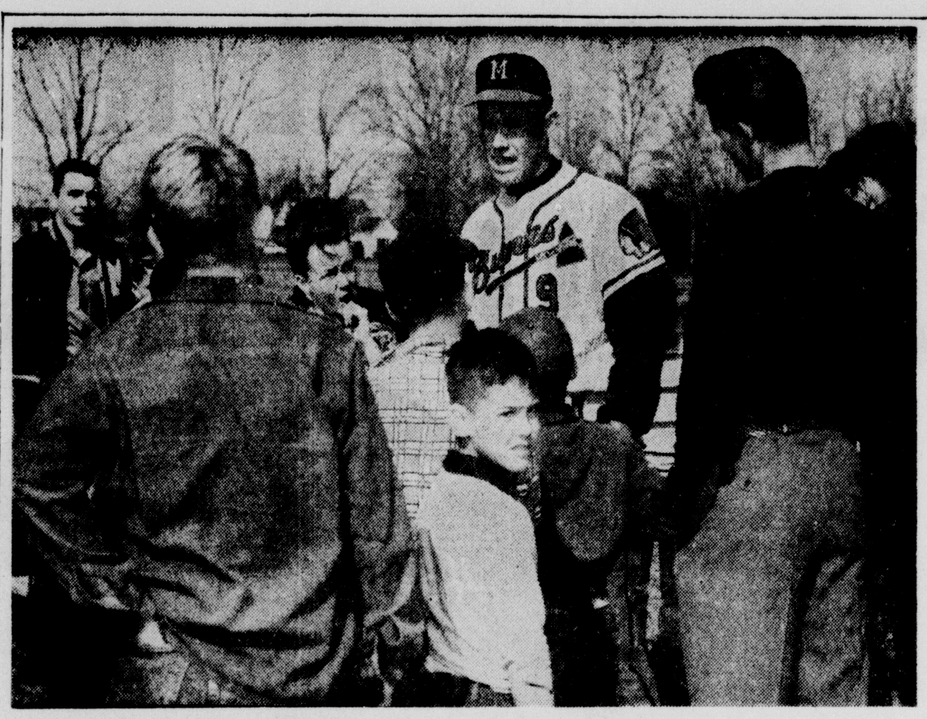

Taking the field last night as Mack's closest contenders were Pat, owned by Ezra Clarkson, Rector, Ark., and Blue Dan, Loy Humphreys, Van, Tex., each with 300 points. Warrior III, owned by Elbert Vaughn, Paragould, Ark., had 275.

Choctaw, the defending registered champion owned by Bill Culbertson, Benton, La., had an unproductive night on his second run, showing 200 minus against his 125 plus for the first night to total a minus 75 as he made his last bid.

The L. J. Saucier entry, Red, from Waco, Tex., added 650 to his openig 200 to hold a 850 margin in the non-registered class. Second best going into the final heat was Verdigris Blue, owned by Perry Ethridge, Stillwell, Okla., with 775. Other high scorers in the grade class entering last night's races were Mack, D. R. Carlton, Goodwater, Ala., 675; Tar, Art Hendrix, Keota, Okla., 600; Sam, R. R. Parker, Ozark, Ala., 580; Skeet, N. R. Erwin, El Dorado, Ark., 555; Rusty, Hap Counts, Weatherford, Tex., 525; Rock, Rex Graham, Golden, Miss., 505; and Andy, W. N. Wittie, Waco, Tex., 500.

The coonhounds, running in packs of four, treed 24 coons Friday night although some dogs that showed most success Thursday night was finding game scarce on their second trip to the woods.

When all dogs are in this morning, the final tabulation of points will take place at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds, West Monroe, headquarters for the hunt, where Eddie Ross, publisher of the sponsoring magazine, will announce the winners. The top ten dogs in the registered class will receive championship points from the N.C.A.

LaSalle Quintet Driving Toward District Throne

OLLA, La., Feb. 13 (Special)—The rangy, sharp-shooting cagers of Coach Bill Waters are still going strong in district 2-A competition having won 10 games against no defeats. Latest victims of the Tiger onslaught were Jonesboro-Hodge by the score of 43-38, Many 44-41, and Winnfield 57-41. High scoring honors in all three games were divided between Earl K. Long, Kenneth Winberry, and Leon Sykes. Also helping the Tigers cause in these three victories by good defensive and rebound play were Doug Winberry, Bruce Esters, and Bill Nethery.

The Tigers suffered their sixth non-conference loss last week at the hands of the Jena Giants, 43-32, compared to 25 victories in all games played.

The remainder of the LaSalle schedule finds the Tigers on the road against Pineville and Natchitoches in its two remaining conference games. On February 19 and 20 both the LaSalle boys and girls teams will enter the Class A division of the Central Rally at Louisiana College. The boys' team will be back to improve its runner-up position of last year being defeated in the finals by Jena.

Here is a "thumbnail" sketch of the first "six" boys who have led the Tigers to 25 victories in 31 games:

Earl K. Long—6-feet-3-inches, 170 pounds, senior (eligibility), two-year letterman, center, has scored 424 points for an average of 13.7 per game. Good jump shot and hook shot. Excellent rebounder.

Ken Winberry — 5-feet-11-inches, 175 pounds, sophomore, two year letterman, guard, has scored 328 points for an average of 12.1 per game. Excellent floor man, good set shot and drives hard.

Leon Sykes—6-feet, 155 pounds, junior, two-year letterman, forward, has scored 280 points for an average of 10.8 per game. Excellent jump shot and good rebounder.

Doug Winberry — 6-feet-two-inches, 175-pounds, senior, four year letterman, forward, has scored 175 points for an average of 5.8 per game. Defensive and rebound specialist.

Bruce Esters — 6-feet-3-inches, 180-pounds, senior, one-year letterman, forward, has scored 146 points for an average of 4.8 per game. Good rebounder.

Bill Nethery — 5-feet-9-inches, 155 pounds, senior, two-year letterman, guard, has scored 65 points for an average of 2.4 per game. Good floor man and hustler.

The Louisiana Training Institute Pelicans went out of their class to defeat the Class A Tallulah Trojans in the L.T.I. gym yesterday afternoon, 39-26. The Pels were playing stellar ball and hitting a large percentage of their shots as they led all the way, 12-1 in the first, 22-7 at the half, and 31-13 going into the last quarter.

Bobby Boudreaux, just up from the junior league, led the Pels with 13 points, closely followed by Joe Carlisle with 12. Tallulah's leading scorer was Turner with 10 points. The contest put the Pelicans ahead in basketball games with the Trojans this year as they split two contests in Tallulah earlier this year with the varsity team losing, and the B team winning. A "B" contest scheduled for yesterday was cancelled.

A contest here with Choudrant next Tuesday afternoon will be the last scheduled basketball game for the L.T.I. cagemen who have won 21 games, while losing 14 and tieing one against high school teams in regular scheduled games and three tournaments. They end their season next Friday when they enter the Class C division of the North Louisiana Rally at Ruston's Louisiana Tech.

Their record this year has been good considering the fact that their lineup yesterday contained the name of only one boy who was on their first team when the season opened. Many of their star players have returned to their homes either during the Christmas season or at mid-term. Particularly hurting the L.T.I. team was the loss of such stalwarts as Johnny Hernandez, Bill Paulk, Arbon Felker, and Raymond Bender.

The lineups:

Carlisle (12)	C.	(3) Hopkins
Boudreaux (13)	G.	(3) King
Rentz (6)	G.	S. Williamson

Actress Susan Ball To Try New Leg

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13—UP—Actress Susan Ball, whose infected right leg was amputated last Jan. 12, said Saturday she will start learning to walk all over again after she is fitted with an aritificial "practice leg" Monday.

Susan said she couldn't be fitted for a permanent leg until her own left leg fills out to its normal size so the artificial limb can be matched to it. The plucky brunette said her weight was down to 97 pounds and that she cannot gain more weight "no matter how much I eat."

Construction Of New Natural Gas Lines At Dodson

DODSON, Feb. 13 (Special)—Mayor J. L. Mathews stated that construction of the new natural gas lines had begun in Dodson Thursday, February 10. It is estimated that it will take about six weeks to complete the laying of the lines, with the main line being completed by the time the town lines are.

The main will be a four-inch line, which runs from a point about one mile east of Gannsville community to the tie-in point in Dodson. Two inch mains will be laid in town with service lines to the houses of one inch.

Mayor Mathews stated that about 141 customers are signed for the gas system. Butane gas is now in use in Dodson at present. Beside the homes which will convert to the natural gas the school will also use it as butane is now the source of heat.

Dodson is the second town in Winn parish to put in a natural gas system, Winnfield being first but at present the Calvin citizens are working on their system and it is expected that they too will soon install it.

Both Dodson and Calvin will be served from the United Gas lines pipeline which runs through wards four, seven and eight.

Two Stocks Star In Performance On New York Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—This was the week for individual stars in the stock market.

Sensational performances were given by RKO Pictures and New York Central and many another individual stock held the stage for brief periods.

The market as a whole was able to advance slightly in its sixth straight weekly gain. By and large the market's action was considered a phase of consolidation following recent sharp forward movements.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 20 cents on the week and closed at $114.90, the highest point the average has reached since March 25 of last year. It now stands only $1.40 away from the 1953-54 peak of Jan. 5, 1953, which was the best level the average had reached since June 4, 1930.

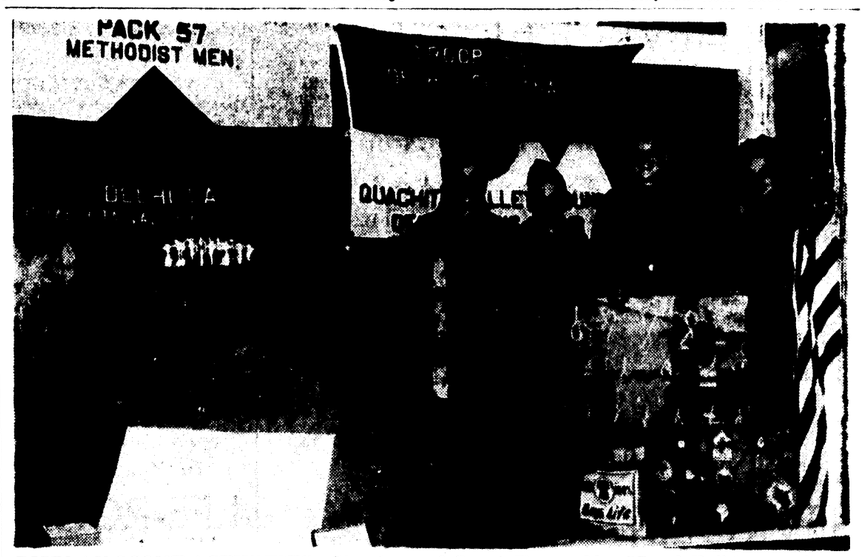

Chartists feel the market has an excellent chance of moving ahead to new highs from present levels after going through a period of quietly irregular price movements. But there still is a group in Wall Street that insists the market will go through a price reaction before trying for new highs, if it follows its previous patterns.

In the bond market railroads and utilities prolonged the 1954 bull market in corporate bonds as new financing spotlighted the two-month decline in interest rates.

Cotton Futures Climb As Export Demand Increases

Bullish sentiment was aided by a definite upswing in export business, and by a continuing increase in the government's net holdings of the staple. Prospects for a further improvement in exports were noted when the Foreign Operations Administration announced a cotton grant to Finland in an amount sufficient to cover 11,800 bales.

Of more than passing interest was the U. S. Census Bureau's final report on supply and distribution at the close of the last season. At 5,605,000, the figure showed an increase of 103,000 bales over the bureau's preliminary report of last August.

As a result of the increase in the carryover, the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau pointed out, it now seems likely that the in-season stock at the close of the current season will approximate 10,030,000 bales, which would be the biggest since July 31, 1945.

Exports are now within 12 per cent of last year's level, it was noted. In January they were running 21 per cent behind.

For the week ended Tuesday, exports totaled 100,000 bales against 62,000 in the same week of 1953. This brought the total for the season to date to 1,594,000 vs. 1,815,000 bales a year ago.

Senator Aiken To Make Fight For Food Stamp Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 —UP— Sen. George D Aiken (R-Vt.) said Saturday he expects the Agriculture Department to recommend his food stamp plan for the nation's needy families or come up with a better plan of its own.

The department itself, despite proddings by several members of Congress, has given no official reaction to Aiken's plan for disposing of surplus food stocks.

But Aiken, chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee, said in an interview that the department is working on it.

"I've told them if it isn't the answer to go to work on something better," he said.

Aiken has been pressing for the food stamp plan regularly for the past decade. Basically, it involves giving and selling — on a graduated scale depending upon a family's income — stamps or coupons redeemable for surplus foodstuffs acquired by the government in its farm price support program.

Sens. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) and Guy M. Gillette (D-Iowa) have become actively interested in it. Mrs. John B. Sullivan (D-Mo.) introduced a similar bill this week in the House.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson has not answered inquiries from Ferguson and Gillette who wanted his opinion on the measure.

Aiken said "the administrative difficulties are formidable, but if we get such a program it would end the problem of farm surpluses."

Government-held stocks of surpluses, much of them edible, now amount to almost $7 billion. How to dispose of them without disrupting normal trade channels is the big question.

Civic Leader In New Orleans Dies

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Mrs. Paul F. Jahncke, 71, prominent New Orleans civic and social leader, died at her home today after a long illness.

She had been active in charity, patriotic and service organizations, and served as senior woman officer of the Coast Guard voluntary port security force during World War II.

She is survived by her husband, two daughters and three sons. Funeral services were scheduled this afternoon.

Gov. Shivers Challenges 'Duchy'

SAN DIEGO, Tex., Feb. 13—UP —A man who came to San Diego on business this week received a letter from his mother—it advised him not to go out on the streets of this Duval county seat at night.

Another businessman, a frequent visitor, received a telephone call at his hotel from a friend in San Antonio. The friend appealed to the businessman to leave the hotel immediately, because this time it also quartered a large corps of "foreign" newspapermen and there might be shooting.

True and untrue stories of Duval county violence, political intrigue and measures against outside newsmen are legendary in Texas.

The two incidents above, true but involving persons who will not be named, occurred this week as the state of Texas opened its greatest offensive against a political empire known variously as the "Duchy" or the "free state" of Duval, characterized by state officials as a "cancerous growth on the state" where the "light of freedom has been almost snuffed out."

The spectacular political battle which has captured Texas' imaginations and its newspapers' headlines is confined geographically to 1,814 dusty and windswept square miles in South Texas and involves only some 15,500 persons.

Many observers believe, however that its outcome will have national significance.

The combatants:

On one side, Gov. Allan Shivers, whose program to "end boss rule in South Texas" is being carried out by State Attorney General John Ben Shepperd and backed by two-gun Texas Rangers, the full force of Texas state government, federal postal inspectors and internal revenue agents.

On the other, George Parr, 53, the "Duke of Duval" county, who inherited from his father, one-time State Sen. Archie Parr, a political empire noted for its almost unanimous votes at the polls.

Behind Parr, who stoutly disclaims he is a political boss but whom many claimed elected the man who now is Senate Democratic leader, is a sympathetic local government and thousands of loyal followers, most of them of Latin American descent—beneficiaries of a paternalistic system of local government which heavily taxes the oil companies and the big ranchers and taps leaner pocketbooks hardly at all.

Duval county leaped into national prominence in the 1948 senatorial election in Texas. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson defeated former Gov. Coke Stevenson by a margin of 87 votes from among 1 million cast.

Duval county's Box 13 voted 4,600 to 40 for Johnson. Stevenson, in federal courts and finally before the U. S. Senate itself, unsuccessfully sought to prevent seating of Johnson, charging fraud in Duval and other adjoining South Texas counties.

Pope Pius Plans Message To Sick And Ailing Today

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 13—UP— Pope Pius XII, recovering from a 19-day attack of gastritis, Saturday recorded from his own sickbed the start of a message to be broadcast to the sick and ailing of the world Sunday.

He had hoped to broadcast the entire message, Vatican sources said, but on the advice of doctors and aides only recorded the opening phrases.

The Vatican radio will carry the pope's message to the world Sunday night on the Catholic "day of the sick."

A microphone and recording equipment were brought into the pontiff's bedroom and from his bed he spoke a greeting to the sick and ailing and then the start of his message.

Vatican sources said the 77-year-old pope spoke in firm and clear voice despite the almost three-weeks long weakening attack of gastritis.

Father Francesco Pellegrino, of the Vatican radio, will read the bulk of the message. The Vatican transmitter will beam recordings and translations of the message around the world in 30 languages.

The Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano said that the pope in his message called upon the Virgin Mary to aid all the world's sick and ailing.

The pope has been ill since Jan. 25 when he suffered a gastritis attack, followed by hiccups, fever and general fatigue.

The pope has recovered to a point where he can take small quantities of solid food and is regaining his strength.

Claims Against Rhea Estate Are Held Invalid

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 13—UP —Claims totaling $2,239.368 against the estate of the late Isaac Rhea, New Orleans bag manufacturer, were dismissed in federal court here.

Judge Marion Boyd ruled there was no issue of fact and that the claimants could not recover on the basis of an oral agreement in conflict with Rhea's will.

The claims were filed by five former executives of Mente and Co., the firm headed by Rhea. The five contended they were entitled to Rhea's interest in the firm.

They based their claims on an oral contract they said Rhea made with them in which they would divide his interest in the firm at his death. They said the interest in the firm was to compensate them for low salaries paid them by Rhea.

Dedication Set For Indian Park On March 14

MARKSVILLE, La., Feb. 13— UP—The 35-acre State Prehistoric Indian Park and Museum with some $8,800 worth of Indian exhibits prepared by the Smithsonian Institution will be dedicated March 14.

Dr. Frank Setzler of Smithsonian and Curator Robert Neitzel of Marksville will speak at the dedication of the $35,000 museum which was constructed in 1952.

Installation of the Indian exhibits, prepared at Smithsonian and the National Parks Laboraory in Washington, will be begun next week, according to W. W. Wells of Baton Rouge, director of the State Parks and Recreation Commission.

The exhibition was prepared by Dr. James A. Ford of the American Institute of Natural History in New York, who was active in archaelogical exploration of Marksville Park. The park also contains a zoo, developed and maintained by the Town of Marksvile.

Directors Accept Hughes' Offer For Assets Of RKO

ATLANTA, Feb. 13 (AP)—A reshaped board of directors of RKO Pictures Corp. announced today its acceptance of Howard Hughes' bid to buy the assets of the big movie company for $23,489,478 or at the rate of $6 a share on outstanding stock.

The board called a special meeting of stockholders to be held in Dover, Del., at noon Thursday, March 18, to vote on the proposal.

The action was in the absence of Hughes who already owns nearly half of the stock and is chairman of the board. The acceptance was predicted by a shuffling and enlargement of the board membership.

The board's formal statement on its decision said its membership was changed "so that a full study of the proposal could be made by new directors" who were not involved in litigation aimed at removing Hughes from control.

Board membership was enlarged from five to seven and directors E. L. Walton, executive assistant to James R. Grainger, RKO president; William H. Clark, RKO treasurer; Garrett Van Wagner, company comptroller; and Charles Boasberg, domestic general sales manager of RKO.

Grainger, Hughes and Noah Dietrich of Houston complete the membership. Hughes and Dietrich did not attend the sessions and Grainger withdrew during the vote on the Hughes proposal.

If stockholders accept the board's recommendation, Hughes will retire all outstanding stock at the rate of $6 a share and become sole owner of RKO pictures and of RKO Radio Pictures Inc., the operating company which produces movies for RKO pictures.

While the company has 3,914,913 shares of stock, Hughes already owns 1,262,120 shares, being by far the largest individual holder.

Hughes' bid of last Sunday to buy the company outright apparently was an outgrowth of criticism and litigation aimed at his control of the organization which has not been making money recently. He said he wanted all stockholders to be able to obtain more for their stock than they could have through sale at the market price any time since he became associated with the company.

The offer sent the stock surging to $5.37 a share on first sales Monday, in contrast to the Feb. 5 close of $2.87. It closed yesterday at $5.25.

Reduction Of Standing Committees In Louisiana Legislature Is Urged

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Legislative Council's committee on legislative procedure recommended today that the number of state Senate standing committees be reduced from 26 to 12.

State Sen. David MacHauer, committee chairman, said a study showed that four committees—Judiciary A, Judiciary B, Finance and Parochial and Municipal Affairs—handled 63 per cent of all bills during the last session of the Legislature. He said some committees never receive a bill for study.

"The cutting of the number of committees would eliminate duplication and avoid overlapping of functions," MacHauer said. "The cut would also mean less duplication in the scheduling of meetings of committees."

MacHauer said the committee referred to a subcommittee a recommendation that the number of House standing committees be cut. Reps. Albert Koorie and C. Cyril Broussard are on the subcommittee.

The committee, which met here this week, also recommended:

1. A three-day orientation conference for legislators before each meeting.

2. The pre-session filing of bills with the Legislative Council.

3. The printing of all House bills.

3-Year Terms For Marine Officers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 —UP— The Marine corps has announced Saturday that newly commissioned reserve officers will have to serve three years on active duty instead of the present two.

Ellender To Talk At Meeting Of Potato Growers

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb 13 — UP—Sen. Allen J. Ellender, ranking Democrat on the Senate agriculture committee, will address the 10th annual meeting o the Louisiana Sweet Potato Association here Feb 20.

The meeting will be held on the campus of Louisiana State University, according to Dr. Julian C. Miller, head of horticultural research at LSU and chairman of the meeting.

Ellender will speak on "Louisiana Agriculture As Affected by National Problems." Other speakers include Agriculture Commissioner Dave Pearce LSU president Troy Middleton, and Harvey Garrett of St. Francisville president of the association.

$57,000 Left By Coal Shoveler

PIERMONT, N. Y., Feb. 13 -UP —A resident of Communist Russia may be the heir to $13,000 in cash and $44,000 in bank deposits left by a 72-year-old coal shoveler whose neighbors believed him to be nearly destitute.

After Jacob Movich died of a heart attack Friday while shoveling coal, authorities went to his tiny apartment. It had no electricity and there was little food in the kitchen.

Police searching with flashlights found $13,000 crammed behind a baseboard. There also were four bankbooks tucked behind the woodwork. They showed $44,000 in deposits.

Several uncashed pay checks, each for $100, also were found in the flat.

The only clues to information about Movich were contained in four letters, written in Russian. All were dated in the last four years.

Actress Susan Ball To Try New Leg

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13—UP—Actress Susan Ball, whose infected right leg was amputated last Jan. 12, said Saturday she will start learning to walk all over again after she is fitted with an aritificial "practice leg" Monday.

Susan said she couldn't be fitted for a permanent leg until her own left leg fills out to its normal size so the artificial limb can be matched to it. The plucky brunette said her weight was down to 97 pounds and that she cannot gain more weight "no matter how much I eat."

DODSON, Feb. 13 (Special)—Mayor J. L. Mathews stated that construction of the new natural gas lines had begun in Dodson Thursday, February 10. It is estimated that it will take about six weeks to complete the laying of the lines, with the main line being completed by the time the town lines are.

The main will be a four-inch line, which runs from a point about one mile east of Gannsville community to the tie-in point in Dodson. Two inch mains will be laid in town with service lines to the houses of one inch.

Mayor Mathews stated that about 141 customers are signed for the gas system. Butane gas is now in use in Dodson at present. Beside the homes which will convert to the natural gas the school will also use it as butane is now the source of heat.

Dodson is the second town in Winn parish to put in a natural gas system, Winnfield being first but at present the Calvin citizens are working on their system and it is expected that they too will soon install it.

Both Dodson and Calvin will be served from the United Gas lines pipeline which runs through wards four, seven and eight.

Two Stocks Star In Performance On New York Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—This was the week for individual stars in the stock market.

Sensational performances were given by RKO Pictures and New York Central and many another individual stock held the stage for brief periods.

The market as a whole was able to advance slightly in its sixth straight weekly gain. By and large the market's action was considered a phase of consolidation following recent sharp forward movements.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 20 cents on the week and closed at $114.90, the highest point the average has reached since March 25 of last year. It now stands only $1.40 away from the 1953-54 peak of Jan. 5, 1953, which was the best level the average had reached since June 4, 1930.

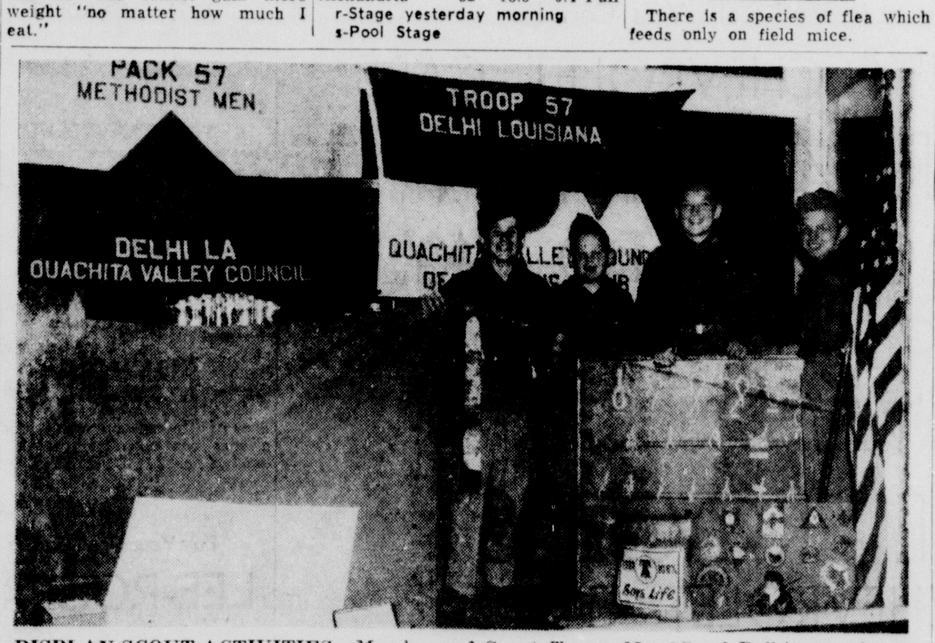

Chartists feel the market has an excellent chance of moving ahead to new highs from present levels after going through a period of quietly irregular price movements. But there still is a group in Wall Street that insists the market will go through a price reaction before trying for new highs, if it follows its previous patterns.

In the bond market railroads and utilities prolonged the 1954 bull market in corporate bonds as new financing spotlighted the two-month decline in interest rates.

Cotton Futures Climb As Export Demand Increases

Bullish sentiment was aided by a definite upswing in export business, and by a continuing increase in the government's net holdings of the staple. Prospects for a further improvement in exports were noted when the Foreign Operations Administration announced a cotton grant to Finland in an amount sufficient to cover 11,800 bales.

Of more than passing interest was the U. S. Census Bureau's final report on supply and distribution at the close of the last season. At 5,605,000, the figure showed an increase of 103,000 bales over the bureau's preliminary report of last August.

As a result of the increase in the carryover, the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau pointed out, it now seems likely that the in-season stock at the close of the current season will approximate 10,030,000 bales, which would be the biggest since July 31, 1945.

Exports are now within 12 per cent of last year's level, it was noted. In January they were running 21 per cent behind.

For the week ended Tuesday, exports totaled 100,000 bales against 62,000 in the same week of 1953. This brought the total for the season to date to 1,594,000 vs. 1,815,000 bales a year ago.

Senator Aiken To Make Fight For Food Stamp Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 —UP—Sen. George D Aiken (R-Vt.) said Saturday he expects the Agriculture Department to recommend his food stamp plan for the nation's needy families or come up with a better plan of its own.

The department itself, despite proddings by several members of Congress, has given no official reaction to Aiken's plan for disposing of surplus food stocks.

But Aiken, chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee, said in an interview that the department is working on it.

"I've told them if it isn't the answer to go to work on something better," he said.

Aiken has been pressing for the food stamp plan regularly for the past decade. Basically, it involves giving and selling — on a graduated scale depending upon a family's income — stamps or coupons redeemable for surplus foodstuffs acquired by the government in its farm price support program.

Sens. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) and Guy M. Gillette (D-Iowa) have become actively interested in it. Mrs. John B. Sullivan (D-Mo.) introduced a similar bill this week in the House.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson has not answered inquiries from Ferguson and Gillette who wanted his opinion on the measure.

Aiken said "the administrative difficulties are formidable, but if we get such a program it would end the problem of farm surpluses."

Government-held stocks of surpluses, much of them edible, now amount to almost $7 billion. How to dispose of them without disrupting normal trade channels is the big question.

Civic Leader In New Orleans Dies

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Mrs. Paul F. Jahncke, 71, prominent New Orleans civic and social leader, died at her home today after a long illness.

She had been active in charity, patriotic and service organizations, and served as senior woman officer of the Coast Guard voluntary port security force during World War II.

She is survived by her husband, two daughters and three sons. Funeral services were scheduled this afternoon.

Gov. Shivers Challenges 'Duchy'

SAN DIEGO, Tex., Feb. 13—UP—A man who came to San Diego on business this week received a letter from his mother—it advised him not to go out on the streets of this Duval county seat at night.

Another businessman, a frequent visitor, received a telephone call at his hotel from a friend in San Antonio. The friend appealed to the businessman to leave the hotel immediately, because this time it also quartered a large corps of "foreign" newspapermen and there might be shooting.

True and untrue stories of Duval county violence, political intrigue and measures against outside newsmen are legendary in Texas.

The two incidents above, true but involving persons who will not be named, occurred this week as the state of Texas opened its greatest offensive against a political empire known variously as the "Duchy" or the "free state" of Duval, characterized by state officials as a "cancerous growth on the state" where the "light of freedom has been almost snuffed out."

The spectacular political battle which has captured Texas' imaginations and its newspapers' headlines is confined geographically to 1,814 dusty and windswept square miles in South Texas and involves only some 15,500 persons.

Many observers believe, however that its outcome will have national significance.

The combatants:

On one side, Gov. Allan Shivers, whose program to "end boss rule in South Texas" is being carried out by State Attorney General John Ben Shepperd and backed by two-gun Texas Rangers, the full force of Texas state government, federal postal inspectors and internal revenue agents.

On the other, George Parr, 53, the "Duke of Duval" county, who inherited from his father, one-time State Sen. Archie Parr, a political empire noted for its almost unanimous votes at the polls.

Behind Parr, who stoutly disclaims he is a political boss but whom many claimed elected the man who now is Senate Democratic leader, is a sympathetic local government and thousands of loyal followers, most of them of Latin American descent—beneficiaries of a paternalistic system of local government which heavily taxes the oil companies and the big ranchers and taps leaner pocketbooks hardly at all.

Duval county leaped into national prominence in the 1948 senatorial election in Texas. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson defeated former Gov. Coke Stevenson by a margin of 87 votes from among 1 million cast.

Duval county's Box 13 voted 4,600 to 40 for Johnson. Stevenson, in federal courts and finally before the U. S. Senate itself, unsuccessfully sought to prevent seating of Johnson, charging fraud in Duval and other adjoining South Texas counties.

Pope Pius Plans Message To Sick And Ailing Today

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 13—UP—Pope Pius XII, recovering from a 19-day attack of gastritis, Saturday recorded from his own sickbed the start of a message to be broadcast to the sick and ailing of the world Sunday.

He had hoped to broadcast the entire message, Vatican sources said, but on the advice of doctors and aides only recorded the opening phrases.

The Vatican radio will carry the pope's message to the world Sunday night on the Catholic "day of the sick."

A microphone and recording equipment were brought into the pontiff's bedroom and from his bed he spoke a greeting to the sick and ailing and then the start of his message.

Vatican sources said the 77-year-old pope spoke in firm and clear voice despite the almost three-weeks long weakening attack of gastritis.

Father Francesco Pellegrino, of the Vatican radio, will read the bulk of the message. The Vatican transmitter will beam recordings and translations of the message around the world in 30 languages.

The Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano said that the pope in his message called upon the Virgin Mary to aid all the world's sick and ailing.

The pope has been ill since Jan. 25 when he suffered a gastritis attack, followed by hiccups, fever and general fatigue.

The pope has recovered to a point where he can take small quantities of solid food and is regaining his strength.

Claims Against Rhea Estate Are Held Invalid

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 13—UP—Claims totaling $2,239.368 against the estate of the late Isaac Rhea, New Orleans bag manufacturer, were dismissed in federal court here.

Judge Marion Boyd ruled there was no issue of fact and that the claimants could not recover on the basis of an oral agreement in conflict with Rhea's will.

The claims were filed by five former executives of Mente and Co., the firm headed by Rhea. The five contended they were entitled to Rhea's interest in the firm.

They based their claims on an oral contract they said Rhea made with them in which they would divide his interest in the firm at his death. They said the interest in the firm was to compensate them for low salaries paid them by Rhea.

Dedication Set For Indian Park On March 14

MARKSVILLE, La., Feb. 13—UP—The 35-acre State Prehistoric Indian Park and Museum with some $8,800 worth of Indian exhibits prepared by the Smithsonian Institution will be dedicated March 14.

Dr. Frank Setzler of Smithsonian and Curator Robert Neitzel of Marksville will speak at the dedication of the $35,000 museum which was constructed in 1952.

Installation of the Indian exhibits, prepared at Smithsonian and the National Parks Laboraory in Washington, will be begun next week, according to W. W. Wells of Baton Rouge, director of the State Parks and Recreation Commission.

The exhibition was prepared by Dr. James A. Ford of the American Institute of Natural History in New York, who was active in archaelogical exploration of Marksville Park. The park also contains a zoo, developed and maintained by the Town of Marksvile.

Reduction Of Standing Committees In Louisiana Legislature Is Urged

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Legislative Council's committee on legislative procedure recommended today that the number of state Senate standing committees be reduced from 26 to 12.

State Sen. David MacHauer, committee chairman, said a study showed that four committees—Judiciary A, Judiciary B, Finance and Parochial and Municipal Affairs—handled 63 per cent of all bills during the last session of the Legislature. He said some committees never receive a bill for study.

"The cutting of the number of committees would eliminate duplication and avoid overlapping of functions," MacHauer said. "The cut would also mean less duplication in the scheduling of meetings of committees."

MacHauer said the committee referred to a subcommittee a recommendation that the number of House standing committees be cut. Reps. Albert Koorie and C. Cyril Broussard are on the subcommittee.

The committee, which met here this week, also recommended:

1. A three-day orientation conference for legislators before each meeting.

2. The pre-session filing of bills with the Legislative Council.

3. The printing of all House bills.

3-Year Terms For Marine Officers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 —UP—The Marine corps has announced Saturday that newly commissioned reserve officers will have to serve three years on active duty instead of the present two.

Directors Accept Hughes' Offer For Assets Of RKO

ATLANTA, Feb. 13 (AP)—A reshaped board of directors of RKO Pictures Corp. announced today its acceptance of Howard Hughes' bid to buy the assets of the big movie company for $23,489,478 or at the rate of $6 a share on outstanding stock.

The board called a special meeting of stockholders to be held in Dover, Del., at noon Thursday, March 18, to vote on the proposal.

The action was in the absence of Hughes who already owns nearly half of the stock and is chairman of the board. The acceptance was predicted by a shuffling and enlargement of the board membership.

The board's formal statement on its decision said its membership was changed "so that a full study of the proposal could be made by new directors" who were not involved in litigation aimed at removing Hughes from control.

Board membership was enlarged from five to seven and directors E. L. Walton, executive assistant to James R. Grainger, RKO president; William H. Clark, RKO treasurer; Garrett Van Wagner, company comptroller; and Charles Boasberg, domestic general sales manager of RKO.

Grainger, Hughes and Noah Dietrich of Houston complete the membership. Hughes and Dietrich did not attend the sessions and Grainger withdrew during the vote on the Hughes proposal.

If stockholders accept the board's recommendation, Hughes will retire all outstanding stock at the rate of $6 a share and become sole owner of RKO pictures and of RKO Radio Pictures Inc., the operating company which produces movies for RKO pictures.

While the company has 3,914,913 shares of stock, Hughes already owns 1,262,120 shares, being by far the largest individual holder.

Hughes' bid of last Sunday to buy the company outright apparently was an outgrowth of criticism and litigation aimed at his control of the organization which has not been making money recently. He said he wanted all stockholders to be able to obtain more for their stock than they could have through sale at the market price any time since he became associated with the company.

The offer sent the stock surging to $5.37 a share on first sales Monday, in contrast to the Feb. 5 close of $2.87. It closed yesterday at $5.25.

Ellender To Talk At Meeting Of Potato Growers

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 13—UP—Sen. Allen J. Ellender, ranking Democrat on the Senate agriculture committee, will address the 10th annual meeting of the Louisiana Sweet Potato Association here Feb. 20.

The meeting will be held on the campus of Louisiana State University, according to Dr. Julian C. Miller, head of horticultural research at LSU and chairman of the meeting.

Ellender will speak on "Louisiana Agriculture As Affected by National Problems." Other speakers include Agriculture Commissioner Dave Pearce LSU president Troy Middleton, and Harvey Garrett of St. Francisville president of the association.

$57,000 Left By Coal Shoveler

PIERMONT, N. Y., Feb. 13—UP—A resident of Communist Russia may be the heir to $13,000 in cash and $44,000 in bank deposits left by a 72-year-old coal shoveler whose neighbors believed him to be nearly destitute.

After Jacob Movich died of a heart attack Friday while shoveling coal, authorities went to his tiny apartment. It had no electricity and there was little food in the kitchen.

Police searching with flashlights found $13,000 crammed behind a baseboard. There also were four bankbooks tucked behind the woodwork. They showed $44,000 in deposits.

Several uncashed pay checks, each for $100, also were found in the flat.

The only clues to information about Movich were contained in four letters, written in Russian. All were dated in the last four years.

Stephens, Lenhardt Sign Oriole Pacts

BALTIMORE, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles today received signed contracts from outfielder Don Lenhardt and third baseman Vern Stephens, two of the better hitters with the St. Louis Browns last season.

They brought to 25 the number of Orioles announced as now signed up for the 1954 season.

ARE YOU AWARE THAT It Does Not Take An Accident To Throw Your Wheels Out Of Alignment?

Far from it. Riding over rough streets, down ruts or bumping into curbs will oftentimes throw wheels of even the newest cars out of line. THEN DEADLY TIRE WEAR SETS IN . . . and you are driving an unsafe car.

Our mechanics check all alignment angles with Precision Gauges. They can tell you the exact alignment condition of your car in a jiffy. If it needs repair . . . the work will be done quickly . . . efficiently and economically.

THIS IS it! If you are looking for a good car, read this deal for only $495. My personal 1949 Kaiser (Traveler car). It can be used for dual purposes. Back end opens completely for bulky hauling and in less than a minute can be closed to a 5-passenger car. Dewey Harbour's Garage just last week installed new rings and did other work to a tune of $100. Kaiser looks good, and is good, and is mechanically good. It cost new, $2360. I am driving it every day. Fran Brennan Brennan Utilities. Ph. 6772.

RENT A PIANO
$4 Per Month & Up
NO NEED to gamble a small fortune on your child's musical education. Just pay a nominal rental fee on one of our certified pianos. Then after you are convinced that your child can learn to play you may apply all rentals on the purchase price of either the instrument you have in your possession or any other piano we have in stock. Now, isn't that fair? Give us a trial.

DON'T IGNORE IT
FOR YOU'LL adore it at first sight... and once inside (it's vacant) you'll cherish it even more! Here's why: there are two nice size bedrooms (one with a tremendous walk-in closet); the decorator's taste in wallpaper was superb; has attic fan and floor furnace; kitchen has washer plumbing, utility closet and spacious cabinet space; the floors fairly glisten, in fact, this is one home you can move into without a "cleaning day." It's located at 3104 GORDON AVE. and only $1050 down buys it!

IF YOU CHERISH...
...THE comfort of a spacious home, one that's ideally located on a bus line, just a block to a grammar school and with a grocery store handy—you should take just a moment to look at 2004 JACKSON ST. Only $1900 down buys all 1426 Sq. feet with its 3 bedrooms, separate living and dining rooms; lifetime slate roof and loads of other livable features and all the foregoing with monthly payments of less than $60.

I BET-CHA CAN'T..
... HAVE EITHER one of these brand new homes at 506 & 510 CRYER ST. in W. Monroe built for anywhere near the asking price . . . for both have 1118 sq. feet of living area . . . 3 bedrooms . . . large living room with a generous size dining area . . . well - arranged kitchen with breakfast area . . . 42" attic fan and panel-ray wall heaters plus a carport with storage and a 75'x120' lot! They're located just across the st. from Millsap grammar and ½ block from the high school. $1860 down is all it takes.

IT STILL SMELLS...
... NEW. That is! As well it should for it's been completed less than six months. Here's a roomy (1378 sq. feet) home with the following features among its numerous sq. feet: 2 nice size bedrooms both with sliding door closets; a panelled den as well as a roomy panelled kitchen & dining area; the living room has wall-to-wall carpet; has aluminum window frames; bath has shower and built-in dressing table and it has a carport with storage. It's located at 806 S. 5th on a 75'x150' lot and it's already financed with $2763 down. Wanta' look?

PAINLESS PAYMENTS
LIVE LIKE a king, pay like a pauper! Not only low monthly payments of approximately $47, but also a low down payment of only $700 buys this bargain on a 50'x150' corner lot at 600 ADCOCK ST. Among the 832 sq. feet are features like: 2 bedrooms, a well proportioned living room; an AMERICAN -KITCHEN with all metal cabinets; outside metal awnings and a 11'x26' den on the back. Call for appointment to see today!

"CAN THAT BE SO?"
"... do you really mean a home in this location can be purchased for only $688 down? Yes mam . . . and what a home is this one on a 75'x150' corner lot at 707 "K" St. with its double garage and its 1122 sq. feet of floor space. Among the many features are: 2 roomy bedrooms; attic fan & floor furnace; unusual taste in wallpaper throughout; bath has shower and kitchen is roomy with loads of cabinet space. You'd better look today before someone beats you to this sensible buy.

YOU CAN BE
THE HAPPY owner of this new brick home — especially planned for comfort, livability & easy housekeeping — Far more easily than you may think. The two bedrooms are nice size; the modern kitchen is "U" shaped for the utmost in convenience; bath has shower and colored fixtures; there's a breezeway & carport and its on a corner lot at 4208 Lee Ave! $3400 down makes the move!

"FOR THE BIRDS!"
THE TREES that surround it, but not the enchanting 8-room home with its 3 bedrooms (one with a walk-in closet), its 80'x200' corner lot, its separate dining area, its carport and it's just a block to grammar school! 809 Splane Drive is the address — $1216 is the down payment.

NO SOAP

DON'T IGNORE IT

FOR YOU'LL adore it at first sight . . . and once inside (it's vacant) you'll cherish it even more! Here's why: there are two nice size bedrooms (one with a tremendous walk-in closet); the decorator's taste in wallpaper was superb; has attic fan and floor furnace; kitchen has washer plumbing, utility closet and spacious cabinet space; the floors fairly glisten, in fact, this is one home you can move into without a "cleaning day." It's located at 3104 GORDON AVE. and only $1050 down buys it!

IF YOU CHERISH . . .

. . .THE comfort of a spacious home, one that's ideally located on a bus line, just a block to a grammar school and with a grocery store handy—you should take just a moment to look at 2004 JACKSON ST. Only $1900 down buys all 1426 Sq. feet with its 3 bedrooms, separate living and dining rooms; lifetime slate roof and loads of other livable features and all the foregoing with monthly payments of less than $60.

I BET-CHA CAN'T . .

. . . HAVE EITHER one of these brand new homes at 506 & 510 CRYER ST. in W. Monroe built for anywhere near the asking price . . . for both have 1118 sq. feet of living area . . . 3 bedrooms . . . large living room with a generous size dining area . . . well - arranged kitchen with breakfast area . . . 42" attic fan and panel-ray wall heaters plus a carport with storage and a 75'x120' lot! They're located just across the st. from Millsaps grammar and ½ block from the high school. $1860 down is all it takes.

IT STILL SMELLS . . .

. . . NEW. That is! As well it should for it's been completed less than six months. Here's a roomy (1378 sq. feet) home with the following features among its numerous sq. feet: 2 nice size bedrooms both with sliding door closets; a pine-paneled den as well as a roomy pine-paneled kitchen & dining area; the living room has wall-to-wall carpet; has aluminum window frames; bath has shower and built-in dressing table and it has a carport with storage. It's located at 805 S. 5th on a 75'x150' lot and it's already financed with $2763 down. Wanta' look?

PAINLESS PAYMENTS

LIVE LIKE a king, pay like a pauper! Not only low monthly payments of approximately $47, but also a low down payment of only $700 buys this bargain on a 50'x150' corner lot at 600 ADCOCK ST. Among the 832 sq. feet are features like: 2 bedrooms, a well proportioned living room; an AMERICAN -KITCHEN with all metal cabinets; outside metal awnings and a 11'x26' den on the back. Call for appointment to see today!

"CAN THAT BE SO?"

". . . do you really mean a home in this location can be purchased for only $688 down? Yes mam . . . and what a home is this one on a 75'x150' corner lot at 707 "K" St. with its double garage and its 1122 sq. feet of floor space. Among the many features are: 2 roomy bedrooms; attic fan & floor furnace; unusual taste in wallpaper throughout; bath has shower and kitchen is roomy with loads of cabinet space. You'd better look today before someone beats you to this sensible buy.

YOU CAN BE

THE HAPPY owner of this new brick home — especially planned for comfort, livability & easy housekeeping — Far more easily than you may think. The two bedrooms are nice size; the modern kitchen is "U" shaped for the utmost in convenience; bath has shower and colored fixtures; there's a breezeway & carport and its on a corner lot at 4208 Lee Ave! $2400 down makes the move!

"FOR THE BIRDS!"

THE TREES that surround it, but not the enchanting 5-room home with its 2 bedrooms (one with a walk-in closet), its 89'x209' corner lot, its separate dining area, its carport and it's just a block to grammar school! 602 Splane Drive is the address — $1274 is the down payment.

NO SOAP

Shot On Tramping Trip To N. O.

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 13—UP—A Strafford, Ont., teen-ager who said he was hoboing from Canada to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras may be taken there for a deportation hearing instead, authorities said Saturday.

Victor Restall, 17, who carries a bullet wound in his leg as a memento of his long trip, was brought here by immigration authorities from Tuscaloosa Friday.

E. W. Wilson Myers, officer in charge of the U.S. Department of Justice, Immigration and Naturalization at Mobile, said Restall would probably be sent to New Orleans Monday for a hearing.

Deputy Solicitor Fred Nicol at Tuscaloosa, Ala., said Restall, "a nice looking boy when we got the soot off him," spurned offers of a return trip home.

Nicol said Restall came limping into his office, "black as the Ace of Spades" Tuesday morning and said he had been shot Monday by a trainman near Vance, Ala., north of here.

A .22 caliber bullet was lodged in Restall's leg, the deputy solicitor said.

Several British subjects living in Tuscaloosa teamed up to see that Restall got medical treatment.

"We offered to pay his way back home," Nicol said, "but he refused. "We all wanted to help him, but he couldn't go anywhere with that bad leg and no money, so I turned him over to immigration authorities."

City Negro Reports Being Robbed Here

Lamar Jefferson, Negro, 107 Vicksburg, told police yesterday that he was held up and robbed of $18.30 in the vicinity of the Oak street railroad crossing at 3:00 a. m. Saturday. He said that two Negroes, about 20 years old, robbed him.

Chief of Detectives H. L. Tolbert reported last night that the case is "still being investigated."

14th Production Of Redskins To Start Thursday

When master of ceremonies, Charles Wood of Monroe, steps before the spotlight Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium at Northeast State the 14th annual production of "Redskins on Parade" will begin.

The performance is under sponsorship of the student council, headed by Johnie Parkerson. Actual production of the revue is the responsibility of Alice Montgomery, student director, and her stage crew. Faculty advisers who are ready to assist in any problem are J. W. Parkerson and George Brian of the speech faculty.

This year's show is titled "A Toast to Our Town," with the "Hellzapoppin" theme running throughout the stage feature. Twenty acts of comedy, dancing, drama and vocal numbers will be on the program for the two-hour bill of entertainment.

Variety will be emphasized in the show. Numbers will range from the jitterbug to the modern dance, from the old fashioned Negro minstrel to serious drama, and from the magical beauty of songs from the South Sea Islands to the Mississippi River showboat musicals.

As an additional treat for the audience, a guest artist or group is invited each year to perform. This spring will find talented petite Rosalie Battaglia sharing the limelight with campus talent. Rosalie will sing such popular songs as 'Oh, My Papa," "No Other Love" and "Butterflies."

Behind the scenes is Sylvia Jones of Mangham who is handling the business end of the production. The countless problems involved in managing finances, advertising and purchasing have been efficiently worked out, Johnie Parkerson explained, to insure high ranking entertainment.

Insurance Company's Offer To Sell Auto Policies At Discount Refused

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 13—UP—A "good company with earned premium rating of $134 million" has been refused permission to sell automobile insurance in Louisiana at 25 per cent less than required by the casualty and surety division of the State Rating Commission.

Joe McMeel, head of the division, said such a reduction would give the company, State Farm Mutual, "the cream of the business."

"We're willing to permit the company to pay back dividends of 25 per cent or even 45 per cent, but not the lower rate," McMeel said in explaining his decision, which is subject to the entire commission's review. "If I'm wrong, the courts can say so — but I still think there should be just one rate."

Records of the division did not indicate if the company plans an appeal of the decision.

The rating commission chairman, Secretary of State Wade O. Martin, declined to comment on the case since it may come before the entire commission later.

McMeel said the company could offer the lower rate because of less elaborate offices, fewer personnel and lower pay for salesmen.

"But they want to reserve the right to refuse to sell a policy to anyone who is a bad risk. Thus they could get the cream of the crop. It would kill competition."

The company cited in its application that it had operated in Virginia and other states under the conditions it seeks for here and that business there is still highly competitive among some 200 companies.

Direct Subsidy Plan Backed By Wool Growers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 —UP— The National Wool Growers Association announced its support Saturday of the administration's legislative proposal to pay wool producers direct subsidies rather than support the market with government loans.

The association said its endorsement of the administration program "was not quickly or easily arrived at" because it feels a long range answer to the wool producers' problems requires higher tariffs. President Eisenhower opposes a tariff increase at this time.

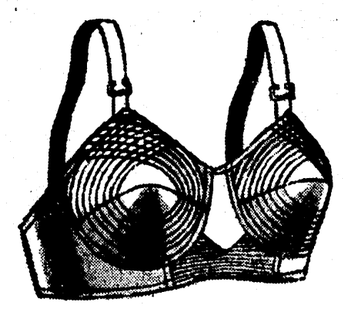

Ray W. Willoughby of San Angelo, Tex., president of the association, issued the endorsement following two days of meeting between representatives of every range sheep producing state of the west and both legislative and administrative officials.

He said the wool growers back the direct payments plan because "it will, first, provide an incentive to reverse the downward trend in American wool production, and, secondly, base that incentive payment upon wool tariff receipts rather than funds taken from the American taxpayer..."

Shot On Tramping Trip To N. O.

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 13—UP—A Strafford, Ont., teen-ager who said he was hoboing from Canada to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras may be taken there for a deportation hearing instead, authorities said Saturday.

Victor Restall, 17, who carries a bullet wound in his leg as a memento of his long trip, was brought here by immigration authorities from Tuscaloosa Friday.

E. W. Wilson Myers, officer in charge of the U.S. Department of Justice, Immigration and Naturalization at Mobile, said Restall would probably be sent to New Orleans Monday for a hearing.

Deputy Solicitor Fred Nicol at Tuscaloosa, Ala., said Restall, "a nice looking boy when we got the soot off him," spurned offers of a return trip home.

Nicol said Restall came limping into his office, "black as the Ace of Spades" Tuesday morning and said he had been shot Monday by a trainman near Vance, Ala., north of here.

A .22 caliber bullet was lodged in Restall's leg, the deputy solicitor said.

Several British subjects living in Tuscaloosa teamed up to see that Restall got medical treatment.

"We offered to pay his way back home," Nicol said, "but he refused. "We all wanted to help him, but he couldn't go anywhere with that bad leg and no money, so I turned him over to immigration authorities."

City Negro Reports Being Robbed Here

Lamar Jefferson, Negro, 107 Vicksburg, told police yesterday that he was held up and robbed of $18.30 in the vicinity of the Oak street railroad crossing at 3:00 a. m. Saturday. He said that two Negroes, about 20 years old, robbed him.

When master of ceremonies, Charles Wood of Monroe, steps before the spotlight Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium at Northeast State the 14th annual production of "Redskins on Parade" will begin.

The performance is under sponsorship of the student council, headed by Johnie Parkerson. Actual production of the revue is the responsibility of Alice Montgomery, student director, and her stage crew. Faculty advisers who are ready to assist in any problem are J. W. Parkerson and George Brian of the speech faculty.

This year's show is titled "A Toast to Our Town," with the "Hellzapoppin" theme running throughout the stage feature. Twenty acts of comedy, dancing, drama and vocal numbers will be on the program for the two-hour bill of entertainment.

Variety will be emphasized in the show. Numbers will range from the jitterbug to the modern dance, from the old fashioned Negro minstrel to serious drama, and from the magical beauty of songs from the South Sea Islands to the Mississippi River showboat musicals.

As an additional treat for the audience, a guest artist or group is invited each year to perform. This spring will find talented petite Rosalie Battaglia sharing the limelight with campus talent. Rosalie will sing such popular songs as 'Oh, My Papa," "No Other Love" and "Butterflies."

Behind the scenes is Sylvia Jones of Mangham who is handling the business end of the production. The countless problems involved in managing finances, advertising and purchasing have been efficiently worked out. Johnie Parkerson explained, to insure high ranking entertainment.

Insurance Company's Offer To Sell Auto Policies At Discount Refused

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 13—UP—A "good company with earned premium rating of $134 million" has been refused permission to sell automobile insurance in Louisiana at 25 per cent less than required by the casualty and surety division of the State Rating Commission.

Joe McMeel, head of the division, said such a reduction would give the company, State Farm Mutual, "the cream of the business."

"We're willing to permit the company to pay back dividends of 25 per cent or even 45 per cent, but not the lower rate," McMeel said in explaining his decision, which is subject to the entire commission's review. "If I'm wrong, the courts can say so — but I still think there should be just one rate."

Records of the division did not indicate if the company plans an appeal of the decision.

The rating commission chairman, Secretary of State Wade O. Martin, declined to comment on the case since it may come before the entire commission later.

McMeel said the company could offer the lower rate because of less elaborate offices, fewer personnel and lower pay for salesmen.

"But they want to reserve the right to refuse to sell a policy to anyone who is a bad risk. Thus they could get the cream of the crop. It would kill competition."

The company cited in its application that it had operated in Virginia and other states under the conditions it seeks for here and that business there is still highly competitive among some 200 companies.

Direct Subsidy Plan Backed By Wool Growers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 —UP— The National Wool Growers Association announced its support Saturday of the administration's legislative proposal to pay wool producers direct subsidies rather than support the market with government loans.

The association said its endorsement of the administration program "was not quickly or easily arrived at" because it feels a long range answer to the wool producers' problems requires higher tariffs. President Eisenhower opposes a tariff increase at this time.

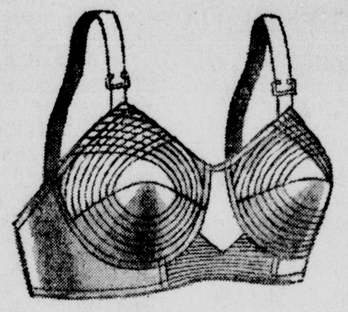

Ray W. Willoughby of San Angelo, Tex., president of the association, issued the endorsement following two days of meeting between representatives of every range sheep producing state of the west and both legislative and administrative officials.

He said the wool growers back the direct payments plan because "it will, first, provide an incentive to reverse the downward trend in American wool production, and, secondly, base that incentive payment upon wool tariff receipts rather than funds taken from the American taxpayer..."

Prenuptial Party Honors Mrs. Thomas Edgar Rainer

Mrs. Thomas Edgar Rainer, the former Miss Wyolene Hadskey of McNair, Mississippi, was recently honored at a pre-nuptial party in the home of Mrs. J. O. Scott of West Monroe. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Joe Kramburg and Mrs. H. V. Parsons.

Floral arrangements of red and white gladioli and red camellias were used throughout the living room. Miss Thelma Parsons led in the playing of several bridal games, which included the matching of red hearts which contained the names of Miss Hadskey and Mr. Rainer.

Carrying out a red and white Valentine theme, the tea table was overlaid with a white cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of red camellias. Miss Thelma Parsons poured punch from its crystal container which was surrounded by red camellias. Miss Jane Scott assisted in the serving of red and white heart shape sandwiches, cookies, and mints.

Those enjoying the occasion with the honoree and hostesses include Mrs. J. H. Edmonson, Mrs. V. S. Fincher, Mrs. H. Cherry, Mrs. Jim Rainer, Mrs. B. Cagle, Mrs. Elaine Newton, Mr. W. B. Nelson, Mrs. Will Davis, Mrs. Janie Tarbutton, Mrs. J. E. Rainer, Mrs. Betty Haynes, Mrs. Sara Hadskey, Mrs. Henry C. Hadskey, Mrs. W. E. Spencer, Mrs. Faye Lowery, Mrs. Lee Mann, Mrs. Polly Phillips, Mrs. Tommie Golson, Mrs. B. F. Hudnall, Mrs. H. P. Carter, Mrs. Houston Cheeks, Mrs. Courtney Little, Mrs. Ruby Edmonson, Mrs. Bill Pace.

Showmanship Makes Shower More Festive

Put yourself in solid with the bride-to-be and her friends by planning a shower that will be festive but easy on the pocketbook.

You know as well as I do that buying gifts for a round of showers plus the wedding gift is an expensive proposition. But no one likes to spoil the excitement of wedding parties by bringing up this practical detail.

One way to solve the problem tactfully is to have the guests chip in to buy one gift and to use a little showmanship in its presentation.

For example, at one party recently a ribbed glass punch bowl set was the gift presented as a clever springtime centerpiece. The set, which includes bowl, tray and cups, costs about $5.

To duplicate the presentation, all you have to do is invert the punch bowl on its tray, which should be covered with a lace paper doily. Take a strip of crepe paper (pale green is pretty), fold in half lengthwise and snip out a double row of petals.

Tie the petal collar around the stem end of the bowl. On top in the hollow base, perch a pastel nosegay for the bride. Ring the bowl with the cups, set on crepe paper petal-trimmed circles, and plant a dripless candle in each cup.

Well-designed, inexpensive glassware which you see in department and variety stores suggest equally showy centerpiece gifts. Use a big round salad bowl inverted as the base for bride and groom dolls wired or tapered to the center of a satin bow.

Narrow ribbons cascade from the bow over the sides of the bowl. Use squat, clear or striped, juice glasses as candle holders.

Rectangular opaque or colored glass casseroles with or without a metal frame can be tricked up as kitchen "planters." Fill with tiny pots of herbs—chives, mint and parsley are usually available—and fragrant spice geraniums ready for a new kitchen window sill.

Spiral-wrap multi-colored crepe paper streamers or ribbons around a tall, slender-necked coffee carafe and let the long ends loop down Maypole fashion to the bow-tied handles of coffee cups ringing the carafe.

Corsage for the guest of honor can spout from the top of the decanter, and the centerpiece can be wreathed with greenery laid flat on the table.

Warm water is far better for sprinkling clothes than cold. It penetrates the fabric more thoroughly.

MRS. RAY MAGRUDER

N. E. La. League Of Artists Invite Public To Exhibit

Mrs. Ray Magruder, president of the Northeast Louisiana League of artists, has extended a cordial invitation to Monroe Morning World readers to attend an exhibition of works of art being held this afternoon at the Art Center Paintings, sculpture, ceramics and other objects produced by artists of this area will be shown from 2 to 5:30 p.m. today at 309 Louisville Ave., Monroe.

Today's exhibit is one of a series the league has presented during the past year — four general exhibits, a one man show of paintings by the late K. D. Hays, Sr. and young people's exhibits in which pupils of the city and parish schools were given the opportunity to display their work.

Other activities of the league during the past year include a costume ball, participation in a television program, showing of art films and presentation of a travalog by Maurice Glazer. The league is particularly proud to have recently founded a Junior Art League, open to all students in greater Monroe and surrounding area. Mrs. Patsy Platt, art instructor at West Monroe High School, is the Junior Artist's sponsor.

Last spring, the Northeast Louisiana League of Artists presented an outdoor Art Festival in Forsythe Park. Which proved so popular that it is to be repeated as an annual event. This year other organizations, the Little Theater, Symphony Orchestra and Pen Women will cooperate with the Art League in presenting the festival.

Nuptial Mass Unites Couple

FERRIDAY — Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Vidalia was the scene of the marriage at a nuptial mass Monday, February 8 of Miss Nancy Dean Meng, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Herndon Meng, to William Joseph Byrne, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J Byrne, Sr., of Natchez, Miss.

Father L. J. Lennon, pastor of the church performed the ceremony at the nine o'clock mass. Miss Meng was attended by her sister, Miss Vicky Meng as maid of honor and Mrs. Harry H. Meng, 3rd, served as bridesmaid. Becky Ann Ramsey, cousin of the groom served as flower girl.

The groom was attended by Walter E. Jones of Natchez and groomsman was his brother, Frank Byrne, also of Natchez.

Both the bride and the groom are graduates of the Cathedral High School of Natchez, Miss. The groom recently was discharged from the U. S. Navy after serving the past year in Korea.

Swartz Couple Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Enjoying the occasion with the couple were their sons, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Winnon, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Winnon, all of Bastrop, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Winnon of Oak Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Winnon of Houston, Tex., their grandchildren, great-grandchildren and other relatives and friends.

Betty Sue Price Weds John Sewell

FERRIDAY — The First Methodist Church in Winnsboro, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Betty Sue Price, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Price and the late Mr. Price to John R. Sewell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R Sewell, of Ferriday. The Rev. Don Alverson, pastor of the Sevier Memorial Methodist Church of Ferriday, assisted by Rev. W. H. Bengton, performed the double ring rites.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Bernard Price. Mrs Kit McCain, the bride's sister, served as matron of honor. John R. Sewell, Sr., attended the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were G ne Thomas and Sammy Price.

Mrs. Nolan Moore, Jr., played the program of traditional nuptial music at the organ console. Mrs. Jay Dean sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception was held in the reception parlors of the church. Following the reception the young couple left for a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in Plaquemine.

The bride received her B. S. degree from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in January and is presently doing graduate work in social welfare at L. S. U.

Couple Say Vows In St. Joseph

A wedding of interest here was that of Mrs. Velma S. Deardorff, of St. Joseph, to Joseph Calhoun of Delhi. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Shirley Briggs Saturday afternoon at the Baptist parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Campbell were their only attendants.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yancey, with Mrs. H. H. Hammett and Mrs. Charles M. Hammett as co-hostesses.

Immediately following the reception the couple left on a bridal trip. Mrs. Calhoun has many friends in Ferriday, where she was employed by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company before being transferred to St. Joseph. Mr. Calhoun is in the cotton business.

Bonhomie Book Club Reviews Year's Projects

Outstanding achievements of the Bonhomie Book Club were related by the departmental chairman at the annual meeting Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. H. V. Collins.

The educational field of G. F. W. C. was one of the club's main projects with the Americanism essay contest sponsored throughout Ouachita parish and contestants entering from Richland and Union parishes. Bonhomie Club members also made a financial donation for the restoration of Independence Hall Mrs. Mary Lou Pilaut reported.

Fine Arts and American Home projects were related by Mrs. E. L. Hoskins reviewing club programs and individual membership participation in musical and decorative projects.

Public welfare projects of the club for the past year were numerous Mrs. James Taylor remarked, that financial aid to charitable organizations were given, a milk fund to underprivileged children at Selman Field School and clothing, with the club sponsoring an Easter egg party for the underprivileged. Attendance to the American Public Welfare Association in Arkansas and also two delegates attending the state social welfare conference in Monroe.

Citizenship accenting civil defense as its primary activity had a delegate attend the civil defense regional meeting of women in Dallas, basic training courses in civil defense are attended by members of the club with Mrs. Pilaut to talk on civil defense at the Archibald P.-T. A. meeting in March. The club's project is collecting maps for survey projects in the civil defense organizational plan.

Mrs. O. Willis, president, opened the meeting. New officers of the year were voted by club acclaimation with installation in May.

A valentine motif was cleverly arranged throughout the living and dining rooms with lacy doilies and valentine hearts encircling dainty bouquets of spring flowers. Mrs. Collins served refreshments to Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Warren Breard, Mrs. Pilaut, Mrs. A. J .McCready, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Hoskins, Mrs. Paul Bauer and Mrs. George Forman.

Annual Reports Given At Charity League Luncheon

The Bayou DeSiard Country Club was the setting for the February buffet luncheon meeting of the Junior Charity League. The buffet table was decorated with red and white camellias which formed the base for an arrangement of flowering quince in a bone white container. The central decor was made of an Oriental type branch polished white with lacey red hearts tied with satin ribbons. This was surrounded by red and white camellias.

As this was the last meeting of the year, Mrs. Roy Johns, the president, asked for the annual reports. After the minutes were read, Mrs. Thomas May gave the treasurers report. The Thrift Shop chairman, Mrs. Jack Taylor, reported on a successful move to the new location on North 8th St. Mrs. Charles Searcy, Crippled Children's clinic, chairman, told of the new ceiling fans that will be donated to the clinic by the League.

The membership voted for a compulsory luncheon attendance rule as an amendment to the by laws.

Provisional members for 1953 were officially given the power to vote. Voting on new provisional members was held, after which the meeting adjourned.

Thanks, Friends

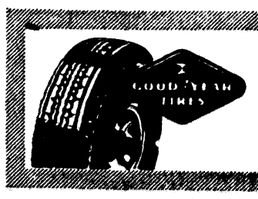

A simple "Thank You" can't express the sincere appreciation we feel for the hundreds of Twin City folks who turned out for our grand opening last week. We had expected a crowd, but we weren't prepared for the flood of friends and new customers who visited our store.

If we didn't get to thank you personally, let us take this means to say a real old-fashioned "Thanks, Friends." We enjoyed having you, and we hope you return often.

Our enlarged, modern store will make it possible for us to serve your home, automobile and appliance needs better in the future. And our expanded tire department makes it possible for us to be "tire headquarters in Monroe."

We appreciated your interest when you attended our grand opening, and we hope that you will be one of our satisfied customers in the years to come.

Floral arrangements of red and white gladioli and red camellias were used throughout the living room. Miss Thelma Parsons led in the playing of several bridal games, which included the matching of red hearts which contained the names of Miss Hadskey and Mr. Rainer.

Carrying out a red and white Valentine theme, the tea table was overlaid with a white cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of red camellias. Miss Thelma Parsons poured punch from its crystal container which was surrounded by red camellias. Miss Jane Scott assisted in the serving of red and white heart shape sandwiches, cookies, and mints.

Those enjoying the occasion with the honoree and hostesses include Mrs. J. H. Edmonson, Mrs. V. S. Fincher, Mrs. H. Cherry, Mrs. Jim Rainer, Mrs. B. Cagle, Mrs. Elaine Newton, Mr. W. B. Showmanship Makes Shower More Festive

Put yourself in solid with the bride-to-be and her friends by planning a shower that will be festive but easy on the pocketbook.

You know as well as I do that buying gifts for a round of showers plus the wedding gift is an expensive proposition. But no one likes to spoil the excitement of wedding parties by bringing up this practical detail.

One way to solve the problem tactfully is to have the guests chip in to buy one gift and to use a little showmanship in its presentation.

For example, at one party recently a ribbed glass punch bowl set was the gift presented as a clever springtime centerpiece. The set, which includes bowl, tray and cups, costs about $5.

To duplicate the presentation, all you have to do is invert the punch bowl on its tray, which should be covered with a lace paper doily. Take a strip of crepe paper (pale green is pretty) fold in half lengthwise and snip out a double row of petals.

Tie the petal collar around the stem end of the bowl. On top in the hollow base, perch a pastel nosegay for the bride. Ring the bowl with the cups, set on crepe paper petal-trimmed circles, and plant a dripless candle in each cup.

Well-designed, inexpensive glassware which you see in department and variety stores suggest equally showy centerpiece gifts. Use a big round salad bowl inverted as the base for bride and groom dolls wired or tapered to the center of a satin bow.

Narrow ribbons cascade from the bow over the sides of the bowl. Use squat, clear or striped, juice glasses as candle holders.

Rectangular opaque or colored glass casseroles with or without a metal frame can be tricked up as kitchen "planters." Fill with tiny pots of herbs—chives, mint and parsley are usually available—and fragrant spice geraniums ready for a new kitchen window sill.

Spiral-wrap multi-colored crepe paper streamers or ribbons around a tall, slender-necked coffee carafe and let the long ends loop down Maypole fashion to the bow-tied handles of coffee cups ringing the carafe.

Corsage for the guest of honor can spout from the top of the decanter, and the centerpiece can be wreathed with greenery laid flat on the table.

Warm water is far better for sprinkling clothes than cold. It penetrates the fabric more thoroughly.

MRS. RAY MAGRUDER

N. E. La. League Of Artists Invite Public To Exhibit

Mrs. Ray Magruder, president of the Northeast Louisiana League of artists, has extended a cordial invitation to Monroe Morning World readers to attend an exhibition of works of art being held this afternoon at the Art Center Paintings, sculpture, ceramics and other objects produced by artists of this area will be shown from 2 to 5:30 p.m. today at 309 Louisville Ave., Monroe.

Today's exhibit is one of a series the league has presented during the past year — four general exhibits, a one man show of paintings by the late K. D. Hays, Sr. and young people's exhibits in which pupils of the city and parish schools were given the opportunity to display their work.

Other activities of the league during the past year include a costume ball, participation in a television program, showing of art films and presentation of a travalog by Maurice Glazer. The league is particularly proud to have recently founded a Junior Art League, open to all students in greater Monroe and surrounding area. Mrs. Patsy Platt, art instructor at West Monroe High School, is the Junior Artist's sponsor.

Last spring, the Northeast Louisiana League of Artists presented an outdoor Art Festival in Forsythe Park. Which proved so popular that it is to be repeated as an annual event. This year other organizations, the Little Theater, Symphony Orchestra and Pen Women will cooperate with the Art League in presenting the festival.

Nuptial Mass Unites Couple

FERRIDAY — Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Vidalia was the scene of the marriage at a nuptial mass Monday, February 8 of Miss Nancy Dean Meng, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Herndon Meng, to William Joseph Byrne, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J Byrne, Sr., of Natchez, Miss.

Father L. J. Lennon, pastor of the church performed the ceremony at the nine o'clock mass. Miss Meng was attended by her sister, Miss Vicky Meng as maid of honor and Mrs. Harry H. Meng, 3rd, served as bridesmaid. Becky Ann Ramsey, cousin of the groom served as flower girl.

The groom was attended by Walter E. Jones of Natchez and groomsman was his brother, Frank Byrne, also of Natchez.

Both the bride and the groom are graduates of the Cathedral High School of Natchez, Miss. The groom recently was discharged from the U. S. Navy after serving the past year in Korea.

Betty Sue Price Weds John Sewell

FERRIDAY — The First Methodist Church in Winnsboro, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Betty Sue Price, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Price and the late Mr. Price to John R. Sewell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R Sewell, of Ferriday. The Rev. Don Alverson, pastor of the Sevier Memorial Methodist Church of Ferriday, assisted by Rev. W. H. Bengton, performed the double ring rites.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Bernard Price. Mrs Kit McCain, the bride's sister, served as matron of honor. John R. Sewell, Sr., attended the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were G ne Thomas and Sammy Price.

Mrs. Nolan Moore, Jr., played the program of traditional nuptial music at the organ console. Mrs. Jay Dean sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception was held in the reception parlors of the church. Following the reception the young couple left for a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in Plaquemine.

The bride received her B. S. degree from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in January and is presently doing graduate work in social welfare at L. S. U.

Couple Say Vows In St. Joseph

A wedding of interest here was that of Mrs. Velma S. Deardorff, of St. Joseph, to Joseph Calhoun of Delhi. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Shirley Briggs Saturday afternoon at the Baptist parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Campbell were their only attendants.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yancey, with Mrs. H. H. Hammett and Mrs. Charles M. Hammett as cohostesses.

Immediately following the reception the couple left on a bridal trip. Mrs. Calhoun has many friends in Ferriday, where she was employed by the Southern Bell Telphone and Telegraph Company before being transferred to St. Joseph. Mr. Calhoun is in the cotton business.

Bonhomie Book Club Reviews Year's Projects

Outstanding achievements of the Bonhomie Book Club were related by the departmental chairman at the annual meeting Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. H. V. Collins.

The educational field of G. F. W. C. was one of the club's main projects with the Americanism essay contest sponsored throughout Ouachita parish and contestants entering from Richland and Union parishes. Bonhomie Club members also made a financial donation for the restoration of Independence Hall Mrs. Mary Lou Pilaut reported.

Fine Arts and American Home projects were related by Mrs. E. L. Hoskins reviewing club programs and individual membership participation in musical and decorative projects.

Public welfare projects of the club for the past year were numerous Mrs. James Taylor remarked, that financial aid to charitable organizations were given, a milk fund to underprivileged children at Selman Field School and clothing, with the club sponsoring an Easter egg party for the underprivileged. Attendance to the American Public Welfare Association in Arkansas and also two delegates attending the state social welfare conference in Monroe.

Citizenship accenting civil defense as its primary activity had a delegate attend the civil defense regional meeting of women in Dallas, basic training courses in civil defense are attended by members of the club with Mrs. Pilaut to talk on civil defense at the Archibald P. T. A. meeting in March. The club's project is collecting maps for survey projects in the civil defense organizational plan.

Mrs. O. Willis, president, opened the meeting. New officers of the year were voted by club acclaimation with installation in May.

A valentine motif was cleverly arranged throughout the living and dining rooms with lacy doilies and valentine hearts encircling dainty bouquets of spring flowers. Mrs. Collins served refreshments to Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Warren Breard, Mrs. Pilaut, Mrs. A. J .McCready, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Hoskins, Mrs. Paul Bauer and Mrs. George Forman.

Annual Reports Given At Charity League Luncheon

The Bayou DeSiard Country Club was the setting for the February buffet luncheon meeting of the Junior Charity League. The buffet table was decorated with red and white camellias which formed the base for an arrangement of flowering quince in a bone white container. The central decor was made of an Oriental type branch polished white with lacey red hearts tied with satin ribbons. This was surrounded by red and white camellias.

As this was the last meeting of the year, Mrs. Roy Johns, the president, asked for the annual reports. After the minutes were read, Mrs. Thomas May gave the treasurers report. The Thrift Shop chairman, Mrs. Jack Taylor, reported on a successful move to the new location on North 8th St. Mrs. Charles Searcy, Crippled Children's clinic, chairman, told of the new ceiling fans that will be donated to the clinic by the League.

The membership voted for a compulsory luncheon attendance rule as an amendment to the by laws.

Provisional members for 1953 were officially given the power to vote. Voting on new provisional members was held, after which the meeting adjourned.

Thanks, Friends

A simple "Thank You" can't express the sincere appreciation we feel for the hundreds of Twin City folks who turned out for our grand opening last week. We had expected a crowd, but we weren't prepared for the flood of friends and new customers who visited our store.

If we didn't get to thank you personally, let us take this means to say a real old-fashioned "Thanks, Friends." We enjoyed having you, and we hope you return often.

Our enlarged, modern store will make it possible for us to serve your home, automobile and appliance needs better in the future. And our expanded tire department makes it possible for us to be "tire headquarters in Monroe."

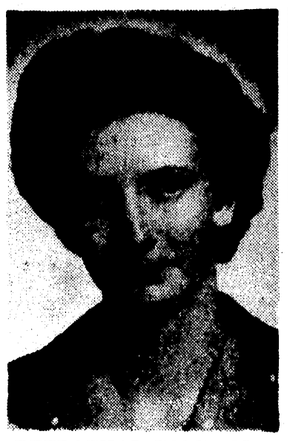

We appreciated your interest when you attended our grand opening, and we hope that you will be one of our satisfied customers in the years to come.

BETROTHAL TOLD—Mrs. Gertrude Clingfost announces the approaching marriage of her daughter Mrs. Bertha Giardina to Sidney V. Bryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Bryan of Downsville. The ceremony will be performed in the parsonage of the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Weber will officiate.

Roamin' In The Rural

House Furnishing Leaders' Training

Mrs. Jessie Hill, specialist in housing and house furnishing, found it necessary to change our date from the 18th to the 17th. Please take note and be on time at the meeting — 9:30 a. m. at the agricultural auditorium Wednesday, February 17th. Please bring supplies listed in the letter sent you. Let's have a 100 per cent clubs represented this time.

Soil Preparation

Garden soil needs a generous supply of organic matter. Working into the soil any plant residue such as sawdust, leaves, clippings, or cotton seed hulls will increase the organic matter and provides a good garden soil. But if this type of plant residue is not decomposed it will not improve the soil until it has decomposed. Nitrogen is required to decompose plant residue. If this decomposed plant residue is worked into the soil and no additional nitrogen is provided all the nitrogen in the soil will be used and the plants will turn yellow and suffer from the lack of nitrogen. To keep this condition from happening it is necessary to add enough nitrogen to decompose the plant residue and to make the plants grow. However a better practice is to decompose this plant residue in a compost before applying it to the garden soil.

To keep garden soil in a good condition, organic matter must be added each year.

Mole Crickets Damaging Plant Beds

A queer looking insect known as the mole cricket is reported present in large numbers at this time. The mole cricket is said to be causing serious injury in plant beds. Fortunately, the insecticide to use to control the mole crickets is available and not costly. The entomologist at the Louisiana State University agricultural extension service, Kirby L. Cockerham, recommends using chlordane dust — 10 per cent chlordane dust. Apply the chlordane dust all over the area where the mole crickets are found. Examine the plant beds thoroughly. Look for runways about the size of your little finger that have been burrowed just beneath the surface of the ground. The mole cricket has short wings, a velvety brown color, and is about one inch and a half long. The front pair of legs are shaped like the front feet of a mole. With these they burrow through the soil. At present the mole crickets are causing damage in seedbeds of peppers, tomatoes, cabbage and similar plants. Use 10 per cent chlordane dust and apply it thoroughly to the areas affected. Apply at the rate of 10 pounds to the acre. If a rain comes soon after, repeat the application as soon as possible.

Selecting A New Outfit

Every woman is interested in a new outfit this time of year. Here's some suggestions which will be helpful to you, if you are stout. First consideration should be on what colors to choose as colors can either accent weight or deaccent it. So when the stout woman goes shopping, she should select colors that are flattering. She may wear black if it is becoming to her.

"The stout woman must avoid pronounced dark and light contrast in her ensemble. "Costumes are planned so that there is a feeling of 'oneness.' Jackets and skirts must match. A contrast near the face in color or scarf or on the hat is becoming to the stout woman, but such accents should never be scattered over her costume. This effect would emphasize the bulkiness of the figure. In silhouettes the straight line is her happiest choice. Swagger cuts extend her size, and closely fitted lines reveal overrounded curves.

"When choosing accessories — hat, purse, and jewelry — the stout woman is advised to keep these parts of her ensemble in scale with herself. Size is always a matter of comparison. So accessory sizes should be chosen to flatter the entire figure. The stout woman will avoid the dainty fragile accessories which tend to coarsen her by contrast. Far better, for instance, that there be a certain boldness to the ring or clip or pin she wears. Although purse and hat should be in scale, she should avoid a bulky, cumbersome effect.

"Accessories should be simple, depending upon excellent line rather than trimming and decoration. Colored gloves and contrasting colored shoes are not for the stout woman, either. The slightest suggestion of fussiness will destroy smart becomingness of the stout woman's costume, since above all else she must be neat and trim."

Household Problems

The know-how about many irritating household problems would make many housewives a bit happier. Here are answers to some of those questions that perplex many homemakers:

To remove white spots on blonde furniture, simply rub an unsalted pecan meat firmly over the spot; it will take the spot out and leave the surface unstained and unmarred.

Very light scratches in mahogany furniture can often be made less conspicuous by painting with iodine or mercurochrome, depending on which is the better color match.

Wall plaster will not crack so easily if a small piece of adhesive tape is pasted over the spot where a tack or nail is to be driven.

For drawers or windows that stick rub paraffin or liquid wax on the slides of drawers and on the ropes of windows. Wax or paraffin can also be used on the top, bottom, or sides of doors that fit too snugly for easy opening.

To prevent tears in linoleum, which usually occur first at the corners, apply strips of adhesive or cloth masking tape along the underside edges of the linoleum.

See you next Sunday.

Girl Scout News

One troop project that we wish all of you could have seen was the style show given by Troop 11 as the culmination of their work on the Good Grooming Badge.

With Mrs. Whitehurst as accompanist and Betsy Blackmon as narrator, the girls showed what the well-dressed girl might wear throughout a typical day—or maybe several days. From the early morning rush of getting dressed that is typical of most households the girls in turn showed school dresses, sports outfits for after-school activities, their teen-age uniforms for Scout meetings, and "best dress" for church or parties. Each girl appeared in a beautiful formal, and finally in pajamas and robe, ready for bed.

Only those who made up the audience could realize just how pretty and poised these girls were, hair shining, well-groomed from the tip of her freshly-shampooed head to the toe of her polished shoes. Surely their mothers, who have taught them habits of good grooming all they lives, and their leaders and consultants, who worked to emphasize those teachings, were proud to see the results of their efforts. Some of the consultants who helped the girls were Mrs. J. E. Poulan, Mrs. Berneille House, Mrs. Ruth Kelso and Miss Barbara Kelso. Leaders of the troop are Mrs Seymour Solomon and Mrs. Paul Blackmon.

Certainly the first tree-planting day of the season at Pine Wood was a perfect one from the standpoint of weather. A number of troops came out for a day in the sunshine and enjoyed it to the fullest. Most of them went home with their first sunburn of the season.

Those of you who believe in Scouting and in camping for girls would have been pleased to see how the girls enjoyed the simple pleasures of being out of doors. The Brownies of Troop 58 started the day's activity with a flag ceremony. Troops soon discovered the grapevine swing that grows so conveniently behind the guild ... and spent a lot of time swinging. One group cooked hamburgers for lunch, another made campfire stew, others brought nosebag lunches, which they ate sitting around the campfire circle or under the pine trees.

Every girl planted and staked at least two pine tree seedlings during the day, most troops went on a hike or laid a trail, at least one practiced the flag ceremony and learned to fold a flag. Troop 3 had spent the night, being the first troop to use the camp for an overnight since the new year. Guess January sounds too cold for camping.

Troop 35 was to have gone Friday; we'll have to let you in on details of their trip next week. The Girl Planning Board met at camp yesterday to make final plans for the birthday celebration on March 7.

Leaders of Troop 9, Mrs. Gordon Jordon and Mrs. J. D. Henderson, report that each girl in the troop is making and filling a kit for Korea to present on the birthday program.

The same thing is true of Troop 20, Mrs. Burt Sperry and Mrs. H. B. Hargrove tells us. And there are more than 20 girls in Troop 20! Those kits will really make a pile when they are all brought to the stage at the Sunday afternoon program on March 7. Jerry Sperry says these third grade Brownies carefully hemmed the tops and basted the sides of the bags, but took them home for Mother to stitch on the machine.

These and many other Scouts are learning the true meaning of the fourth Girl Scout Law. "A Girl Scout is a friend to all and a sister to every other Girl Scout".

Look around you before dying your gray hair. You will notice that there are many women whose gray hair is a dramatic asset. A new hairdo rather than color may be the answer to your problem.

If tufts or knots show up in your rugs, don't pull them out. Instead, get a scissors and clip.

Women Better Than Men At Testing Jeeps

Out in Toledo, the women who regularly test jeeps as they come off the assembly line are described by Tom Harmon, chief inspector for the company making the jeeps, as being far better suited to the job than the men they replaced during the final years of the war.

"First of all," Harmon says, "women aren't inclined to fool around and race the jeeps like hot rods, as many men did. They also are more painstaking and dependable when it comes to making their inspection of vehicles. And for all the talk about women being 'the weaker sex,' they show up for work in all kinds of weather, on days when a man might do a little goldbricking."

The "girls" who test the jeeps range in age from 20 to 60. They test-drive from 75 to 90 miles a day. Each car must be driven until a total of five miles is clocked on the speedometer. It must be carefully inspected and checked, both inside and out. Oil pressure, motor timing, instruments, brakes and steering must all be approved and this usually includes a scrutiny of connecting lines and points.

When anything is found out of order, it's noted on a card attached to the vehicle, which then goes back for correction. The jeeps are then turned over to government inspectors in batches of 60, from which they pick 10 at random. These get a 100 per cent statistical quality control procedure check.

The rest of the vehicles are accepted or rejected on the basis of the sample lot. This is the first time in industry that the government has purchased vehicles on such a basis. Rejects run as low as 2 per cent or less, according to Harmon.

Generally, it takes from 20 minutes to half an hour to road-test and inspect a jeep. Much depends on the weather and road conditions; there are cut-offs into rugged terrain where the girls can give the cars the works if they feel it's needed.

The Brownies of Troop 58 started the day's activity with a flag ceremony. Troops soon discovered the grapevine swing that grows so conveniently behind the guild . . . and spent a lot of time swinging. One group cooked hamburgers for lunch, another made campfire stew, others brought nosebag lunches, which they ate sitting around the campfire circle or under the pine trees.

Every girl planted and staked at least two pine tree seedlings during the day, most troops went on a hike or laid a trail, at least one practiced the flag ceremony and learned to fold a flag. Troop 3 had spent the night, being the first troop to use the camp for an overnight since the new year. Guess January sounds too cold for camping.

Troop 35 was to have gone Friday; we'll have to let you in on details of their trip next week. The Girl Planning Board met at camp yesterday to make final plans for the birthday celebration on March 7.

Leaders of Troop 9, Mrs. Gordon Jordon and Mrs. J. D. Henderson, report that each girl in the troop is making and filling a kit for Korea to present on the birthday program.

The same thing is true of Troop 20, Mrs. Burt Sperry and Mrs. H. B. Hargrove tells us. And there are more than 20 girls in Troop 20! Those kits will really make a pile when they are all brought to the stage at the Sunday afternoon progam o. March 7. Jerry Sperry says these third grade Brownies carefully hemmed the tops and basted the sides of the bags, but took them home for Mother to stitch on the machine.

These and many other Scouts are learning the true meaning of the fourth Girl Scout Law, "A Girl Scout is a friend to all and a sister to every other Girl Scout".

Look around you before dying your gray hair. You will notice that there are many women whose gray hair is a dramatic asset. A new hairdo rather than color may be the answer to your problem.

If tufts or knots show up in your rugs, don't pull them out. Instead, get a scissors and clip.

Women Better Than Men At Testing Jeeps

Out in Toledo, the women who regularly test jeeps as they come off the assembly line are described by Tom Harmon, chief inspector for the company making the jeeps, as being far better suited to the job than the men they replaced during the final years of the war.

"First of all," Harmon says, "women aren't inclined to fool around and race the jeeps like hot rods, as many men did. They also are more painstaking and dependable when it comes to making their inspection of vehicles. And for all the talk about women being 'the weaker sex,' they show up for work in all kinds of weather, on days when a man might do a little goldbricking."

The "girls" who test the jeeps range in age from 20 to 60. They test-drive from 75 to 90 miles a day. Each car must be driven until a total of five miles is clocked on the speedometer. It must be carefully inspected and checked, both inside and out. Oil pressure, motor timing, instruments, brakes and steering must all be approved and this usually includes a scrutiny of connecting lines and points.

When anything is found out of order, it's noted on a card attached to the vehicle, which then goes back for correction. The jeeps are then turned over to government inspectors in batches of 60, from which they pick 10 at random. These get a 100 per cent statistical quality control procedure check.

The rest of the vehicles are accepted or rejected on the basis of the sample lot. This is the first time in industry that the government has purchased vehicles on such a basis. Rejects run as low as 2 per cent or less, according to Harmon.

Generally, it takes from 20 minutes to half an hour to road-test and inspect a jeep. Much depends on the weather and road conditions; there are cut-offs into rugged terrain where the girls can give the cars the works if they feel it's needed.

House Furnishing Leaders' Training

Mrs. Jessie Hill, specialist in housing and house furnishing, found it necessary to change our date from the 18th to the 17th. Please take note and be on time at the meeting — 9:30 a. m. at the agricultural auditorium Wednesday, February 17th. Please bring supplies listed in the letter sent you. Let's have a 100 per cent clubs represented this time.

Soil Preparation

Garden soil needs a generous supply of organic matter. Working into the soil any plant residue such as sawdust, leaves, clippings, or cotton seed hulls will increase the organic matter and provides a good garden soil. But if this type of plant residue is not decomposed it will not improve the soil until it has decomposed. Nitrogen is required to decompose plant residue. If this decomposed plant residue is worked into the soil and no additional nitrogen is provided all the nitrogen in the soil will be used and the plants will turn yellow and suffer from the lack of nitrogen. To keep this condition from happening it is necessary to add enough nitrogen to decompose the plant residue and to make the plants grow. However a better practice is to decompose this plant residue in a compost before applying it to the garden soil.

To keep garden soil in a good condition, organic matter must be added each year.

Mole Crickets Damaging Plant Beds

A queer looking insect known as the mole cricket is reported present in large numbers at this time. The mole cricket is said to be causing serious injury in plant beds. Fortunately, the insecticide to use to control the mole crickets is available and not costly. The entomologist at the Louisiana State University agricultural extension service, Kirby L. Cockerham, recommends using chlordane dust — 10 per cent chlordane dust. Apply the chlordane dust all over the area where the mole crickets are found. Examine the plant beds thoroughly. Look for runways about the size of your little finger that have been burrowed just beneath the surface of the ground. The mole cricket has short wings, a velvety brown color, and is about one inch and a half long. The front pair of legs are shaped like the front feet of a mole. With these they burrow through the soil. At present the mole crickets are causing damage in seedbeds of peppers, tomatoes, cabbage and similar plants. Use 10 per cent chlordane dust and apply it thoroughly to the areas affected. Apply at the rate of 10 pounds to the acre. If a rain comes soon after, repeat the application as soon as possible.

Selecting A New Outfit

Every woman is interested in a new outfit this time of year. Here's some suggestions which will be helpful to you, if you are stout. First consideration should be on what colors to choose as colors can either accent weight or deaccent it. So when the stout woman goes shopping, she should select colors that are flattering. She may wear black if it is becoming to her.

"The stout woman must avoid pronounced dark and light contrast in her ensemble. "Costumes are planned so that there is a feeling of 'oneness.' Jackets and skirts must match. A contrast near the face in color or scarf or on the hat is becoming to the stout woman, but such accents should never be scattered over her costume. This effect would emphasize the bulkiness of the figure. In silhouettes the straight line is her happiest choice. Swagger cuts extend her size, and closely fitted lines reveal over-rounded curves.

"When choosing accessories — hat, purse, and jewelry — the stout woman is advised to keep these parts of her ensemble in scale with herself. Size is always a matter of comparison. So accessory sizes should be chosen to flatter the entire figure. The stout woman will avoid the dainty fragile accessories which tend to coarsen her by contrast. Far better, for instance, that there be a certain boldness to the ring or clip or pin she wears. Although purse and hat should be in scale, she should avoid a bulky, cumbersome effect.

"Accessories should be simple,

Byrnside-Hudson Vows Are Said In Methodist Church

Late Sunday afternoon, January thirty-first, Miss Patricia Ruth Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cleatus Hudson, of Oak Grove, became the bride of Lt. George William Byrnside, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Seale Byrnside, Sr., of Lafayette. The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend Eskel L. Tatum, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Oak Grove.

Myriads of pale pink cathedral tapers, arranged in wrought iron standards to form an arch across the back of the chancel, and placed in the windows, where they were emphasized with banks of pink camellias shed their soft glow throughout the ceremony. Palms formed the background for the exquisite arrangements of blush pink stock and asters, which were placed in profusion around the altar. The young couple knelt on an ivory satin prieux deiux, placed beneath a white Gothic arch entwined with greenery and pink camellias.

A pre-nuptial concert of traditional wedding music was rendered by Mr. John M. Yarborough, organist, cousin of the bride, of New Orleans and Pickens, Miss. Mr. Yarborough accompanied Mrs. Harry Worthy of Pickens, who sang "At Dawning" and "I Love Thee." Just before the entrance of the bridal party, Mr. Yarborough played "Just a Song at Twilight." As the bride and groom knelt to receive the blessings of the church Mrs. Worthy softly sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Attendants on the bride were Miss Janice Dennis, of Jonesboro, maid of honor and Mrs. Charles Cox, of Oak Grove, Mrs. John Arch O'Neal, Jr., of Choudrant, and Mrs. McGinty McBride, Jr., of New Orleans bridesmaids. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Bettye Yarborough, of Pickens, Miss., and Miss Joanne Kelly, Oak Grove. Little Miss Cynthia McCarty of Shreveport was the flower girl. All were gowned in identical frocks fashioned of pink nylon net over satin, with which they wore net stoles and satin halo bands. They carried muffs of shirred net covered with pink camellias from which fell mauve satin ribbons in an iridescent hue. From a pink satin basket, little Miss McCarty scattered camellia petals in the path of the bride.

Entering with her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was lovely in a gown of antique ivory bridal satin and lace. The bodice was fashioned of lace embroidered with pearls and diminuitive sequins with an Elizabethan collar attached to the yoke of illusion with a double strand of pearls, and with the long sleeves coming to a point over her hands. The full satin skirt was appliqued with medallions of lace and pearls, and extended to form a train. Her veil of illusion was attached to a coronet of pearls and lace. She carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses embedded on ivory angel's wings and centered with a cream, mauve throated orchid, from which fell a profusion of ivory satin streamers in which were caught sweetheart roses.

Lt. Byrnside was attended as best man by Ensign Glen Tanner, of Norfolk, Va. Groomsmen were Lt. Roy Craft, Fort Benning, Ga., John Arch O'Neal, Jr., Choudrant, and Dan Hardy, Shreveport.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hudson chose a blue lace frock, with matching hat, and her corsage was of pink feathered carnations. Mrs. Byrnside, mother of the groom, was attired in mauve lace, with which she wore a pink hat, and her corsage was of sweetheart roses.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the American Legion Home, in Oak Grove, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with floor baskets containing pink carnations and asters. The mantle, beneath which burned a cheering log fire, was banked with pink flowers.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. J. Vernon Sims. The bridal party and the parents of the bride and groom formed the receiving line. Mrs. James David McIntosh presided at the bride's book, which was placed upon a table covered with white satin and encircled with pink camellias. The beautifully embossed wedding cake centered a table covered with white satin, with arrangements of white asters at either end. The cake was served by Mrs. W. S. Owen, aunt of the bride from Pickens, Miss., assisted by Mrs. Arden B. Smith and Mrs. Edgar R. McCormick. Presiding at the punch bowls which were placed on a satin covered table and surrounded with white and pale pink asters and stock were Mrs. Ellis Womack and Mrs. Glen Tanner, of Norfolk, Va. They were assisted in serving by Mrs. Joe T. Kelly, Mrs. William H. Keller and Miss Beverly Stovall and Miss Harriet Michaud, of Jonesboro.

Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Byrnside departed for their home at Fort Benning, Ga., where he is stationed with the United States Army. For traveling, the bride wore a spring tailleur of aqua, with a beige straw hat and lizard accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

GUESTS

Among the out-of-town guests who attended were: Miss Peggy Frantom, Mrs. R. L. Frantom, Mrs. Harry LaFoe, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Stevens, Mr. Bill Stevens, Miss Elizabeth Doane, Miss Katherine Guerriero and Mr. Jack Baugh, of Monroe; Ensign and Mrs. Glen Tanner, of Norfolk, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. James R. Miss Flanders Talks To Pierian Club

Miss Frances Flanders, librarian of the Monroe Public Library spoke to the Pierian Club in Oak Ridge on Tuesday afternoon on "Our Colonial Heritage." With a backdrop of European situations prior to the colonization period, Miss Flanders enumerated the many nationalities which furnished citizenry for early America. She showed how the basic beliefs of these people were woven into the Constitution of the United States and found definite expression in the first amendments to the Constitution known as our Bill of Rights. She closed with the thought that although our Colonial heritage had given us many of the freedoms we desire, security is not mentioned as a governmental affair. The fact that security is the business of individuals may be traced to the principles on which our forefathers founded our country.

A fine arts feature of the afternoon was a display of heirlooms brougat by members. They included glassware, bottles and urns. There were some lovely old pictures. A collar-and-cuff box, a griddle and a toothpick holder from the days of the early settlers were interesting parts of the display.

Mrs. E. M. Barham and Mrs. A. H. Valentine, hostesses, entertained in the club parlour in Community Hall. They served a delicious salad plate to Miss Flanders, Mrs. Shaw, and the following club members: Mrs. Shelby White, Mrs. T. L. Smith, Mrs. C. E. Shepard, Mrs. C. G. Rolfe, Mrs. Roy Norman, Mrs. R. E. Barham, Sr., Mrs. T. E. Barham, Mrs. John Barr, Mrs. A. B. Conger, Mrs. Edwin Conger, Mrs. G. L. Greene, Mrs. C. N. McDuffie, Mrs. Norman McDuffie, Mrs. Elmer McLendon and Mrs. J. P. Causey.

Mrs. Tisdale Named Chairman Of Campaign

Mrs. Edward Dalton, president of the Monroe Garden Club has named Mrs. A. Dent Tisdale as chairman of the "Don't Be A Litterbug" campaign which will get underway this month.

"Don't Be A Litterbug" is the newest educational campaign sponsored by the National Council of Garden Clubs and the Louisiana Garden Club Federation. Mrs. Lou B. Landry, chairman of highway planning for Louisiana explains how the Litterbug Campaign can affect us:

"Road maintenance in Louisiana is the highest in the U. S. About $900 per mile per year is spent in gathering up litter and cutting grass. Ten cents out of every $1.00 in the highway fund is spent for this maintenance alone.

"For example: To clean up and mow McArthur Ave. in Alexandria (about ten miles) requires nine or ten men for five hours every Friday at a cost of $45 to $50 per week, or about $2500 every year. Litter must be hand collected and hauled away. Beer cans, bottles of many descriptions break mower blades, costing many lost - time hours and some lost - time accidents, which are very expensive. Papers blowing about the highway are definite traffic hazards. Florida started this Litter Bug Campaign. It is now paying dividends in labor saved. So much so, that Florida can now afford special attendants, employed to keep their roadside parks in prime condition.

"The National Council feels a Litter Bug Campaign is very important to help prevent the needless waste of public funds. We cannot keep the grass from growing in Louisiana but we can keep down our piles of litter and debris if we just have the opportunity to show what can be done by trying."

In cooperation with the Louisiana Garden Club Federation the Monroe Garden will have the following members to direct this campaign:

Public relations, Mrs. Fred Amman; public schools, Mrs. J. B. Thornhill; beautification board, Mrs. James A. Noe; publicity, Mrs. H. B. Hargrove; stickers, Mrs. Louis Turner; posters, Mrs. Deimas Jackson; radio and TV, Mrs. Lea Thompson.

The Monroe Garden Club will solicit the help of the state highway department, the women's clubs of the Twin Cities, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the P. T. A., Home Demonstration Clubs, Lions, Rotarians, Kiwanis, Schools, Scouts, Y. W. C. A. and other civic groups interested in the beautification and conservation of our highways, parks and other public places.

The garden club members will place stickers on their automobiles, place posters over the city in business and educational institutions. In addition to newspaper publicity there will be radio and TV programs.

Mrs. Roy H. Guthridge, of Lake Charles is the state chairman and she says: "We simply want to get people littering conscious. To do this we must go to schools and civic organizations appealing to them not to throw trash around."

With the help of the city council, police jury and all city and parish officials the Monroe Garden Club feels that this project will be most successful.

Burgess-Piro Vows Said In Rayville Church

A wedding of quiet dignity and simplicity was that uniting Miss Constance A. Piro, daughter of Mrs. Sam Piro of Mangham and the late Mr. Piro, and Grover Cleveland Burgess, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Burgess, Sr., also of Mangham.

The vows of the double ring ceremony were exchanged in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Rayville at seven - thirty on the evening of Monday, January 18th. Father R. V. Lawrence officiated.

A lovely program of pre-nuptial music was given by Mrs. Ira Hixon at the organ, who accompanied "Because" and "Ave Maria" were the selections given. Schubert's Serenade was played during the ceremony, with the traditional wedding marches used for processional and recessional of the bridal party.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Sam Piro, Jr., was lovely in a suit of mauve, which was beautifully accented by the background clusters of pink and lavender gladioli and pink carnations used in the chancel of the church. She carried an orchid mounted on her white leather bound prayer book.

Standing beside Mr. Burgess as best man was Mr. Roy Lobrano. Nick Velchoff and Sonny Phillips were the ushers. Altar boy was T. J. Conen.

Mrs. Piro chose for her daughter's wedding a suit in navy, accented by a corsage of pink carnations. The mother of the groom wore a gray suit, and she also wore a pink carnation corsage.

A reception honoring the young couple was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Piro in Mangham. Immediately following the ceremony. There guests were invited to refreshments at a handsomely appointed reception table. The table was overlaid with a lace cloth over light green, and was centered by a stunning arrangement of white gladioli and stattis in bridal white.

The three - tiered wedding cake was surmounted by miniature bride and groom figurines under a wedding bell. The groom's sister, Mrs. W. D. Williamson, presided at serving of the cake, and Miss Joan Piro, sister of the bride, presided at the punch service. Miss Ethel Watson was in charge of the bride's register.

Assisting in extending the courtesies were Mrs. F. A. Maggio, Jr., of Lake Providence, Mrs. W. E. Hixon, Mrs. Nicholas Piro and Mrs. Sara Cascio.

The young couple left the reception for a wedding trip to New Orleans, after which they will make their home in Mangham. Both Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Burgess, Jr., are graduates of the Mangham High School. Mrs. Burgess is also a graduate of the Bish - Mathis Institute in Monroe.

Out - of - town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Ewell Camp, Jr., West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Smith, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Nick Lawson, Winnsboro; Mr. and Mrs. George Paola and son, Winnsboro; Mr. V. P. Darymple and son, Delhi; Dr. Julia J. Hunter, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. John Whitfield, Monroe; Mrs. R. DeFatta, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Welch, Archibald; Father R. V. Department Club Of Oak Grove Has Luncheon

The Woman's Department Club of Oak Grove, held its regular meeting and luncheon in the recreation room of the First Methodist Church Wednesday with Mrs. S. A. Holt presiding. The meeting opened with the group singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ellis Womack. They then gave, in unison, the pledge to the flag and recited The American Creed.

Mrs. Charlotte Nugent, program chairman, spoke on the history of George Washington and on the "Restoration of Independence Hall." Charlotte Cannon recited a poem of George Washington and the Cherry Tree.

Mrs. Nugent introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Emma Hanna, of the State Department of Public Welfare. Mrs. Hanna made a very interesting talk which included the importance of the work of her department and specifically emphasized the responsibility of everyone for the welfare and the progress of humanity.

Mrs. T. G. Biggs, Jr. addressed the club regarding the selling of tickets to a "pancake breakfast" to be held February 27 at the Oak Grove High School cafeteria. This project is being sponsored by the Lion's Club and the profits will go to the local swimming pool fund.

The nominating committee made its report to the club president, Mrs Holt, who in turn, had the report read from the floor and the following officers were unanimously elected to serve for the next year; Mrs. S. A. Holt, re-elected as president; 1st vice - president, Mrs. Ruby Barclay; 2nd vice - president, Mrs. W. H. Keller; recording secretary, Mrs. L. V. Williamson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mildred Franklin, treasurer, Mrs. E. R. McCormick and auditor, Mrs. Joe T. Kelly.

There were 30 members and seven guests present.

Face Pack Gives Lift

About this time of year, the older woman is likely to seek a special treatment to rejuvenate her winter-weary skin. Nightly applications of her favorite lotion or cream do not seem to be enough at this time.

For you who feel this way, a face pack should prove the perfect treatment. Your skin will feel soft and pleasant afterward and lines are likely to be smoothed away, at least temporarily.

A most soothing pack can be prepared by your druggist from two ounces of borax, a half ounce of powdered tragacanth and two drams of magnesium carbonate. It should cost less than a dollar.

To the druggist's mixture, add water to make a paste and apply it directly to the face. After it has dried, peel it off with your fingers.

You can make a pack yourself by mixing three tablespoons of ordinary raw oatmeal and enough olive oil to form a paste and adding two teaspoons of glycerine.

Before applying the pack, pat on some lanolin cream. If bleaching action is desired, you can add the juice of one lemon and a half teaspoon of tincture of benzoin to the preparation.

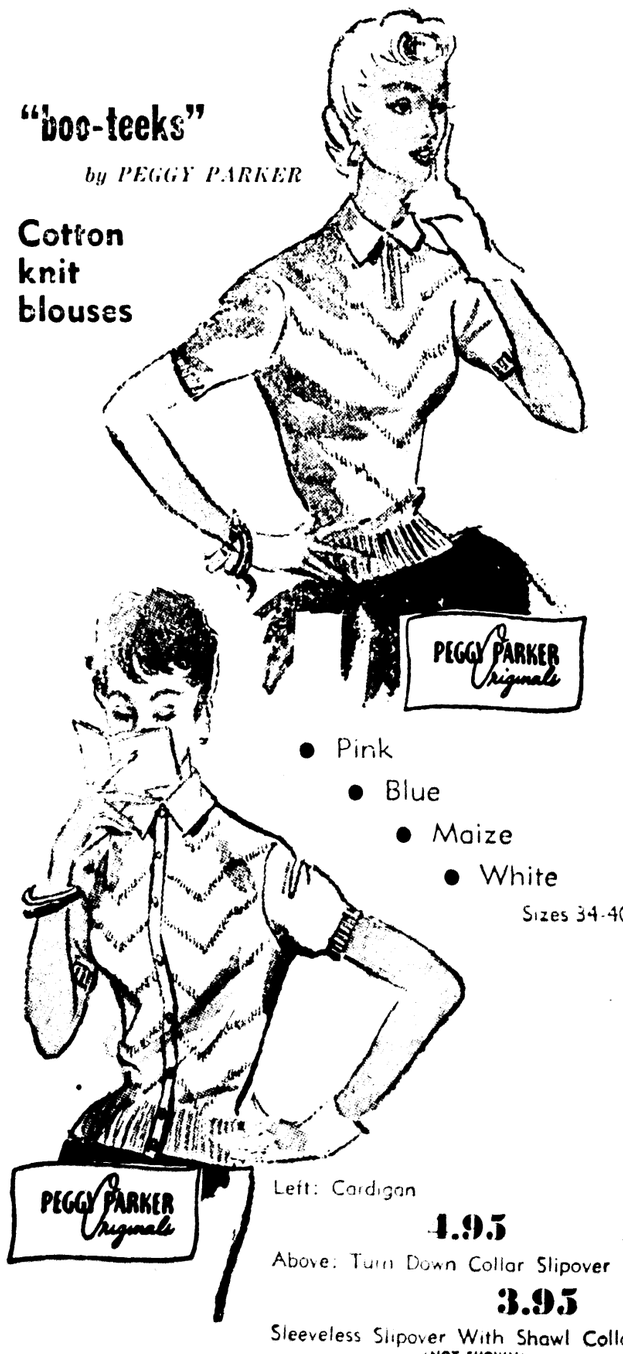

Don't toss away that good metal lipstick case when it's empty. Clean out the lipstick with cleansing tissue and you've a bobby pin holder for your handbag.

Copper can be cleaned by rubbing it with half a lemon that's been dipped in salt. Then rinse in hot water and use a soft cloth (like flannel) to polish.

Miss Flanders Talks To Pierian Club

Miss Frances Flanders, librarian of the Monroe Public Library spoke to the Pierian Club in Oak Ridge on Tuesday afternoon on "Our Colonial Heritage." With a backdrop of European situations prior to the colonization period, Miss Flanders enumerated the many nationalities which furnished citizenry for early America. She showed how the basic beliefs of these people were woven into the Constitution of the United States and found definite expression in the first amendments to the Constitution known as our Bill of Rights. She closed with the thought that although our Colonial heritage had given us many of the freedoms we desire, security is not mentioned as a governmental affair. The fact that security is the business of individuals may be traced to the principles on which our forefathers founded our country.

Mrs. William Shaw, from the Caddoan Club, gave the patriotic reading "Nightmare at Noon" by Stephen Beret.

A fine arts feature of the afternoon was a display of heirlooms brought by members. They included glassware, bottles and urns. There were some lovely old pictures. A collar-and-cuff box, a griddle and a toothpick holder from the days of the early settlers were interesting parts of the display.

Mrs. E. M. Barham and Mrs. A. H. Valentine, hostesses, entertained in the club parlour in Community Hall. They served a delicious salad plate to Miss Flanders, Mrs. Shaw, and the following club members: Mrs. Shelby White, Mrs. T. L. Smith, Mrs. C. E. Shepard, Mrs. C. G. Rolfe, Mrs. Roy Norman, Mrs. R. E. Barham, Sr., Mrs. T. E. Barham, Mrs. John Barr, Mrs. A. B. Conger, Mrs. Edwin Conger, Mrs. G. L. Greene, Mrs. C. N. McDuffie, Mrs. Norman McDuffie, Mrs. Elmer McLendon and Mrs. J. P. Causey.

Mrs. Tisdale Named Chairman Of Campaign

Mrs. Edward Dalton, president of the Monroe Garden Club has named Mrs. A. Dent Tisdale as chairman of the "Don't Be A Litterbug" campaign which will get underway this month.

"Don't Be A Litterbug" is the newest educational campaign sponsored by the National Council of Garden Clubs and the Louisiana Garden Club Federation. Mrs. Lou B. Landry, chairman of highway planning for Louisiana explains how the Litterbug Campaign can affect us:

"Road maintenance in Louisiana is the highest in the U. S. About $900 per mile per year is spent in gathering up litter and cutting grass. Ten cents out of every $1.00 in the highway fund is spent for this maintenance alone.

"For example: To clean up and mow McArthur Ave. in Alexandria (about ten miles) requires nine or ten men for five hours every Friday at a cost of $45 to $50 per week, or about $2500 every year. Litter must be hand collected and hauled away. Beer cans, bottles of many descriptions break mower blades, costing many lost - time hours and some lost - time accidents, which are very expensive. Papers blowing about the highway are definite traffic hazards. Florida started this Litter Bug Campaign. It is now paying dividends in labor saved So much so, that Florida can now afford special attendants, employed to keep their roadside parks in prime condition.

"The National Council feels a Litter Bug Campaign is very important to help prevent the needless waste of public funds. We cannot keep the grass from growing in Louisiana but we can keep down our piles of litter and debris if we just have the opportunity to show what can be done by trying."

In cooperation with the Louisiana Garden Club Federation the Monroe Garden Club will have the following members to direct this campaign:

Public relations, Mrs. Fred Amman; public schools, Mrs. J. B. Thornhill; beautification board, Mrs. James A Noe; publicity, Mrs. H. B. Hargrove; stickers, Mrs. Louis Turner; posters, Mrs. Deimas Jackson; radio and TV, Mrs. Lea Thompson.

The Monroe Garden Club will solicit the help of the state highway department, the women's clubs of the Twin Cities, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the P. T. A., Home Demonstration Clubs, Lions, Rotarians, Kiwanis, Schools, Scouts, Y. W. C. A. and other civic groups interested in the beautification and conservation of our highways, parks and other public places.

The garden club members will place stickers on their automobiles, place posters over the city in business and educational institutions. In addition to newspaper publicity there will be radio and TV programs.

Mrs. Roy H Guthridge, of Lake Charles is the state chairman and she says: "We simply want to get people litterbug conscious. To do this we must go to schools and civic organizations appealing to them not to throw trash around."

With the help of the city council, police jury and all city and parish officials the Monroe Garden Club feels that this project will be most successful.

Department Club Of Oak Grove Has Luncheon

The Woman's Department Club of Oak Grove, held its regular meeting and luncheon in the recreation room of the First Methodist Church Wednesday with Mrs. S. A. Holt presiding The meeting opened with the group singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ellis Womack. They then gave, in unison, the pledge to the flag and recited The American Creed.

Mrs. Charlotte Nugent, program chairman, spoke on the history of George Washington and on the "Restoration of Independence Hall." Charlotte Cannon recited a poem of George Washington and the Cherry Tree.

Mrs. Nugent introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Emma Hanna, of the State Department of Public Welfare. Mrs. Hanna made a very interesting talk which included the importance of the work of her department and specifically emphasized the responsibility of everyone for the welfare and the progress of humanity.

Mrs. T. G. Biggs, Jr. addressed the club regarding the selling of tickets to a "pancake breakfast" to be held February 27 at the Oak Grove High School cafeteria. This project is being sponsored by the Lion's Club and the profits will go to the local swimming pool fund.

The nominating committee made its report to the club president, Mrs Holt, who in turn, had the report read from the floor and the following officers were unanimously elected to serve for the next year; Mrs. S. A. Holt, re-elected as president; 1st vice - president, Mrs. Ruby Bardin; 2nd vice - president, Mrs. W. H. Keller; recording secretary, Mrs. L. V. Williamson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mildred Franklin; treasurer, Mrs. E. R. McCormick and auditor, Mrs. Joe T. Kelly.

There were 30 members and seven guests present.

Burgess-Piro Vows Said In Rayville Church

A wedding of quiet dignity and simplicity was that uniting Miss Constance A. Piro, daughter of Mrs. Sam Piro of Mangham and the late Mr. Piro, and Grover Cleveland Burgess, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Burgess, Sr., also of Mangham.

The vows of the double ring ceremony were exchanged in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Rayville at seven - thirty on the evening of Monday, January 18th. Father R. V. Lawrence officiated.

A lovely program of pre-nuptial music was given by Mrs. Ira Hixon at the organ, who accompanied "Because" and "Ave Maria" were the selections given. Schubert's Serenade was played during the ceremony, with the traditional wedding marches used for processional and recessional of the bridal party.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Sam Piro, Jr., was lovely in a suit of mauve, which was beautifully accented by the background clusters of pink and lavender gladioli and pink carnations used in the chancel of the church. She carried an orchid mounted on her white leather bound prayer book.

Standing beside Mr. Burgess as best man was Mr. Roy Lobrano. Nick Velchoff and Sonny Phillips were the ushers. Altar boy was T. J. Conen.

Mrs. Piro chose for her daughter's wedding a suit in navy, accented by a corsage of pink carnations. The mother of the groom wore a gray suit, and she also wore a pink carnation corsage.

A reception honoring the young couple was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Piro in Mangham, immediately following the ceremony. There guests were invited to refreshments at a handsomely appointed reception table. The table was overlaid with a lace cloth over light green, and was centered by a stunning arrangement of white gladioli and stattis in bridal white.

The three - tiered wedding cake was surmounted by miniature bride and groom figurines under a wedding bell. The groom's sister, Mrs. W. D. Williamson, presided at serving of the cake, and Miss Joan Piro, sister of the bride, presided at the punch service. Miss Ethel Watson was in charge of the bride's register.

Assisting in extending the courtesies were Mrs. F. A. Maggio, Jr., of Lake Providence, Mrs. W. E. Hixon, Mrs. Nicholas Piro and Mrs. Sara Cascio.

The young couple left the reception for a wedding trip to New Orleans, after which they will make their home in Mangham. Both Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Burgess, Jr., are graduates of the Mangham High School. Mrs. Burgess is also a graduate of the Bish - Mathis Institute in Monroe.

Out - of - town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Ewell Camp, Jr., West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Smith, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Nick Lawson, Winnsboro; Mr. and Mrs. George Paola and son, Winnsboro; Mr. V. P. Darymple and son, Delhi; Dr. Julia J. Hunter, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. John Whitfield, Monroe; Mrs. R. DeFatta, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Welch, Archibald; Father R. V. Lawrence, Rayville; Mr. Nick Polanci, Rayville; Mr. and Mrs. Phillips and son, Rayville.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Maggio, Jr., Lake Providence; Miss Carrie Hatch, Rayville; Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Preston, Monroe; Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Yancey and daughter, Monroe; Mrs. Ben Winegeart, West Monroe; Mrs. Max Waite, Monroe; Mr. John Culbertson, Archibald; Miss Deon Bezz, Monroe; Mrs. Ted Crawford, Archibald; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hixon, Winnsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Johnson, Alto; Mrs. John Holdiness, Sr., Alto, Miss Yvonne Mansour, Monroe.

Face Pack Gives Lift

About this time of year, the older woman is likely to seek a special treatment to rejuvenate her winter-weary skin. Nightly applications of her favorite lotion or cream do not seem to be enough at this time.

For you who feel this way, a face pack should prove the perfect treatment. Your skin will feel soft and pleasant afterward and lines are likely to be smoothed away, at least temporarily.

A most soothing pack can be prepared by your druggist from two ounces of borax, a half ounce of powdered tragacanth and two drams of magnesium carbonate. It should cost less than a dollar.

To the druggist's mixture, add water to make a paste and apply it directly to the face. After it has dried, peel it off with your fingers.

You can make a pack yourself by mixing three tablespoons of ordinary raw oatmeal and enough olive oil to form a paste and adding two teaspoons of glycerine.

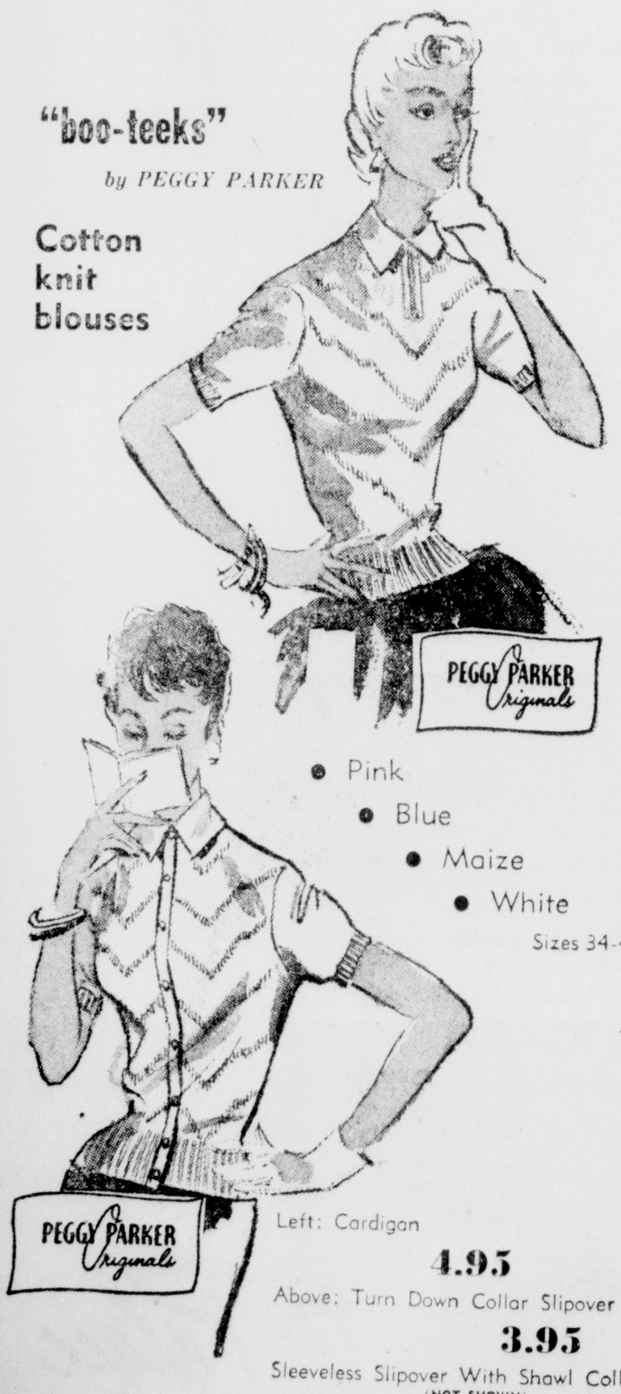

Before applying the pack, pat on some lanolin cream. If bleaching action is desired, you can add the juice of one lemon and a half teaspoon of tincture of benzoin to the preparation.

Don't toss away that good metal lipstick case when it's empty. Clean out the lipstick with cleansing tissue and you've a bobby pin holder for your handbag.

Copper can be cleaned by rubbing it with half a lemon that's been dipped in salt. Then rinse in hot water and use a soft cloth (like flannel) to polish.

Miss Preddy Is Married To Charles Johnson

Miss Shirley Ann Preddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall B. Preddy of West Monroe, became the bride of Charles Blanchard Johnson, son of Mrs. Lucille Johnson of Alexandria, and Mr. D. W. Johnson of Lake Charles, in a simple ceremony performed before members of the immediate families at 7:30 in the evening February 6 in First Methodist Church of West Monroe. Rev. W. D. Milton, pastor, officiated before a setting of Japanese magnolia boughs.

The mother of the bride wore a grey suit with matching accessories and a corsage of Professor Sargent camellias. Mrs. Johnson was in navy blue with a Debutante camellia corsage at her shoulder.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Preddy entertained members of the families and wedding party at a buffet supper in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe G. Preddy, uncle and a ' of the bride, 1221 North Second Street, Monroe. Arrangements of daffodils, flowering quince and pale pink tapers decorated the living room.

The bride's table in the dining room was overlaid with a white lace cloth and centered by a low crystal bowl of narcissus. Burning white tapers flanked the cake, made in the shape of an open Bible and adorned with white satin ribbons, tulle and fresh lilies of the valley.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple is at home in West Monroe. Mrs. Johnson is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and Mr. Johnson of Mernard High School, Alexandria. Both are students at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Lucille Johnson, mother of the groom, and Mrs. Albert Ducote of Alexandria, and Miss Kathryn Norwood, cousin of the bride, of Little Rock, Ark.

Gray Ladies Activities

Our last monthly meeting was held at the Red Cross office on February 1st. After the business meeting we were so happy to have Mr. E. L. Sanford, secretary of the T. B. Association, talk to us. It was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Adams Street Home —

As you all know this home is for male guests only and the phonograph that was donated to them a while back has been broken and can't be repaired and they are all just lost — they love their music so much. The Gray Ladies always carried the record player in the annex and played for the bed-ridden guests, which they really appreciated — now, they don't have any music so if anyone has an extra phonograph, please let us know so you would make lots of happy hearts.

Cake and soft drinks were served each week to all the guests during January.

Cooley's Sanitorium —

The staff of the sanitorium praise the work of the Gray Ladies every week, but they don't have enough Gray Ladies to get around to roiling each lady's hair and doing the things that would make them happy.

A birthday party was given to the ones that had birthdays in January and Mr. John Lacy went out with the Gray Ladies and entertained all that could come to the party. He gave the ones that could answer his riddles a prize. They really enjoyed every minute of it, but not any more than Mr. Lacy himself. Cake, ice cream and candies were served.

DeSiard Street Home —

This home was saddened this month by the passing of three of their beloved guests.

Mrs. J. B. Filhoil donated a cabinet radio to the Gray Ladies to be used at this home and Mr. C. D. McAdams had it repaired for us—really appreciated it.

On January 27th was the birthday party. Fisher's Bakery donated the cake. Purity Ice Cream Company gave the ice cream and Grand Floral donated the beautiful flowers; thanks a lot. Everyone enjoyed it so much.

We wrote letters, brought them magazines and talked to them, for that is what they really enjoy most.

Jackson Street Home

January was a very quiet month at this home. We visited with them, wrote letters and served fruit to all the guests, due to the weather being so bad.

We carried a record player to Mary Goss home and they all enjoyed it very much. Bell Sherman said how much they would like to have one for their home.

Pine Street Home

The usual errands were done, letters written and magazines were given to each guest that wanted them and fruit was served every Monday.

Due to the bad weather, no one was able to get out. Hope February will be better for they enjoy getting out for walks and rides.

St. Joseph's Home —

January was very quiet at the home; so many of the guests had flu and the weather being so bad made it worse.

On the 11th of the month a birthday party was given with eight guests enjoying it. The Flower Shoppe donated each lady a beautiful corsage and McCarthy's Bakery donated the birthday cake. Soft drinks were served. The bed-ridden guests were remembered also.

We are planning on a Valentine Party for February, which they are looking forward to.

Make Camera A Must In Household

If you're looking for a diverting hobbyhorse to ride when wintry weather keeps you housebound, get yourself an inexpensive box camera with a flash attachment and keep it handy on the kitchen shelf.

Several of my friends protest that a camera is too complicated, that flashbulbs may shatter, that their husbands don't want them fooling with their costly equipment.

These gals are also the ones who say "Johnny was so cute today. I wish I had a picture of him playing with the dog."

The kind of camera I use is cheap and an uncomplicated as a light switch. The shutter is preset so all I do is stick in a bantam-sized bulb, push a button and that's all. (I do remember to wind the film.) I've never had a bulb shatter.

Shut your ears to the zealous shutterbug who can make photography sound like an exercise in higher mathematics. What most of us want is a passable record of family life. Because the homemaker is on the scene, she's in a good spot to snap the best unposed shots.

Keeping the camera on the kitchen shelf is not as silly as it sounds —if you spend most of your time in the kitchen as I do. A kitchen is usually small and bright, which makes the most of the light from the flashbulb.

Children are busy so there is less "mugging." Besides snaps of the kids cleaning up their plates, you can get little girls or boys washing dishes, cutting cookies or stirring puddings. Our toddler stays engrossed in pots, pans and percolators while the bulb pops.

On winter nights when you catch up on correspondence with distant family and friends, it's sensible to enclose pictures of the kids. Relatives tend to forget that children are growing bigger and their interests are changing.

You can also use pictures to prove another point. A friend of mine, in despair over the slump-shouldered posture of her teen-age daughter, took a candid shot of the youngster. Then she took a posed snapshot of the girl standing straight and tall.

When the negatives were printed not much was said. But my friend has noted that her daughter's making a conscious effort to improve her posture.

Family records can include more than the children's antics. If you sew new drapes, devise a pretty wall decoration or refinish an old chest, snap it for the record.

Your hobby can be a helpful one, too. If you are vaguely dissatisfied with the way your living room looks, take two or three pictures of key areas—the fireplace, the bookcase, the windows. The camera "sees" what your eyes may not.

Here's news for wearers of strapless bras. A well-known manufacturer of brassieres has just introduced one that offers, he believes, both custom fit and freedom from irritation.

A pushbutton device recessed along the outer edge of each cup is responsible for the better fit and greater comfort. By merely touching a finger to the button, the wearer can expand or contract the cushioned wire frame as much as a full inch.

And once the frame is locked in place, the company claims, no amount of bending, stretching or twisting will cause it to slip.

The company also points out that one can lower the bra to prevent its peeping over low necklines while retaining the natural uplift. There will be no need to endure an unflattering line for neatness' sake.

The pushbutton device also permits the wearer to make allowances for the normal day-to-day changes in the size of the breasts and for the usual difference in size between the left and right sides.

The resulting perfect fit, the firm points, assures perfect security: The bra will not fall away from the body as one leans, bends or reaches.

He gave the ones that could answer his riddles a prize. They really enjoyed every minute of it, but not any more than Mr. Lacy himself. Cake, ice cream and candies were served.

DeSiard Street Home —

This home was saddened this month by the passing of three of their beloved guests.

Mrs. J. B. Filhoil donated a cabinet radio to the Gray Ladies to be used at this home and Mr. C. D. McAdams had it repaired for us—really appreciated it.

On January 27th was the birthday party. Fisher's Bakery donated the cake. Purity Ice Cream Company gave the ice cream and Grand Floral donated the beautiful flowers; thanks a lot. Everyone enjoyed it so much.

We wrote letters, brought them magazines and talked to them, for that is what they really enjoy most.

Jackson Street Home

January was a very quiet month at this home. We visited with them, wrote letters and served fruit to all the guests, due to the weather being so bad.

We carried a record player to Mary Goss home and they all enjoyed it very much. Bell Sherman said how much they would like to have one for their home.

Pine Street Home

The usual errands were done, letters written and magazines were given to each guest that wanted them and fruit was served every Monday.

Due to the bad weather, no one was able to get out. Hope February will be better for they enjoy getting out for walks and rides.

St. Joseph's Home —

January was very quiet at the home; so many of the guests had flu and the weather being so bad made it worse.

On the 11th of the month a birthday party was given with eight guests enjoying it. The Flower Shoppe donated each lady a beautiful corsage and McCarthy's Bakery donated the birthday cake. Soft drinks were served. The bed-ridden guests were remembered also.

We are planning on a Valentine Party for February, which they are looking forward to.

Make Camera A Must In Household

If you're looking for a diverting hobbyhorse to ride when wintry weather keeps you housebound, get yourself an inexpensive box camera with a flash attachment and keep it handy on the kitchen shelf.

Several of my friends protest that a camera is too complicated, that flashbulbs may shatter, that their husbands don't want them fooling with their costly equipment.

These gals are also the ones who say "Johnny was so cute today. I wish I had a picture of him playing with the dog."

The kind of camera I use is cheap and an uncomplicated as a light switch. The shutter is preset so all I do is stick in a bantam-sized bulb, push a button and that's all. (I do remember to wind the film.) I've never had a bulb shatter.

Shut your ears to the zealous shutterbug who can make photography sound like an exercise in higher mathematics. What most of us want is a passable record of family life. Because the homemaker is on the scene, she's in a good spot to snap the best unposed shots.

Keeping the camera on the kitchen shelf is not as silly as it sounds—if you spend most of your time in the kitchen as I do. A kitchen is usually small and bright, which makes the most of the light from the flashbulb.

Children are busy so there is less "mugging." Besides snaps of the kids cleaning up their plates, you can get little girls or boys washing dishes, cutting cookies or stirring puddings. Our toddler stays engrossed in pots, pans and percolators while the bulb pops.

On winter nights when you catch up on correspondence with distant family and friends, it's sensible to enclose pictures of the kids. Relatives tend to forget that children are growing bigger and their interests are changing.

You can also use pictures to prove another point. A friend of mine, in despair over the slump-shouldered posture of her teen-age daughter, took a candid shot of the youngster. Then she took a posed snapshot of the girl standing straight and tall.

When the negatives were printed not much was said. But my friend has noted that her daughter's making a conscious effort to improve her posture.

Family records can include more than the children's antics. If you sew new drapes, devise a pretty wall decoration or refinish an old chest, snap it for the record.

Your hobby can be a helpful one, too. If you are vaguely dissatisfied with the way your living room looks, take two or three pictures of key areas—the fireplace, the bookcase, the windows. The camera "sees" what your eyes may not.

Here's news for wearers of strapless bras. A well-known manufacturer of brassieres has just introduced one that offers, he believes, both custom fit and freedom from irritation.

A pushbutton device recessed along the outer edge of each cup is responsible for the better fit and greater comfort. By merely touching a finger to the button, the wearer can expand or contract the cushioned wire frame as much as a full inch.

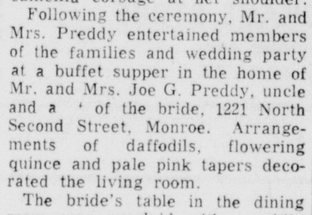

And once the frame is locked in place, the company claims, no amount of bending, stretching or twisting will cause it to slip.

The company also points out that one can lower the bra to prevent its peeping over low necklines while retaining the natural uplift. There will be no need to endure an unflattering line for neatness' sake.

The pushbutton device also permits the wearer to make allowances for the normal day-to-day changes in the size of the breasts and for the usual difference in size between the left and right sides.

Push-Button Kitchens Are On The Way

While Junior plots his interplanetary vacation, let's take a peek at the future for the chief cook and bottle washer.

A functioning, experimental "Kitchen of Tomorrow" created by a large manufacturer gives us a tantalizing preview of what's in store. Because the appliances (with the exception of a simulated electronic oven) are working models, the cook in the future may be you or me.

Just visualize a free-standing open kitchen handsomely decorated in walnut, brown and white with bright-colored accents to merge with living and dining area decor.

The gleam of aluminum and brushed stainless steel contrasts with polished wood and plastics. Lines of cabinets and appliances are clean and sharp.

The slightly arched ceiling is acoustically designed to muffle the mundane clatter so that conversation in the spacious adjoining relaxation area won't be disturbed. Vinyl-covered cork cushioned by a thin layer of foam rubber pads the floor.

Decor won't get the dinner on the table so let's take a look at the appliances. A review of the marvels will convince you as it did me of one fact. A bright day is dawning for the homemaker with a master's degree in electrical engineering.

As a girl whose electrical know-how ends with a murky idea of Ben Franklin's kite experiment, I'll just have to redouble efforts to remain calm, cool and collected in the face of a battery of push buttons.

At the mixing center, for example, push one button and the food mixer rises out of the counter top. Just wave your hand near the switch and the wall cabinet glides down within reach.

Even the flour dispenser has a motor-powered sifter. No more stained recipe books, either. A viewer projects the recipe on a screen in front of your eyes.

When the cake's ready for baking, you bounce over to the cooking center. Two ovens at counter height flank a stainless steel range. Push a button. Up comes one of the ovens to waist level, revealing sliding glass doors.

This oven has a removable rotisserie and a special device which puts charcoal or hickory smoke to flavor the meat. The other oven is the simulated electronic one.

Although still in the laboratory development stage, high speed ovens for home use are a distinct possibility for the future. You'll be able to bake potatoes in five minutes and I'll be able to burn the biscuits in seconds.

Besides burners on the range there is a four-slice toaster, combination Dutch oven and griddle and a well-cooker.

Carting dirty dishes to the sink is a cinch, because a double sink is set in an island in the kitchen and both sides are accessible. Natch, there is a dishwasher and a garbage disposal unit.

But there is also an illuminated color dial which tells you the temperature of the water flowing from a single faucet.

MISS LETTA FAYE FORD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Ford of Winnsboro is engaged to Staff Sgt. John W. Tarver, son of Mrs. Hollis Tarver and the late Mr. Tarver of Winnsboro. Sgt. Tarver is stationed at Hollomon A. F. B. in New Mexico. The wedding is planned for early March.

MRS. JOHNNY WOODARD, prior to her marriage in Vicksburg, Miss., was Miss Evel Lee Prine, daughter of Mrs. Euna Prine. Mr. Woodard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Woodard of West Monroe. The couple are at home on North 5th St.

Mrs. Frank Rives Hostess To Mer Rouge Garden Club

Mrs. Frank W. Rives gave an interesting talk on pruning and spraying plants at the February meeting of the Mer Rouge Garden Club held Tuesday afternoon in the educational building of the Methodist Church.

Chairman of the tree committee, Mrs. J. A Davenport, explained that the committee had planted thirty-five oaks during January and pointed out that fifty per-cent of those planted last spring were growing.

Mrs. J. L. Herron, chairman of the cemetery committee reported on a plan for a new program to begin this week. She explained that the underbrush would be cleared from the highway to the cemetery and that crepe myrtles, nandinas and other shrubs will be planted along the outside fence.

She stated that labor for the project will be provided by the town of Mer Rouge which is also purchasing necessary plants.

Mrs. Herron asked that members with a surplus of plants donate them for the beautification project.

The central decor for the meeting was a quaint Valentine centerpiece arranged on the round lace covered table.

The arrangement featured an old-fashion Valentine bearing a message of love and a nosegay of violets caught by pink satin streamers falling from a nosegay of purple violets arranged in an antique silver bowl and centered by a pink Otome camellia on one side and a tall antique silver candlestick supporting a single pink taper on the other.

Your nail polish will adhere better if you wait to apply it until some time after having your hands in water. Of course, after it has been applied, you should allow a couple of hours before washing your hands.

To lose weight and look well, you should combine diet with exercise. This way, you'll lose both pounds and inches.

YWCA BOARD

At the February Board meeting the devotional was given by Reverend John Allin, Rector of the Grace Episcopal Church. The inspiring and challenging message that he brought was of faithfulness and obedience to God's laws, of witnessing and accepting individual responsibility without any thought of recognition and praise but for the glory of God, of the importance of the work of the women and the woman as an apt example in St. Luke's gospel was Anna. Many varied activities, projects, classes, and "socials" were reported through the various groups and clubs: The Y-ves' three bridge classes being taught by Mrs. Lillie Harrington; the Flower Arranging Class being taught by Mrs. Peggy Garnett; the Y-Teens teas that are being given in all the schools where there are Y-Teen Clubs; the YRG's Party at the Y; interesting programs; "Lamp Lighting" for the Y-Ves' given by Mrs. Billie Holt; "The Home Charming" given at the Business' Girls' Club; the Qualities that make for a good Model and an attractive Personality given by Mrs. Bennie House to the Y-Teens. Mrs. B. L. Mulhern announced that the theme for the Southern Regional Convention to be held in Dallas, Texas, March 25-28th is: "On these We Build. . .Faith, Fellowship, and Freedom".

Y-VES' CLUB

Mrs. Ruby Trammell opened the meeting with the devotional: "A Thought For The Day". Hostesses were Mrs. Blanche Parisey and Mrs. Wilma Schoonover served as hostesses. The guest speaker: Mrs. Billie Holt gave many interesting ways on making lamps and for lighting the home, and the importance of having good and correct lighting. One guest, Mrs. Barbara Gilbert and the following members: Mrs. Mildred Edwards, Mrs. LaVania Woodburn, Mrs. Margaret Johnson, Mrs. Kathaleen Eason, Mrs. Dorothy Kight, Mrs. LaRue Davis, Mrs. Margaret Van Fossen, Mrs. Katie Whitehead, Mrs. Julie Gamier, Mrs. Kay Hood, Mrs. Frances Hochstetler, Mrs. Ruby Trammell, Mrs. Blanche Parisey, Mrs. Wilma Schoonover, Mrs. B.L. Mulhern, Mrs. Leona Dollard, and Mrs. LaVaughn Wegon were welcomed by the president of the club, Mrs. Cay McWilliams.

Y-Teens

The MidSouth Y-Teen Conference Planning committee met in Monroe with the local YWCA serving as hostess for the group. The following were present: Mrs. Heard Williams, El Dorado, Ark., Miss Sue Pittman, Y-Teen program director for Mississippi district YWCA from Jackson, Miss.; Miss Melba Colbert, Y-Teen program director for the Jackson Mississippi YWCA, Miss Catherine Rea of the Mississippi District YWCA Board from University of Mississippi; Marietta Meadors, Y-Teen conference girl executive from Little Rock, Ark., Paula Proost, girl program director from north Little Rock, Ark., "Ginger" Broom, Y-Teen from Tupelo, Miss., Margaret Young from Hattiesburg, Miss.; Emily Bush from Pascagoula, Miss., Nettie Marie Bacot, Ann Bennett and Miss Bess Sharp from the Monroe YWCA. The theme of the conference is "Finest Your Best" and the conference will be held at Gulf Park College June 9th-12th. Miss Bess Sharp will serve as the head Counselor and hostess again this year.

The 8th Grade Club of Y-Teens at West Monroe High School have voted to call their club The Tri-Y Club and the officers are: president, Jerta George; vice president, Betty Jo Arnant; secretary, Georgia Ruth Owens; treasurer, Linda Willett; council representative, Delores Jackson; devotional chairman, Janie Thrasher; social chairman, Betty Ruth McGregor and reporter, Lannie Mae Wynn.

On Monday afternoon the Crosley Y-Teens entertained the Crosley faculty with a "Coke Hour." Each Y-Teen escorted a teacher to the faculty room where the refreshments were served by the Y-Teens. Peggy Venable, president of the club, welcomed the teachers and the group sang the Y-Teen song and said the Y-Teen motto. Miss Bess Sharp, YWCA executive, explained the purpose of the Y-Teen clubs as a part of the YWCA program and the work that is carried on in the community through the Community Chest Funds.

On Tuesday the West Monroe Y-Teens entertained the West Monroe High School faculty with a Valentine tea in the school cafeteria. On Wednesday afternoon the Lenwil Y-Teens entertained their school faculty with a "Coke hour."

Mr. Kinsey Stewart, field representative of the Louisiana Association for Mental Health, was the guest speaker for the Jolly Y Janes' Club. Mr. Stewart led a most intetesting and helpful discussion on our personal relationships.

We also warn against forsaking your make-up for the out-door-girl look. You will be acting most unkindly toward your skin if you do.

The change from steam-heated offices and homes to hours in the cold will take its toll on your skin unless you make an effort to protect it.

The most practical way is to wear a skin-guarding preparation as a powder base. You can wear it night and day for the complete protection you will need.

One popular cosmetics house offers a lotion that it says can be used as a softening base for make-up to counteract the effects of wind and sunburn and to lessen the tendency of that dried-out look.

The lotion is also recommended to relieve the drawn, stinging feeling that one may feel in the neck, arms and legs after a day in the snow.

And don't forget to treat your skis, too. Don't venture out into the outdoors without waxing them. For extra protection, apply pomade as a base coat.

To remove those caked patches on your skis, use steel wool dipped into turpentine.

Peggy Venable, president of the club, welcomed the teachers and the group sang the Y-Teen song and said the Y-Teen motto. Miss Bess Sharp, YWCA executive, explained the purpose of the Y-Teen clubs as a part of the YWCA program and the work that is carried on in the community through the Community Chest Funds.

On Tuesday the West Monroe Y-Teens entertained the West Monroe High School faculty with a Valentine tea in the school cafeteria. On Wednesday afternoon the Lenwil Y-Teens entertained their school faculty with a "Coke hour."

Mr. Kinsey Stewart, filed representative of the Louisiana Association for Mental Health, was the guest speaker for the Jolly Y Janes' Club. Mr. Stewart led a most interesting and helpful discussion on our personal relationships.

Mrs. Frank Rives Hostess To Mer Rouge Garden Club

Mrs. Frank W. Rives gave an interesting talk on pruning and spraying plants at the February meeting of the Mer Rouge Garden Club held Tuesday afternoon in the educational building of the Methodist Church.

Chairman of the tree committee, Mrs. J. A Davenport, explained that the committee had planted thirty-five oaks during January and pointed out that fifty per-cent of those planted last spring were growing.

Mrs. J. L. Herron, chairman of the cemetery committee reported on a plan for a new program to begin this week. She explained that the underbrush would be cleared from the highway to the cemetery and that crepe myrtles, nandinas and other shrubs will be planted along the outside fence.

She stated that labor for the project will be provided by the town of Mer Rouge which is also purchasing necessary plants.

Mrs. Herron asked that members with a surplus of plants donate them for the beautification project.

The central decor for the meeting was a quaint Valentine centerpiece arranged on the round lace covered table

The arrangement featured an old-fashion Valentine bearing a message of love and a nosegay of violets caught by pink satin streamers falling from a nosegay of purple violets arranged in an antique silver bowl and centered by a pink Otome camellia on one side and a tall antique silver candlestick supporting a single pink taper on the other.

Your nail polish will adhere better if you wait to apply it until some time after having your hands in water. Of course, after it has been applied, you should allow a couple of hours before washing your hands.

To lose weight and look well, you should combine diet with exercise. This way, you'll lose both pounds and inches.

NEW OFFICERS for 1954-55 of the Current Literature Club are Mrs. L. M. Frey, parliamentarian; Mrs. Ray Magruder, vice-president; Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Secretary, and Mrs. Dan Dennett, Treasurer. Other officers not in the picture are Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr., president and Mrs. L. A. Fluesmeier, reporter.

Valentine Theme Is Used At Annual Club Luncheon

The Redwood Lounge was the setting for the Current Literature Club's Annual Luncheon. Mrs. Dan Dennett, Mrs. W. A. Cotton and Mrs. Ben Simpson were in charge of arrangements.

The long table was beautifully decorated depicting the Valentine theme with a lovely centerpiece of red carnations and tiny red felt hearts and the valentine motif placecards.

The nominating committee made its report and the following officers were unanimously elected for the year 54-55: President, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr.; Vice-President, Mrs. Ray D. Magruder; Secretary, Mrs. W. A. Cotton; Treasurer, Mrs. Dan Dennett; Reporter, Mrs. L. A. Fluesmeir and Parliamentarian, Mrs. L. M. Frey. Committees for the coming year are as follows: Membership; Mrs. Carter Ackle and Mrs. Max Watts; Program; Mrs. R. B. Bailey, Mrs. B. Frank Maxwell, and Mrs. E. A. Hodge; Luncheon; Mrs. Ben Simpson and Mrs. Ivey McDonald; Project; Mrs. Geo. Reitze, Mrs. Buddy Tolson and Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr.

After the short business session, Mrs. Ben Simpson, accompanied by Mrs. Z. C. Ambrose, sang "Indian Love Call", "Kiss Me Again" and "Sweethearts", all in keeping with the Valentine Season.

Don't Let Spreads Mar Your Bedroom

A fresh, pretty bedspread is the decorative backbone of an attractive bedroom. No matter how small the room or how simple the furniture, an immaculate spread that fits properly is proof of the owner's pride.

And a dingy, skimpy spread will make the finest furniture look like a refugee from a summer camp.

But keeping a spread in applepie order is a problem in winter. If your bed is a parking space for visitors' wraps, grime rubs off to soil the fabric. Soot and dirt sifting in around the windows leave their unlovely imprint.

Some of my friends shift the decor during cold weather months to darker-colored or plaid spreads which don't show the soil quite so fast. When I'm expecting a sizeable group for a party or a meeting, I toss a clear plastic sheet over the spread to stand off some of the grime.

In a normal busy household, however, you don't have time to fuss too much. That's why I, for one, favor spreads that are easily washed and require little or no ironing.

New ready-made spreads are preshrunk so that repeated soap-and-water dunkings won't affect their fit. Cotton chenille, terrycloth, seersucker, corduroy and knitted or crocheted spreads can be sudsed in a machine and need only finger pressing to restore their shape.

If you have a prized quilted overlet or a hand-knit spread, you may prefer to handwash it. Quilted plastic coverlets should be hand-washed too. I think it's easier to handwash bulky spreads in a bathtub rather than a laundry tub.

Because the bathtub offers a broader work surface, you have less hoisting and handling of the heavy water-logged fabric. A plumber's plunger is a handy laundry aid. Plunged up and down in the hot soapy water, the suction pulls suds through the fabric.

Avoid setting deep creases in unironed spreads by using a wringer on loose tension or by shortening the spin-dry cycle of the automatic machine.

Restoring the fluff to napped spreads needn't wrinkle your brow, even though you don't own an automatic dryer and the weather rules out out-of-door drying.

Hair Needs Spring Tonic

As spring approaches, many women, impatient for the change, step forth in sleek, black crepe dresses that sparkle with white touches.

If you are about to buy your season-rushing costume, remember that it will be a success only if you present a completely polished picture.

Perhaps tops on the list to consider is your hair. Will your tresses be as bright as the white on your dress?

If you have allowed your hair to take on a dull look through the winter, get it back to its shining beauty quickly wtih brushing and frequent shampooing.

Frequent sudsing not only keeps your hair gleaming, but also helps to inhibit dandruff.

You might give yourself a preshampoo oil treatment if your hair is rather dry. A tablespoon of olive oil should be sufficient. Part the hair in small sections and pat on the oil with cotton pads. Then wrap a hot towel around your head and let it steam for half an hour.

In shampooing your hair, remember that it is clean when it squeaks. Repeat the shampooing and rinsing routine at least once and give the hair at least three final rinses to be certain all of the shampoo is removed. As you rinse, massage the head with your finger tips to stimulate circulation.

Then, before setting your hair, brush it about half dry. If possible, do this in the sun.

TAILORING CLASS AT AGRICULTURAL BUILDING

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs Landers: "Happy's" letter is absolutely revolting! Having a family is the most sacred thing in the world. It's God's decision and no one should tamper.

She gives a poor excuse for not having children. Very few children will turn out their parents if reared properly. Also, a parent can still save for old age and rear a family! I am only 50 and have eight wonderful grandchildren. In comparison, "Happy" has absolutely nothing! She is to be pitied.—Mrs. R. L.

Dear Ann Landers: More power to "Happy!" Undoubtedly there are millions of women who are miserable with families they did not want and wish they were in "Happy's" shoes If working and saving for 33 years was the secret of "Happy's" happiness, why begrudge her those 33 working years? It's her life and, much to all your regrets (the women who wrote against her . . poor, penny-pinching, family women), to do with as she pleases.—Happy, Jr.

Dear Mrs. Landers: Those people who wrote you in response to "Happy's" letter make me sick! They assumed the same attitude of know-it-all, of which they accused "Happy."

After all, her life is her own and she can lead it according to the goals she sets up for herself. . . whether those goals are children, money, prestige, power. If she finds happiness striving for her own goals, more power to her. "A delusion?" To whom? Maybe "Happy" is happy; who are we to say?—A. G.

PS—I beg to differ with the Rev. A. W. H.

Dear Ann Landers: All I can deduce from reading the comments people sent to you about "Happy" is that people are old-fashioned and jealous that they cannot have her life. I know quite a few married couples who have children and I wouldn't want to be in their shoes for anything! While visiting these people, I notice that 14 out of 15 couples have a popular saying: "Boy! Are you lucky not to have kids like these." But, once those so-called parents are out in public they brag to high heaven about their wonderful children. No thanks!—Married Couple

Dear Ann Landers: In answer to "Cleo's" statement that she feels "Happy" did not marry for love merely because she did not give her husband children, I have only this to say: "Happy" devoted her life working for something that she thought would make her husband happy, so what difference does it make whether it is children or her efforts toward their security if he did not care for children either?

To "No Name" I would like to point out that "Happy" is probably happy or her marriage would have been on the rocks by this time.

To the "Reverend": The only loving and cherishing a husband gives his wife nowadays is not proportionate to the amount of money she can give him. Together they have built their own life, the kind they want to lead. Making a living is not so easy and children complicate that problem even more. It is their own business.

Dear Ann: I am glad you told off "Big Sister." She has no right to judge others or to poke her nose into the business of others. When we got married I wore white, even though I had made a mistake once, too. We were in love sincerely and that is what counted. —Mrs. J. V. K.

Dear Mrs. Landers: Your answer to "Big Sister" really burned me. Her sister-in-law-to-be definitely is NOT worthy of having a church wedding or wearing white. Leaving religion out of it, she does not have the right to walk down a church aisle on THE DAY of her life.

No, I do not believe that she should suffer the rest of her life for her mistake, but a small wedding is what she should settle for. Your reply is like giving an okay signal to girls and telling them not to worry, that they will have no regrets (and I think you know what I mean).—V. W.

PS—I am getting married in a few months . . . and, believe me, I am going to be worthy of that white gown.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of News-Star. Distributed by Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate.

Twenty Women Attend Tailoring Class

Twenty women in the Twin Cities decided that tailoring was not too difficult. The women met five times, including three full days, and finished a wool suit or topper. Mrs. Mildred Swift, associate home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Elaine Bread, leader, taught the class.

The agent says, "It takes plenty of equipment, mostly home made such as hams, large and small, seam board, and ironing boards. Pressing is the secret to good tailoring, and plenty of steam must accompany that pressing. All collars, cuffs, fronts, flaps and hems are inner faced. There is quite a lot of handwork in fastening down tape, facings and linings."

"Average cost of the suits and toppers was $16.22. Each compared favorably with $80 suits which is a saving of over $1,100," the agent states.

Clubwomen Are Investigating Coffee Prices

Four American clubwomen — members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs — have launched an investigation of the coffee situation. The group will leave Idlewild airport in New York at 11:30 a.m. February 11 for Brazil where the women will study the problems affecting high retail coffee prices and shortages. The women will leave Washington for New York on February 10.

In the group are Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, Jerseyville, Ill., first vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Zaio Woodford Schroeder, Grosse Pointe, Michigan, GFWC International Affairs chairman; Mrs. Gilbert F. Loebs, Waterville, Maine, GFWC consumer chairman and Mrs. Carl E. Swanbeck, Huron, Ohio, GFWC American Home chairman.

The women are making the trip at the invitation of the Brazilian Coffee Institute (an adjunct of the Brazilian Government) and will spend 10 days seeking information on coffee crop damage; cultivation and harvesting methods; labor situations affecting the cultivation and export of coffee; transportation facilities; port facilities; experimentation and other programs related to production improvement; storage methods and facilities.

In preparation for the trip, the group has been studying impartial reports on coffee consumption, coffee trade and coffee marketing.

Mrs. Chapman, spokesman for the group, said: "It is our earnest desire to prepare an objective and comprehensive report of our findings for the homemakers we represent. Our organization feels an obligation to seek clarification of the coffee situation because we are interested in keeping consumer prices down, in stimulating trade and in promoting amicable relations with our Latin American neighbors. We hope to be able to make recommendations that will aid in bringing about lower retail coffee prices in the United States."

Keep Neat In Sleet

No one would deny a girl the right to bundle herself up against the cold. But, teen-agers, you don't have to look like a teddy bear to keep comfortable.

Surprisingly, there are some of you who seem to hold this outdated notion.

The other day we observed a young girl whose costume consisted of ill-fitting flannel slacks, a semi-fitted coat make bulky with layers of sweaters, a scarf knotted under her chin and mud-spattered saddle shoes.

It is not at all necessary to dress so unbecomingly in this age of miracle fabrics. There are many materials available that provide sufficient warmth without bulk.

If one feels that she needs slacks to protect her legs from the bitter cold, she should take as much care to have them fit as she would with a dress.

And if there is a chance that snow and mud will spatter shoes and stockings, it's best to wear boots; the newest ones are both lightweight and smart looking. If saddle shoes are worn, they should be kept clean.

Had she been wearing well-cut slacks, a straight-cut sports coat over a warm suit, storm boots, a gay, ear-warming helmet and matching scarf around her neck, the girl mentioned above would have been just as warm, but twice as well-groomed.

Keeping in mind the uses that you will give winter clothing when you buy it, you can succeed where she failed.

To get your little girl started on the road to beauty, see to it that she has a cosmetic kit made especially for children. Give her her own hairbrush, comb and toothbrushes and show her how to use them best.

When you're checking on your appearance, check the back view as well as the front. It may show you crooked stocking seams, uneven hemline or run-down heel lifts.

TAILORING CLASS AT AGRICULTURAL BUILDING

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs Landers: "Happy's" letter is absolutely revolting! Having a family is the most sacred thing in the world. It's God's decision and no one should tamper.

She gives a poor excuse for not having children. Very few children will turn out their parents if reared properly. Also, a parent can still save for old age and rear a family! I am only 50 and have eight wonderful grandchildren. In comparison, "Happy" has absolutely nothing! She is to be pitied.—Mrs. R. L.

Dear Ann Landers: More power to "Happy!" Undoubtedly there are millions of women who are miserable with families they did not want and wish they were in "Happy's" shoes. If working and saving for 33 years was the secret of "Happy's" happiness, why begrudge her those 33 working years? It's her life and, much to all your regrets (the women who wrote against her . . . poor, penny-pinching, family women), to do with as she pleases.—Happy, Jr.

Dear Mrs. Landers: Those people who wrote you in response to "Happy's" letter make me sick! They assumed the same attitude of know-it-all, of which they accused "Happy."

After all, her life is her own and she can lead it according to the goals she sets up for herself. . . whether those goals are children, money, prestige, power. If she finds happiness striving for her own goals, more power to her. "A delusion?" To whom? Maybe "Happy" is happy; who are we to say?—A. G.

PS—I beg to differ with the Rev. A. W. H.

Dear Ann Landers: All I can deduce from reading the comments people sent to you about "Happy" is that people are old-fashioned and jealous that they cannot have her life. I know quite a few married couples who have children and I wouldn't want to be in their shoes for anything! While visiting these people, I notice that 14 out of 15 couples have a popular saying: "Boy! Are you lucky not to have kids like these." But, once those so-called parents are out in public they brag to high heaven about their wonderful children. No thanks!—Married Couple

Dear Ann Landers: In answer to "Cleo's" statement that she feels "Happy" did not marry for love merely because she did not give her husband children, I have only this to say: "Happy" devoted her life working for something that she thought would make her husband happy, so what difference does it make whether it is children or her efforts toward their security if he did not care for children either?

To "No Name" I would like to point out that "Happy" is probably happy or her marriage would have been on the rocks by this time.

To the "Reverend": The only loving and cherishing a husband gives his wife nowadays is not proportionate to the amount of money she can give him. Together they have built their own life, the kind they want to lead. Making a living is not so easy and children complicate that problem even more. It is their own business.

Dear Ann: I am glad you told off "Big Sister." She has no right to judge others or to poke her nose into the business of others. When we got married I wore white, even though I had made a mistake once, too. We were in love sincerely and that is what counted. —Mrs. J. V. K.

Dear Mrs. Landers: Your answer to "Big Sister" really burned me. Her sister-in-law-to-be definitely is NOT worthy of having a church wedding or wearing white. Leaving religion out of it, she does not have the right to walk down a church aisle on THE DAY of her life.

No, I do not believe that she should suffer the rest of her life for her mistake, but a small wedding is what she should settle for. Your reply is like giving an okay signal to girls and telling them not to worry, that they will have no regrets (and I think you know what I mean).—V. W.

PS— I am getting married in a few months . . . and, believe me, I am going to be worthy of that white gown.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of News-Star.

Twenty Women Attend Tailoring Class

Twenty women in the Twin Cities decided that tailoring was not too difficult. The women met five times, including three full days, and finished a wool suit or topper. Mrs. Mildred Swift, associate home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Elaine Bread, leader, taught the class.

The agent says, "It takes plenty of equipment, mostly home made such as hams, large and small, seam board, and ironing boards. Pressing is the secret to good tailoring, and plenty of steam must accompany that pressing. All collars, cuffs, fronts, flaps and hems are inner faced. There is quite a lot of handwork in fastening down tape, facings and linings."

Clubwomen Are Investigating Coffee Prices

Four American clubwomen — members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs — have launched an investigation of the coffee situation. The group will leave Idlewild airport in New York at 11:30 a.m. February 11 for Brazil where the women will study the problems affecting high retail coffee prices and shortages. The women will leave Washington for New York on February 10.

In the group are Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, Jerseyville, Ill., first vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Zaio Woodford Schroeder, Grosse Pointe, Michigan, GFWC International Affairs chairman; Mrs. Gilbert F. Loebs, Waterville, Maine, GFWC consumer chairman; and Mrs. Carl E. Swanbeck, Huron, Ohio, GFWC American Home chairman.

The women are making the trip at the invitation of the Brazilian Coffee Institute (an adjunct of the Brazilian Government) and will spend 10 days seeking information on coffee crop damage; cultivation and harvesting methods; labor situations affecting the cultivation and export of coffee; transportation facilities; port facilities; experimentation and other programs related to production improvement; storage methods and facilities.

In preparation for the trip, the group has been studying impartial reports on coffee consumption, coffee trade and coffee marketing.

Mrs. Chapman, spokesman for the group, said: "It is our earnest desire to prepare an objective and comprehensive report of our findings for the homemakers we represent. Our organization feels an obligation to seek clarification of the coffee situation because we are interested in keeping consumer prices down, in stimulating trade and in promoting amicable relations with our Latin American neighbors. We hope to be able to make recommendations that will aid in bringing about lower retail coffee prices in the United States."

Keep Neat In Sleet

No one would deny a girl the right to bundle herself up against the cold. But, teen-agers, you don't have to look like a teddy bear to keep comfortable.

Surprisingly, there are some of you who seem to hold this outdated notion.

The other day we observed a young girl whose costume consisted of ill-fitting flannel slacks, a semi-fitted coat make bulky with layers of sweaters, a scarf knotted under her chin and mud-spattered saddle shoes.

It is not at all necessary to dress so unbecomingly in this age of miracle fabrics. There are many materials available that provide sufficient warmth without bulk.

If one feels that she needs slacks to protect her legs from the bitter cold, she should take as much care to have them fit as she would with a dress.

And if there is a chance that snow and mud will spatter shoes and stockings, it's best to wear boots; the newest ones are both lightweight and smart looking. If saddle shoes are worn, they should be kept clean.

Had she been wearing well-cut slacks, a straight-cut sports coat over a warm suit, storm boots, a gay, ear-warming helmet and matching scarf around her neck, the girl mentioned above would have been just as warm, but twice as well-groomed.

Keeping in mind the uses that you will give winter clothing when you buy it, you can succeed where she failed.

To get your little girl started on the road to beauty, see to it that she has a cosmetic kit made especially for children. Give her her own hairbrush, comb and toothbrushes and show her how to use them best.

When you're checking on your appearance, check the back view as well as the front. It may show you crooked stocking seams, uneven hemline or run-down heel lifts.

Patsy McGuire Crowned Queen At Annual Ball

Every year during this season, the fancy of Lincoln Parish turns to the annual March of Dimes Coronation Ball, at which a queen is crowned in the presence of her royal court. Spectators climax a feverish period of selecting the candidates for the choice position from among the parish's most outstanding beauties.

At this year's festivities, held in the gymnasium on the Tech Campus, Friday night, Miss Patsy McGuire, a high school senior of Simsboro, was named the choice of the Tech Faculty Wives' Club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl McGuire of Simsboro and recipient of the coveted crown.

Miss McGuire, whose escort and subsequent king was Clem Drewett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Drewett of Ruston, is an attractive brownette.

Throughout her scholastic years, she has been acclaimed an "A" student.

Miss McGuire was crowned after the twenty-one candidates and Miss Martha Charlotte Green, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Felton Green who reigned as queen of the 1953 ball had been escorted to their places. They were seated on a raised dais which had as its focal point a large red satin and tulle heart, before which were placed the white satin thrones.

Each candidate for the 1954 honor, was accompanied to the platform by her date for the evening.

Miss Green, who was the last girl to enter the building, was escorted by two pre-school children dressed as cupids and bearing quivers of arrows upon their backs. The children were Nancy Holstead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Holstead, Jr., and 1953 Princess Peach of the Louisiana Peach Festival and Ragan Green, son of Dr. anl Mrs. Ragan Green. After the trio mounted the dais, Miss Green drew an arrow from Nancy's quiver and read the name of her successor. Miss McGuire stepped forward and was crowned by Ruston's mayor, T. C. Beasley, who also crowned the king.

At the conclusion of the program, the court was led from the platform by the king and queen and performed a picturesque figure dance. The attractive girls, were dressed in bouffant gowns of pastel colors and carried Valentine bouquets of camellias with miniature chrysanthemums.

The queen's retinue included Miss Carol Ann Neely, escorted by Middleton Shirley; Miss Margaret Ann Riser and Frederick Hoagland; Miss Celia Colvin and Tommy Richardson; Miss Dorothy Scarborough and Ben James; Miss Alice Marie Davis and Bryant Kennedy; Miss Lee Stegall and James White; Miss Jan McLand and Charles Monerief; Miss Jane Fuller and John Holstead; Miss Carolyn Harris and Reggie French; Miss Patsy Ann Taylor and Bobby Hinton; Miss Martha Peden and Butch Wilson; Miss Lane Wells and Marvin Stevens; Miss Virginia Ann Crowley and Sonny Jones; Miss Ann Hendrickson and Frank Jones; Miss Linda Ledbetter and Johnnie Gullatt; Miss Jan Johnston and Bill Smith; Miss Dorothy Dell Barksdale and Paul Covington; Miss Shirley Speights and Bobby James; Miss Mary Ann McLaurin and Billy Wilder; Miss Gail Hanchey and Braden Lazarus.

Mrs. James Mize was general chairman of the ball committee. Decorations' chairman was Miss Ruth Richardson. Mrs. Bobby Evans was publicity chairman and tickets were handled by Mrs. J. T. Folk, Jr.

Pageant script was written by the Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Pomeroy.

PATTERN M221
by Philip Hulitar

PROMINENT DESIGNER—Never, does Hulitar design "background" dresses. You couldn't possibly stay in the background in Pattern M221. Simple though it is, every line is molded to do the most for your figure. That's the Hulitar genius—the great flair for allure and excitement of this fabulously successfpl American designer. With a carefree hand, he draws a dashing, high-flying collar on a slender sheath buttoned to the waist. He subtly elongates the waistline by setting a pocket low on your hip, and curving it 'round to the back. The total effect? If you're short, you look taller in this dramatic line. If you'd like to take inches off, the beautifully balanced skirt does the trick. Choose a gleaming shantung, crisp faille, or fine linen for this, sew every stitch with loving care for it's an expensive, exclusive Hulitar Original.

Pattern M221 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards 59-inch fabric.

PATTERN M221
by Philip Hulitar

PROMINENT DESIGNER—Never, does Hulitar design "background" dresses. You couldn't possibly stay in the background in Pattern M221. Simple though it is, every line is molded to do the most for your figure. That's the Hulitar genius—the great flair for allure and excitement of this fabulously successfpl American designer. With a carefree hand, he draws a dashing, high-flying collar on a slender sheath buttoned to the waist. He subtly elongates the waistline by setting a pocket low on your hip, and curving it 'round to the back. The total effect? If you're short, you look taller in this dramatic line. If you'd like to take inches off, the beautifully balanced skirt does the trick. Choose a gleaming shantung, crisp faille, or fine linen for this, sew every stitch with loving care for it's an expensive, exclusive Hulitar Original.

Pattern M221 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards 39-inch fabric.

Garden Lovers Ready For Spring

The weather man brought us that other freeze he's been warning us about for a month or more. The damage it has done remains to be seen. There was plenty of moisture in the ground, though, so there should be no plant loss, only blooms.

School Landscaping

Sherrouse and Plum Street school grounds are really looking beautiful. When these P.T.A.'s get busy they can get more work done in a week than I can even imagine. Of course, with the help of Mr. Joe Ellis. What would this town do without Mr. Joe? He's interested in every project that will make Monroe a better place to live.

The committees used many native plants and hardy shrubs and planted them several feet from the building — no shrubbery beds out in the play areas to stop Johnny when he starts for that touch down. Of course, lots of shade trees. The following served on the Sherrouse committee, Jane Sherrouse, Helen Cannon, Virginia Cage and Mrs. Windom. Those who are responsible for the Plum Street School are: Mrs. Earl Vizg, Mrs. W. A. Cornett, Mrs. G. L. Thompson, and Mrs. G. L. Jones.

Garden Ramblins

Something I'll not forget soon is the visit to the J. F. Stone greenhouse. They have one of the most beautiful collections of white camellias I've seen, as well as other colors.

If you want some late blooming shasta daisies go by and see Jean Harris, 812 Hilton, Monroe. Jean says these are the common tall ones but she'll be glad to divide and she has quite a number.

Out at Bea Johns last week, we were talking pruning. Their hydrangeas are rather large, but we left them as is, because pruning now would get most of this year's blooms. Just remember when this shrub starts blooming keep the old blooms cut. That's enough pruning unless you want a smaller plant, and a hydrangea that's kept pruned low won't give you many blossoms.

Remember when you are sa...just for mulch, watch for nitrogen deficiency. You can spot this by a slight yellowing of the leaves. You'll need a little nitrogen mixed in with the sawdust, about a half cut of nitrogen to a bushel of sawdust.

Sometime your azaleas sent up long, bare shoots with leaves clustered at the top. When this plant blooms, cut off such long shoots and enjoy them indoors. Cut off the branch where it comes out from the main branch. New growth will quickly come out and you'll have a much prettier shaped plant.

Get some pussy willow cuttings from your neighbor. Plant five or six in the same hole. They root easily and are so very lovely in flower arrangements. If you saw Gladys Dickerson on T.V. on February 2 you'll agree with me on that point.

Get ready for spring. Provide yourself with pruning shears, a hand spade, a package of twisters for tying plants to trellies, stakes, etc. and a box of wayward vine guides. The latter is for training vines and espaliered plants.

Fig vine is the only evergreen vine that I know that will fasten itself to brick or masonry without harm to the walls. Ivy disintegrates brick and mortar. The brick wall at the Fred Hudson home, 500 Forest the Monroe, is covered with this vine.

This is the time to put five pounds of epsom salts around your American holly, if it is a large plant. Put about half that for a small plant. If you gave your holly this treatment last year, it won't be necessary to put the salts again this year. Wait until February 1955. This salts does not take the place of your regular fertilizer, 5-10-5. Use that according to instructions given in this column last Sunday.

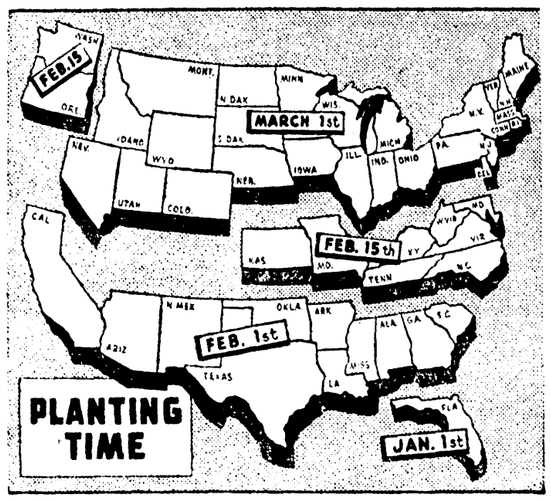

If you like flowering quince drive by the Wilds home, 112 Glenmar and see that long row in bloom. It's lovely in the yard and the branches make startling flower arrangements. Remember you can buy

Planting Time In U. S. A. Observed In Four Stages

When days begin to grow longer, after the sun starts north, spring comes to the heart of the gardener, no matter where he may live.

If a National Garden Week could be based upon interest, rather than action, the first week in January would be the time to have it. But no single week can be selected as the time when the practice of gardening should begin throughout our widespreading country.

Four months must pass in the sun's slow northern journey before sowing seeds outdoors is safe in the northern tier of states.

To obtain action in unison among all practicing and promoting home gardening, the American Council of Horticulture has devised a moving spring festival. Planting Time, which follows the sun as it travels north from January until March.

The country is divided into four zones. In each the average date of the last killing frost is approximately the same. One month before this date is selected as the beginning of Planting Time in that zone. Seeds of hardy varieties may be sown; hardy plants may be transplanted; tender varieties may be started under protection, and merchants of garden goods should make these available to their customers.

Since it is considered impractical to divide a state into several zones, each state has been considered as a unit, and assigned a date for the beginning of "Planting Time" which represents the average climate of the whole state.

The key date which governs outdoor garden operations in any locality subject to freezing weather is the time of the last killing frost in spring.

Plants protected by greenhouses or hot-beds may be started as much as 10 weeks before this date. Seeds can be sown in cold frames 8 weeks before it, and seed boxes started in the home soon after that.

As soon as the ground can be prepared for outdoor seed sowing, hardy plants may be sown, either flowers or vegetables.

Tender plants started under protection should not be set out in the garden until all danger of freezing or even severe chilling, ends.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Gardening Advice Given In New Book

Tupper and Love of Atlanta have at long last brought out Charles J. Hudson's excellent book "Hudson's Southern Gardening" ($4.95). This is an important event because it gives us a good modern gardening book for our region. Mr. Hudson is well known for his gardening page in the Atlanta Journal. He has a long background of horticultural training and has been horticulturist to Hastings Seed Company in Atlanta for many years. The good gardening advice he has been giving every Sunday is all packed into this book. He tells you exactly how much seed to plant for a lawn and provides information on the various kinds of grass for the different sections of the Southern States. In a seed store, people are forever asking practical questions about what to spray with and how long it will take plants to bloom from seed, how much seed to a ten-foot row, how to plant this and that and so on.

This book reflects Mr. Hudson's direct experience with the public. Into 463 pages he has packed most of the answers to almost any question you may wish to ask about every day Southern gardening. The book covers an amazing lot of subjects for one book. There are chapters on pruning trees and shrubs, lists of the best kinds of trees, shrubs, perennials and bulbs and very good instructions and advice about how to plant them—and how not to. The experts were called on for information about all the popular groups of plants like camellias, azaleas, daylilies, hollies, chrysanthemums, dahlias, daffodils and the other plants which have so many groups of "fans" these days.

All in all, this is an excellent encyclopedia of Southern gardening. It is to be hoped that the publishers will see fit, when they publish the next edition, to re-design the book to make the material in it easy to find. As it is, you have to read through almost a whole section before you come upon the information you need. Most of us already know part of what we are trying to find out and need to find our way quickly to the part we do not know. It will be easy to redesign Hudson's Southern Gardening so as to lead the eye quickly where it wants to go. We humbly submit, too, that the map of the zones of the South to which gardeners must constantly refer if they are going to be able to use a book for the whole South, be printed inside both the front and the back of the book. The index must be enlarged to include more detailed information and make it more readily available. Undoubtedly, the cost of printing these days is responsible for these faults in so excellent a book.

Newer Perennials

The new catalogues of perennials are offering us some of the greatest improvements made in years in these more or less permanent plants. There are always new perennials that are suitable for the Northern States. Each season sees new varieties of delphiniums larger and taller than those of last year, but during the past three or four years a number of good tough perennials that will stand our Southern climate without turning up their toes have found their way into the catalogues. From time to time, we have commented on some of them. Now, after as many as four years, the column can report that many of these beautiful newer plants have settled down to a permanent place in the South from Texas to Norfolk. Not many gardeners have ever had it in their summer flower borders, but the old Anemone hupehensis is a drouth resistant plant about which your columnist has been writing and lecturing for twenty-five years. Now the plant breeders have crossed it with the late fall Japanese anemones and created a whole new set of September blooming plants which begin to flower before the Japanese anemones.

We mentioned last year that September Charm, single silvery rose, September Queen, semi-double rosy red and September Sprite, a miniature twelve-inch plant like its parent, Anemone hupehensis, were "tops" in September blooming perennials. By all means buy a few of these plants to brighten up your tired September garden. These seem to be as permanent as any perennials going. They like a little shade to look their best under the punishment meted out by the sun when they bloom. There is nothing new, in a way, about the liatris called September Glory and its white form, White Spire because they are simply selected types of our wild gayfeathers. They are tough perennials that grow from a sort of "bulb", and they will take the drouth without any watering whatsoever—even the worst drouths that we have. Look up the other kinds of liatris, too, and plant a section of them in your September border.

The Kansas gayfeather, an old perennial, is well known. It blooms in late summer as a rule. For still earlier, in the beginning of summer, you will want to get some plants of the lythrum called Morden Pink. When you take the electric train from London's Waterloo Station to Hampton Court Palace up the Thames some eighteen miles, you go right through Morden. A famous seed company has its buildings there, and, in typical English fashion, there are gorgeous beds of flowers out in front where you can see them from the train. This is the association your columnist has with Morden, and lithrum Morden Pink is well named if it has anything to do with that gorgeous spot. Most lythrums are good plants for the South. They really like a lot of moisture but they will grow in an ordinary perennial bed and bloom for weeks.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q—Can sawdust be used to increase the acidity of the soil?

A—Digging sawdust into soil or using it as a mulch does not materially increase the acidity of the soil.

Q—What are the cultural requirements of the wax-plant? It seems to thrive but never blooms.

A—The wax-plant, hoya carnosa, a summer bloomer, should be rested throughout late autumn and early winter by watering only when the foliage shows signs of shriveling.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Array Of Color On Display

Despite the unexpected freeze of last Sunday which destroyed many fine camellia blooms the Garden Center has been a riot of color with a continuous display of fine camellia specimens. This beautiful array of more than fifty varieties was made possible by the following fine gardeners: Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Montgomery, Dr. and Mrs. A. G. McHenry, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Stone, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. A. R. Butler and Mrs. Ava Trousdale.

The Waterproof Garden Club created the beautiful arrangements for competition this week. These were point - scored by Mrs. Stewart Hunt and Mrs. B. H. Talbot of Ruston.

Mrs. Clyde Guthrie's lovely line mass arrangement of red quince and red camellias took first place. Second place award went to Mrs. David Miller for a beautiful foliage arrangement in a grey pillow vase using aspidistra and angel-wing begonia leaves. Third place award went to Mrs. Stathum Crosby for a triangular arrangement of pampas grass sprayed with white and gold glitter in a frosty white bottle as a gentle reminder that winter is not yet over.

In the horticulture section first place went to Mrs. M. E. Higginbotnam for King Alfred daffodils. Second place Mrs. David Miller for a display of foliage plant; third place, Mrs. Clyde Guthrie for an array of pansies.

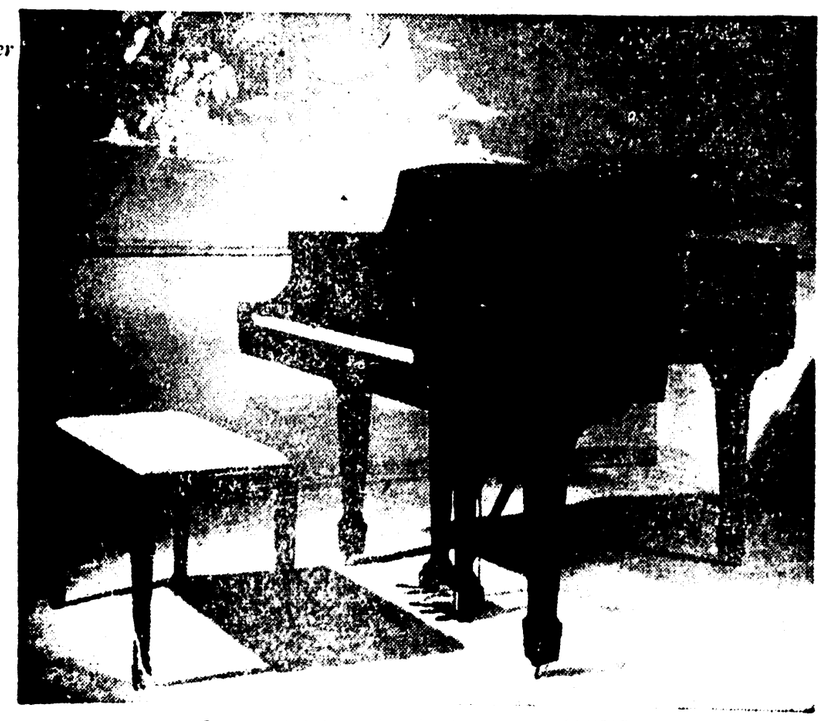

A lovely Valentine arrangement on display this week was made by Mrs. V. S. Garnett. Using a white antique plate for a container and mushroom and finger coral as accessories, Mrs. Garnett effectively arranged Governor Mouton camellias.

The attention of all gardeners is directed to the forthcoming flower show to be presented by the Monroe Garden Club on March 9. The horticulture section is open to the public. It is hoped that many of our fine gardeners, especially the men, will make entries in the show and give us all the privilege of viewing outstanding plants of non-garden club residents of the Twin Cities. Copies of the schedule may be seen at the garden center.

Your child's awakening to beautiful things in life can safely be intrusted to the Steinway. Come in and ask for our booklet, "How to Choose a Piano." We can deliver a Regency Vertical for as little down as $147.50

Since 1853 the name Steinway has been a household word. In this Steinway century concert artists, the great of past and present, have been content with nothing less than the perfection of a Steinway. The Steinway today—built with the experience, the skill and the pride of craft handed down to a fifth generation of Steinway sons—is the greatest Steinway of them all. No other instrument approaches its golden singing voice, its depth of tone color, its responsive touch. For the home, the Baby Grand above, or the contemporary Regency Vertical below, yields all the musical treasure of a Steinway. Among the many exquisite Steinway models, you will find one that is a pleasing addition to any room.

When you buy your piano ask Hewitt's, your Steinway dealer and a piano authority—"What are the qualities that make a Steinway superior?" We will demonstrate true differences that should not be overlooked when making an investment so important as this.

Plentiful Potatoes

Potatoes are on the plentiful food list and are therefore a good buy. Let's use more of them. Audrey Dawson gave me a recipe we've enjoyed for a potato, wiener casserole. Just put a layer of thinly sliced potatoes and a layer of wieners in the dish and bake at 375 degrees F. until the potatoes are done. It's a good idea to put a few tablespoons of water in the bottom of the casserole.

Dates

The book covers an amazing lot of subjects for one book. There are chapters on pruning trees and shrubs, lists of the best kinds of trees, shrubs, perennials and bulbs and very good instructions and advice about how to plant them—and how not to. The experts were called on for information about all the popular groups of plants like camellias, azaleas, daylilies, hollies, chrysanthemums, dahlias, daffodils and the other plants which have so many groups of "fans" these days.

All in all, this is an excellent encyclopedia of Southern gardening. It is to be hoped that the publishers will see fit, when they publish the next edition, to re-design the book to make the material in it easy to find. As it is, you have to read through almost a whole section before you come upon the information you need. Most of us already know part of what we are trying to find out and need to find our way quickly to the part we do not know. It will be easy to redesign Hudson's Southern Gardening so as to lead the eye quickly where it wants to go. We humbly submit, too, that the map of the zones of the South to which gardeners must constantly refer if they are going to be able to use a book for the whole South, be printed inside both the front and the back of the book. The index must be enlarged to include more detailed information and make it more readily available. Undoubtedly, the cost of printing these days is responsible for these faults in so excellent a book.

Newer Perennials

The new catalogues of perennials are offering us some of the greatest improvements made in years in these more or less permanent plants. There are always new perennials that are suitable for the Northern States. Each season sees new varieties of delphiniums larger and taller than those of last year, but during the past three or four years a number of good tough perennials that will stand our Southern climate without turning up their toes have found their way into the catalogues. From time to time, we have commented on some of them. Now, after as many as four years, the column can report that many of these beautiful newer plants have settled down to a permanent place in the South from Texas to Norfolk. Not many gardeners have ever had it in their summer flower borders, but the old Anemone hupehensis is a drouth resistant plant about which your columnist has been writing and lecturing for twenty-five years. Now the plant breeders have crossed it with the late fall Japanese anemones and created a whole new set of September blooming plants which begin to flower before the Japanese anemones.

We mentioned last year that September Charm, single silvery rose, September Queen, semi-double rosy red and September Sprite, a miniature twelve-inch plant like its parent, Anemone hupehensis, were "tops" in September blooming perennials. By all means buy a few of these plants to brighten up your tired September garden. These seem to be as permanent as any perennials going. They like a little shade to look their best under the punishment meted out by the sun when they bloom. There is nothing new, in a way, about the liatris called September Glory and its white form, White Spire because they are simply selected types of our wild gayfeathers. They are tough perennials that grow from a sort of "bulb", and they will take the drouth without any watering whatsoever—even the worst drouths that we have. Look up the other kinds of liatris, too, and plant a section of them in your September border.

The Kansas gayfeather, an old perennial, is well known. It blooms in late summer as a rule. For still earlier, in the beginning of summer, you will want to get some plants of the lythrum called Morden Pink. When you take the electric train from London's Waterloo Station to Hampton Court Palace up the Thames some eighteen miles, you go right through Morden. A famous seed company has its buildings there, and, in typical English fashion, there are gorgeous beds of flowers out in front where you can see them from the train. This is the association your columnist has with Morden, and lithrum Morden Pink is well named if it has anything to do with that gorgeous spot. Most lythrums are good plants for the South. They really like a lot of moisture but they will grow in an ordinary perennial bed and bloom for weeks.

A—Digging sawdust into soil or using it as a mulch does not materially increase the acidity of the soil.

Q—What are the cultural requirements of the wax-plant? It seems to thrive but never blooms.

A—The wax-plant, hoya carnosa, a summer bloomer, should be rested throughout late autumn and early winter by watering only when the foliage shows signs of shriveling.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Array Of Color On Display

Despite the unexpected freeze of last Sunday which destroyed many fine camellia blooms the Garden Center has been a riot of color with a continuous display of fine camellia specimens. This beautiful array of more than fifty varieties was made possible by the following fine gardeners: Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Montgomery, Dr. and Mrs. A. G. McHenry, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Stone, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. A. R. Butler and Mrs. Ava Trousdale.

The Waterproof Garden Club created the beautiful arrangements for competition this week. These were point - scored by Mrs. Stewart Hunt and Mrs. B. H. Talbot of Ruston.

Mrs. Clyde Guthrie's lovely line mass arrangement of red quince and red camellias took first place. Second place award went to Mrs. David Miller for a beautiful foliage arrangement in a grey pillow vase using aspidistra and angel-wing begonia leaves. Third place award went to Mrs. Stathum Crosby for a triangular arrangement of pampas grass sprayed with white and gold glitter in a frosty white bottle (a gentle reminder that winter is not yet over).

In the horticulture section first place went to Mrs. M. E. Higginbotham for King Alfred daffodils. Second place, Mrs. David Miller for a display of foliage plants, third place, Mrs. Clyde Guthrie for an array of pansies.

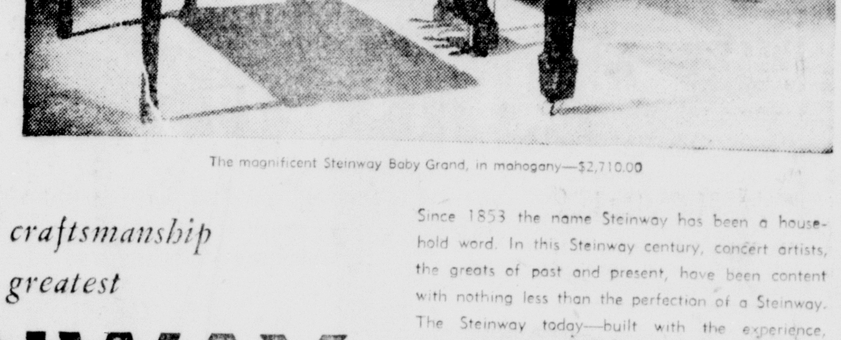

A lovely Valentine arrangement on display this week was made by Mrs. V. S. Garnett. Using a white antique plate for a container and mushroom and finger coral as accessories, Mrs. Garnett effectively arranged Governor Mouton camellias.

The attention of all gardeners is directed to the forthcoming flower show to be presented by the Monroe Garden Club on March 9. The horticulture section is open to the public. It is hoped that many of our fine gardeners, especially the men, will make entries in the show and give us all the privilege of viewing outstanding plants of non-garden club residents of the Twin Cities. Copies of the schedule may be seen at the garden center.

The magnificent Steinway Baby Grand, in mahogany—$2,710.00

STEINWAY

Since 1853 the name Steinway has been a household word. In this Steinway century, concert artists, the greats of past and present, have been content with nothing less than the perfection of a Steinway. The Steinway today—built with the experience, the skill and the pride of craft handed down to a fifth generation of Steinway sons—is the greatest Steinway of them all. No other instrument approaches its golden singing voice, its depth of tonal color, its responsive touch. For the home, the Baby Grand, above, or the contemporary Regency Vertical, below, yields all the musical treasure of a Steinway. Among the many exquisite Steinway models, you will find one that is a pleasing addition to any room.

When you buy your piano, ask Hewitt's, your Steinway dealer and a piano authority—"What are the qualities that make a Steinway superior?" We will demonstrate true differences that should not be overlooked when making an investment so important as this.

Your child's awakening to beautiful things in life can safely be intrusted to the Steinway. Come in and ask for our booklet, "How to Choose a Piano." We can deliver a Regency Vertical for as little down as $147.50

Churches

Church Of Redeemer In Ruston Making Strides

By ANNABEL ATKINSON PANKEY

RUSTON (Special) — The Episcopal Church of the Redeemer held its first congregational business meeting as a parish last week in the Episcopal Student Center.

Prior to the calling to order of the meeting, by the Rev. Robert Ratelle, priest - in - charge, a delicious buffet supper was served to the assembly, which included a large number of children, and guests. Tables, placed in the main recreational room, were brightened by bouquets of flowering quince, camellias and daffodils.

During the meeting, Mr. Ratelle read to the group a report of the church's progress since its founding as a mission over fifty years ago to its present status as a parish. Mr. Ratelle compared the crude physical plant of the early church with the expanded facilities of today and gave a detailed report to his communicants of his work with the congregation, which began in 1948 at a time when there was no rectory, no church building and only a handful of members listed on the church's roll.

Mr. Ratelle, who is a graduate of Tulane University and of St. Luke's Theological Seminary at Sewanee, Tenn., spoke of his early discouragement on first arriving in Ruston and told of his gratification at the splendid response to his work he has received since being here. "The church in this particular area and community has a great potential . . . in this community there is a great thrist for religion," Mr. Ratelle said, after announcing that the Church of the Redeemer now has 92 communicants and 125 church members.

While speaking, Mr. Ratelle paid special tribute to W. A. Marbury, senior warden, son of one of the early members of the church, Roy Morgan, secretary, Mrs. S. B. White, treasurer, Miss Doris Haskell, organist, for their faithful services in 1953.

At the conclusion of his report, Mr. Ratelle called for the nemination of nine vestrymen, and pointed out that this would probably be the only time in the church's history that an entire list of vestrymen would be elected at one time; since these churchmen serve in rotation.

After secret balloting by those present, W. A. Marbury, Roy Morgan, W. A. Marbury Jr., S. B. White, Dr. William Kimble, W. S. Carter, L. J. Fox, R. J. Talbot and Arthur Stone were declared elected. Later they elected S. B. White, senior warden; R. J. Talbot, junior warden; and Roy Morgan, secretary of the vestry. Mrs. S. B. White was elected treasurer of the church.

The vestry extended a formal call to Mr. Ratelle to serve as rector of the parish.

Religious Week To Get Emphasis By Three Groups

Religious Emphasis Week, an annual, campus-wide activity, will be held at Louisiana State University beginning February 21, with ten religious leaders representing the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths scheduled to speak.

The event is sponsored cooperatively by the Religious Council, representing independent, campus religious groups, and the YM-YWCA. The council of 100, the committee in charge of organizing the event, is composed of student and faculty members who represent the entire campus.

The speakers will lead discussions for seminars, dormitory groups, a faculty retreat, sorority and fraternity meetings, classroom discussions and other assemblies.

Bishop William C. Martin, president of the National Council of the Churches of Christ and of the Council of Bishops of the Methodist Church, will address the University Convocation on Monday morning on "Life's Central Decision." At the faculty luncheon on Monday he will talk on "A Resurgent Church in a Confused World."

Others include Rabbi Abraham Feinstein, Rabbi of Mizpah Congregation, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Rabbi David Fichman, executive director of the New Orleans committee on race relations; John H. Leith, minister, First Presbyterian Church, Auburn, Ala.; Reverend Vincent P. McCorry, S. J. of the Jesuit Students of Theology, Woodstock College, Woodstock, Md.

'One God' Film Will Be Shown To 1st Methodists

An outstanding religious film, "One God,' will be shown at the "friendly hour" service of the First Methodist Church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in observance of the annual "Brotherhood Week" sponsored by the National Council of Christians and Jews.

Valentine Day Being Featured By The Baptists

JONESBORO (Special) — "Bring your heart to Sunday School on Valentine Day" is the slogan of the Jonesboro Baptist Church in their drive for attendance Sunday, Feb. 14. Each member is being given a small, red heart to sign, bring along and post on the bulletin board. Over 400 persons have already pledged to be present.

For the church service there will be special music and sermon for the occasion.

Rev. John Swint Hurt has just completed five years of service with the church, when they have had 500 additions, with 220 of them on profession of faith. He recently presented a Bible to Miss Frances Turner in recognition of her being the 500th addition to the Jonesboro Baptist Church in his five years of ministry.

During these five years, average attendance in the Sunday School has increased 100. They have completed two building programs and erected a number of new Sunday School rooms. Also they have increased their budget from $25,000 to $42,000 a year.

Cleft Rock Has Its Sanctuary Job Completed

Members of Cleft Rock Baptist Church quite proudly announce completion of their new auditorium and the painting of the educational building. Wonderful work has been done by the Brotherhood of the church. Members of this group are ever ready to give of their time and energy.

The president of this group is Albert Bayles. By his leadership, the Brotherhood has made great progress. Their program is to win souls, to help in mission work and to give aid to the needy.

The church's pastor, Rev. Glenn Wright, expresses thanks to the Brotherhood which presented his family with a TV set. Reverend Wright is one ever willing to help in anything that arises. Recently he held a revival in Tennessee, where he was able to accomplish the saving of many souls.

Young people of the church are doing a fine job in their visitation program, and in their music. They are deeply appreciative of the cooperation of all groups in their church.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: In your travels around the country, don't you find that the so-called intellectuals are the most difficult to convince as to their need of religion? P. O. E.

ANSWER: Not necessarily. The so - called "scientific humanism" and "age of progress" is about over as a philosophy. We were told just before World War II to put our trust in science and have confidence in ourselves. This was the faith that was supposed to be the faith of all educated persons under forty. In fact many intellectual leaders on our university campuses were dogmatic about it, but it has turned out to be a bubble that has burst. Bertrand Russell says, "Evolution is a long wearisome story with a poor point." Scientific humanism, thinking that it needed no saviour except man himself, has found itself disillusioned and full of despair. One of its adherents admitted some time ago that it is basically bankrupt. It can sustain neither faith in science nor our hope of mankind. In all the student conferences on university campuses that I have held in the past two years, I have not had one trick or smart alec question. The students are spiritually hungry. They are becoming Christians by the hundreds across the nation. The gloomy outlook of scientific humanism is immediately changed to the optimistic thrill and light that Christ can bring to the human heart.

REV. C. B. HALL

Million More In '54, Trenton's Dynamic Slogan

"A Million More in '54" will be the slogan at the Trenton Baptist Sunday School Association Monday night at the Trinity Baptist Church in West Monroe.

Rev. C. B. Hall, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Winnsboro, will be the principal speaker. Before he entered the ministry as pastor he served as educational director for some of the larger churches in this state and other states.

He was in the past associated with some of the most prominent pastors of the Southern Baptist convention. He can speak with authority and knowledge on the work of a Sunday school in winning and enlisting new recruits.

Hugh B. Balfour superintendent of the Trenton Sunday School Association, will preside. He states: "This meeting should be a big incentive to the eighteen churches of the Trenton Association to win their share of the million in '54."

Rev. A. T. Mitchell will initiate the meeting with a talk on "Why Don't We Win Them Off Our Doorsteps."

World Day Of Prayer To Be Held; Plans Complete

Final plans were announced for the World Day of Prayer on Friday afternoon when the executive committee and committee chairman of United Church Women of Monroe and West Monroe met in the home of the president, Mrs. D. W. Gerhard.

Mrs. E. C. Gibson led the group in the opening devotional. The following appointments of chairmen were made: Chairman of life and growth, Mrs. R. O. Ware; chairman of Christian social relations, Mrs. V. E. Green; chairman of charity, hospital visiting, Mrs. H. B. Zeagler.

Each church affiliated with United Church Women is privileged to have a representative of three women, consisting of the president of each local women's organization in the church, the minister's wife, and one member at large who reports back to her organization all important items on the agenda of the United Church Women.

Plans were projected further for the Observance of World Day of Prayer to be on Friday, March 5, 1954 at the First Methodist Church at 10:00 a.m., the children on the afternoon at 3:00 o'clock and a night meeting of business women. Men have a special invitation to attend the morning or evening meeting. Mrs. Dana Dawson, wife of Bishop Dana Dawson of Topeka, Kans., will be the guest speaker. Preceding World Day of Prayer, Mrs. Dawson will lead a day of prayer retreat on March 4th at St. Paul's Methodist Church from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. All women and prayer groups of the city and outlying areas are invited to attend this prayer retreat. Each woman is asked to bring sandwiches.

Mrs. George Varno 2nd vice president, requests that women write the state senator and state representative urging them to use their power in the legislature towards keeping the ban on gambling and also in retaining permanently the Youth Commission of Louisiana.

As many ladies as possible were asked to attend the United Nation's Workshop to be held in Ruston on February 21st at Trinity Methodist Church at 3:00 p.m. Mrs. Clifford A. Bender, member of the board of missions of the Methodist church and Christian social relations, secretary of the division of the Woman's Society of Christian Service and official observer at the U. N. will conduct the workshop.

Attention was called to the annual meeting to be held in Shreveport on March 9-10 with Mrs. David Baker of New York, editor of the magazine, "The Church Woman," to be the guest speaker. Other outstanding speakers will be Gov. Robert Kennon and Mrs. H. B. Habeyean, former state president of United Church Women. The theme of the annual meeting to be "Christ, the Way."

Armed Services

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo.—Pvt. George Washington, son of Mrs. Marie Washington, Rt. 2, Box 282½, West Monroe, La., is nearing completion of a 16-week training cycle here with a unit of the 6th Armored Division.

As a trainee, he received eight weeks basic training in the fundamentals of Army life and the use of infantry weapons. He is now completing an additional eight weeks engineer training.

Bible Words to Live by

LUKE 12:7—"But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered."

* * *

In a world of hydrogen bombs, jet planes, and space measured in millions of light years I need the personal reassurance of these words of Christ. Can even an intelligent Universe, so vast, regard an individual person?

Some years ago the late Dr. Albert Bevan by an apt experiment answered this question for me — The law of gravitation governs the mighty forces of the Universe. Would such a law, busy with galaxies and nebulae, pay any attention to a tiny bit of paper I hold in my hand? I turn it loose. It falls. I can depend on it. The universal law of gravity deals with the cosmic and the microscopic, with the vast and with the minute — That's what makes it a law!

God deals with the Universe and with the individual person — That's what makes him God! He is both a Cosmic Force and a Heavenly Father.

"But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered" — Jesus spoke out of his intimate experience of God. Confronted by the newly revealed vastness of the Universe — I know that God still cares.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
224 Auburn Ave.

"Soul" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, February 14, 1954.
The Golden Text is: "The sun shall be no more thy light by day, neither for brightness shall the moon give light unto thee: but the Lord shall be unto thee an everlasting light, and thy God thy glory" (Isa. 60:19).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson - sermon is the following from the Bible: "When the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive" (Ezek. 18:27).
The lesson - sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In Science we learn that it is material sense, not soul, which sins, and it will be found that it is the sense of sin which is lost, and not a sinful soul" (481:1).

Bible Comment

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

How To Know The Christ

To know the Christ, to see the Messiah revealed in Jesus of Nazareth, should not be difficult for us.

We have the accumulated evidence of the New Testament Gospels and all the witnesses to the graciousness of His life, the richness and beauty of His teaching and the power of His salvation.

We might envy the experience of those who first saw Him and heard Him, when He was here on earth, but we have advantages that they did not have.

They saw Him with wonderment. They heard Him gladly; they observed the miracles, but they did not always respond to His teaching. They were amazed and impressed, but there was doubt in their minds.

There had been various false ones, claiming to be the Messiah. So they said, not with positive conviction, "This is the Christ," but with hopeful questioning, "Is not this the Christ?"

So, we of today stand with all the evidences and assurances of the time and the ages.

But for us, as for those who saw and heard with wonderment, the Christ does not come with His fulness unless we, too, see Him with wonderment.

The first essential for the knowledge of the Christ is to

Church Of Redeemer In Ruston Making Strides

By ANNABEL ATKINSON PANKEY

RUSTON (Special) — The Episcopal Church of the Redeemer held its first congregational business meeting as a parish last week in the Episcopal Student Center.

Prior to the calling to order of the meeting, by the Rev. Robert Ratelle, priest - in - charge, a delicious buffet supper was served to the assembly, which included a large number of children, and guests. Tables, placed in the main recreational room, were brightened by bouquets of flowering quince, camellias and daffodils.

Following the supper, the children were entertained with a children's movie in the church school building, while their parents attended the meeting.

During the meeting, Mr. Ratelle read to the group a report of the church's progress since its founding as a mission over fifty years ago to its present status as a parish. Mr. Ratelle compared the crude physical plant of the early church with the expanded facilities of today and gave a detailed report to his communicants of his work with the congregation, which began in 1948 at a time when there was no rectory, no church building and only a handful of members listed on the church's roll.

Mr. Ratelle, who is a graduate of Tulane University and of St. Luke's Theological Seminary at Sewanee, Tenn., spoke of his early discouragement on first arriving in Ruston and told of his gratification at the splendid response to his work he has received since being here. "The church in this particular area and community has a great potential . . . in this community there is a great thrist for religion," Mr. Ratelle said, after announcing that the Church of the Redeemer now has 92 communicants and 125 church members.

While speaking, Mr. Ratelle paid special tribute to W. A. Marbury, senior warden, son of one of the early members of the church, Roy Morgan, secretary, Mrs. S. B. White, treasurer, Miss Doris Haskell, organist, for their faithful services in 1953.

At the conclusion of his report, Mr. Ratelle called for the nemination of nine vestrymen, and pointed out that this would probably be the only time in the church's history that an entire list of vestrymen would be elected at one time; since these churchmen serve in rotation.

After secret balloting by those present, W. A. Marbury, Roy Morgan, W. A. Marbury Jr., S. B. White, Dr. William Kimble, W. S. Carter, L. J. Fox, R. J. Talbot and Arthur Stone were declared elected. Later they elected S. B. White, senior warden; R. J. Talbot, junior warden; and Roy Morgan, secretary of the vestry. Mrs. S. B. White was elected treasurer of the church.

World Day Of Prayer To Be Held; Plans Complete

Final plans were announced for the World Day of Prayer on Friday afternoon when the executive committee and committee chairman of United Church Women of Monroe and West Monroe met in the home of the president, Mrs. D. W. Gerhard.

Mrs. E. C. Gibson led the group in the opening devotional. The following appointments of chairmen were made: Chairman of life and growth, Mrs. R. O. Ware; chairman of Christian social relations, Mrs. V. E. Green; chairman of charity, hospital visiting, Mrs. H. B. Zeagler.

Each church affiliated with United Church Women is privileged to have a representative of three women, consisting of the president of each local women's organization in the church, the minister's wife, and one member at large who reports back to her organization all important items on the agenda of the United Church Women.

Plans were projected further for the Observance of World Day of Prayer to be on Friday, March 5, 1954 at the First Methodist Church at 10:00 a.m., the children on the afternoon at 3:00 o'clock and a night meeting of business women. Men have a special invitation to attend the morning or evening meeting. Mrs. Dana Dawson, wife of Bishop Dana Dawson of Topeka, Kans., will be the guest speaker.

Preceding World Day of Prayer, Mrs. Dawson will lead a day of prayer retreat on March 4th at St. Paul's Methodist Church from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. All women and prayer groups of the city and outlying areas are invited to attend this prayer retreat. Each woman is asked to bring sandwiches.

Mrs. George Varino, 2nd vice president, requests that women write the state senator and state representative urging them to use their power in the legislature towards keeping the ban on gambling and also in retaining permanently the Youth Commission of Louisiana.

As many ladies as possible were asked to attend the United Nation's Workshop to be held in Ruston on February 21st at Trinity Methodist Church at 3:00 p.m. Mrs. Clifford A. Bender, member of the board of missions of the Methodist church and Christian social relations, secretary of the division of the Woman's Society of Christian Service and official observer at the U. N. will conduct the workshop.

Attention was called to the annual meeting to be held in Shreveport on March 9-10 with Mrs. David Baker of New York, editor of the magazine, "The Church Woman," to be the guest speaker. Other outstanding speakers will be Gov. Robert Kennon and Mrs. H. B. Haberyan, former state president of United Church Women. The theme of the annual meeting to be "Christ, the Way."

Armed Services

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo.—Pvt. George Washington, son of Mrs. Marie Washington, Rt. 2, Box 382½, West Monroe, La. is nearing completion of a 16-week training cycle here with a unit of the 6th Armored Division.

As a trainee, he received eight weeks basic training in the fundamentals of Army life and the use of infantry weapons. He is now completing an additional eight weeks engineer training.

Pvt. Washington is being taught the use of pioneer and power tools, construction of fixed and floating bridges and related subjects besides additional combat skills.

Religious Week To Get Emphasis By Three Groups

Religious Emphasis Week, an annual, campus-wide activity, will be held at Louisiana State University beginning February 21, with ten religious leaders representing the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths scheduled to speak.

The event is sponsored cooperatively by the Religious Council, representing independent, campus religious groups, and the YM-YWCA. The council of 100, the committee in charge of organizing the event, is composed of student and faculty members who represent the entire campus.

The speakers will lead discussions for seminars, dormitory groups, a faculty retreat, sorority and fraternity meetings, classroom discussions and other assemblies.

Bishop William C. Martin, president of the National Council of the Churches of Christ and of the Council of Bishops of the Methodist Church, will address the University Convocation on Monday morning on "Life's Central Decision." At the faculty luncheon on Monday he will talk on "A Resurgent Church in a Confused World."

Mrs. G. Avery Lee of Ruston, and director of the Baptist Student Center here from 1943 to 1945 is one of the speakers.

'One God' Film Will Be Shown To 1st Methodists

An outstanding religious film, "One God," will be shown at the "friendly hour" service of the First Methodist Church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in observance of the annual "Brotherhood Week" sponsored by the National Council of Christians and Jews.

This film is highly recommended and shows the basic faith of the great religious bodies of America.

Valentine Day Being Featured By The Baptists

JONESBORO (Special) — "Bring your heart to Sunday School on Valentine Day" is the slogan of the Jonesboro Baptist Church in their drive for attendance Sunday, Feb. 14. Each member is being given a small, red heart to sign, bring along and post on the bulletin board. Over 400 persons have already pledged to be present.

For the church service there will be special music and sermon for the occasion.

Rev. John Swint Hurt has just completed five years of service with the church, when they have had 500 additions, with 220 of them on profession of faith. He recently presented a Bible to Miss Frances Turner in recognition of her being the 500th addition to the Jonesboro Baptist Church in his five years of ministry.

During these five years, average attendance in the Sunday School has increased 100. They have completed two building programs and erected a number of new Sunday School rooms. Also they have increased their budget from $25,000 to $42,000 a year.

Cleft Rock Has Its Sanctuary Job Completed

Members of Cleft Rock Baptist Church quite proudly announce completion of their new auditorium and the painting of the educational building. Wonderful work has been done by the Brotherhood of the church. Members of this group are ever ready to give of their time and energy.

The president of this group is Albert Bayles. By his leadership, the Brotherhood has made great progress. Their program is to win souls, to help in mission work and to give aid to the needy.

The church's pastor, Rev. Glenn Wright, expresses thanks to the Brotherhood which presented his family with a TV set. Reverend Wright is one ever willing to help in anything that arises. Recently he held a revival in Tennessee, where he was able to accomplish the saving of many souls.

Young people of the church are doing a fine job in their visitation program, and in their music. They are deeply appreciative of the cooperation of all groups in their church.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: In your travels around the country, don't you find that the so-called intellectuals are the most difficult to convince as to their need of religion? P. O. E.

ANSWER: Not necessarily. The so - called "scientific humanism" and "age of progress" is about over as a philosophy. We were told just before World War II to put our trust in science and have confidence in ourselves. This was the faith that was supposed to be the faith of all educated persons under forty. In fact many intellectual leaders on our university campuses were dogmatic about it, but it has turned out to be a bubble that has burst. Bertrand Russell says, "Evolution is a long wearisome story with a poor point." Scientific humanism, thinking that it needed no saviour except man himself, has found itself disillusioned and full of despair. One of its adherents admitted some time ago that it is basically bankrupt. It can sustain neither faith in science nor our hope of mankind. In all the student conferences on university campuses that I have held in the past two years, I have not had one trick or smart alec question. The students are spiritually hungry. They are becoming Christians by the hundreds across the nation. The gloomy outlook of scientific humanism is immediately changed to the optimistic thrill and light that Christ can bring to the human heart.

REV. C. B. HALL

Million More In '54, Trenton's Dynamic Slogan

"A Million More in '54" will be the slogan at the Trenton Baptist Sunday School Association Monday night at the Trinity Baptist Church in West Monroe.

Rev. C. B. Hall, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Winnsboro, will be the principal speaker. Before he entered the ministry as pastor he served as educational director for some of the larger churches in this state and other states.

He was in the past associated with some of the most prominent pastors of the Southern Baptist convention. He can speak with authority and knowledge on the work of a Sunday school in winning and enlisting new recruits.

Hugh B. Balfour superintendent of the Trenton Sunday School Association, will preside. He states: "This meeting should be a big incentive to the eighteen churches of the Trenton Association to win their share of the million in '54."

Rev. A. T. Mitchell will initiate the meeting with a talk on "Why Don't We Win Them Off Our Doorsteps."

Bible Comment

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

How To Know The Christ

To know the Christ, to see the Messiah revealed in Jesus of Nazareth, should not be difficult for us.

We have the accumulated evidence of the New Testament Gospels and all the witnesses to the graciousness of His life, the richness and beauty of His teaching and the power of His salvation.

We might envy the experience of those who first saw Him and heard Him, when He was here on earth, but we have advantages that they did not have.

They saw Him with wonderment. They heard Him gladly; they observed the miracles, but they did not always respond to His teaching. They were amazed and impressed, but there was doubt in their minds.

There had been various false ones, claiming to be the Messiah. So they said, not with positive conviction, "This is the Christ," but with hopeful questioning, "Is not this the Christ?"

So, we of today stand with all the evidences and assurances of the time and the ages.

But for us, as for those who saw and heard with wonderment, the Christ does not come with His fulness unless we, too, see Him with wonderment.

The first essential for the knowledge of the Christ is to know that story of the earthly life of Jesus, to walk with Him in Galilee, Samaria and Judea, to wander in the fields and villages and byways, as well as to journey to the feasts, Jerusalem and the Temple.

An amazing thing about the Gospels is that they are always new. A sense of wonder is always in the reading, if not a new incentive and a touch of inspiration.

It is as we read and know the Gospels that the truth and richness and the experience of all that follows becomes living—the letters of St. Paul, and of Peter, James and John; the effect of the Gospel upon disciples in a pagan world, and the revelation of what Christ has been to those who have known, loved and followed Him in all the centuries of Christian faith.

"To know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge" (Ephesians 3:19)—that is the richest and greatest experience man can have, and any man can have it (II Corinthians 5:17).

It is not limited to the few, or to the learned. The evidence of that knowledge and its power and blessing is not found only in the lives of recognized saints.

It is found in the innumerable lives of the same sort of people who heard Jesus gladly, the people who in humble, daily life have found the love of God shed abroad in their hearts.

And you and I, every one of us, can be of that blessed company.

Bible Words to Live by

* * *

In a world of hydrogen bombs, jet planes, and space measured in millions of light years I need the personal reassurance of these words of Christ. Can even an intelligent Universe, so vast, regard an individual person?

Some years ago the late Dr. Albert Bevan by an apt experiment answered this question for me — The law of gravitation governs the mighty forces of the Universe. Would such a law, busy with galaxies and nebulae, pay any attention to a tiny bit of paper I hold in my hand? I turn it loose. It falls. I can depend on it. The universal law of gravity deals with the cosmic and the microscopic, with the vast and with the minute — That's what makes it a law!

God deals with the Universe and with the individual person — That's what makes him God! He is both a Cosmic Force and a Heavenly Father.

"But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered"—Jesus spoke out of his intimate experience of God. Confronted by the newly revealed vastness of the Universe—I know that God still cares.

Covenant Presbyterian Church

2nd Anniversary

FEB. 20, 1952 ..... 207 MEMBERS
FEB. 14, 1954 ..... 351 MEMBERS

Covenant Presbyterian Church was organized on Feb. 20, 1952 with 207 charter members. On its second anniversary there are 351 members. A complete church school has been organized from the nursery on up through all the adult groups. Temporary church and Sunday school quarters are in Brown Hall, Northeast Louisiana State College. Leadership trainer courses are offered to prepare those who intend to teach or refresh those who have taught three years and want to learn more about their work.

Rev. Wayne W. Gray has been minister of Covenant Presbyterian Church since Jan. 1, 1953. He and Mrs. Gray reside at 1716 Milton which is the recently completed manse. This manse is part of the building program underway and is located directly across Orelle Place from the site of the Church plant itself.

The Church site which was purchased early in 1953 occupies the entire block facing Orelle Place and bounded by Milton Street. The perspective which you see here illustrates the first unit of the Church building program. This will house the educational building, fellowship hall and kitchen. Plans and specifications of the construction of this completely air conditioned structure are now in the hands of contractors. On February 26 bids will be opened and a contract awarded for its actual construction. A second unit of the building program will be additional Sunday school rooms. The third unit in the building program will be the sanctuary itself.

RISE STEVENS
Metropolitan Opera Star

Rise Stevens To Appear In Monroe February 17

Rise Stevens, internationally famous star of opera, concert, radio, screen and recording will appear in Monroe Wednesday February 17th, at 8:30 p.m. at Neville high school Auditorium under the auspices of The Twin City Concert Association for members of the association.

Miss Stevens was born in New York City of a Norwegian father and American mother. She accomplished her career along strictly unorthodox lines. None of it would have happened if Rise had listened to reason.

When she was studying at Manhatten's Juilliard School of Music under Mme. SchoenRene, she was told that she wasn't glamorous enough for opera, and that she should concentrate on a concert career. So—she concentrated on operatic roles, gathering valuable experience in New York's Opera Comique. The Metropolitan opera took notice of the brilliant young singer and offered her a contract—the coveted goal of every young artist. With rare common sense and discretion, Rise declined, believing she needed more stage experience, and set off for Europe. There, George Szell, the present conductor of the Cleveland Symphony, heard her sing at a friend's house and arranged an audition for her at the Opera House in Prague, Czechoslovakia. Immediately she was engaged for leading roles and became an instantaneous success.

Vienna, Cairo, and Buenos Aires were important steps on the Stevens opera path which brought her back to the United States and a sensation debut at the Metropolitan Opera house in "Mignon" on December 17, 1938. When she made opera box-office in "Der Rosenkavalier", the powers that be forthwith typecast her in boy roles. "The public won't accept you as a "femme fatale', she was told bluntly. But, Rise wouldn't listen. A few years later, of course, she scored a huge hit in the operatic department of sultry females, and today, "Carman" and Rise Stevens are synonymous.

Every year since her sensational debut at the Met, she fulfills her winter engagement at the famous New York Opera House, appearing in her now world-famous roles—"Carmen," "Der Rosenkavalier," "La Gioconda", "Mignon", "Marriage of Figaro," "Sampson and Delilah," "Hansel and Gretel", among others. She has graced the roster of opera companies throughout the United States and the rest of the world.

During the few months she was preparing herself in New York for her Met debut, she received an offer to star in a movie. Again Rise said "no." Before appearing on the screen, she wanted to be an established opera star. Again people threw up their hands in despair; again Rise proved that she was right. Two years later, that same studio offered her another role—a better one—and Rise starred in "The Chocolate Soldier" opposite Nelson Eddy. Her other films include the Academy award picture and all-time high box-office scorer, "Going My Way" in which she co-starred with Bing Crosby, and the outstanding musical extravaganza "Carnegie Hall."

Rise Stevens has been a drawing power in radio, too, having had several of her own shows and steadily guesting on all the important musical network programs. And now, with television forming such an important part of our entertainment field, she is constantly asked to star on her own show and to co-star with the greatest names in show business. Unfortunately time permits her to accept only a fraction of all these offers. In a recent nation-wide poll by the New York Times the two top shows of the year, chosen to be repeated in their entirety or in part, were two programs on which she co-starred, — a comedy show she did with Martha Raye and the T. V. Debut show of Ray Bolger, on which Rise stepped slightly out of character and did a five minute dance sequence, ranging from the Samba to the Jitterbug. Wrote Jack O'Brian, syndicated critic of the New York Journal American: "Rise Stevens, the Met's Marilyn Monroe, was a perfect Ginger Rogers to the Fred Astair of Ray Bolger."

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

Reg U S. Pat Off

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. Make her feel she has plenty of sex appeal, but also build her up as a woman. Don't merely tell her she's "wonderful," but show her how much better she is than Florence, Jean or Helen. This appeals to the deepest urge in human nature—the desire to be important. Our booklet, "How To Pick A Mate," will help. Send 15c (coin only) and self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Because they feel inferior. Their IQ's, as a rule are below average. One psychologist had scores of persons rate others on numerous personality traits. The pictures were so accurate that the students would say, "That's Bob—or Jean—to a T." The outstanding trait of the braggart is stupidity. Boasting bolsters up his inferiority.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes, such belief will reduce the amount you remember. An executive consulted psychologist Roy Dorcus because he believed his poor memory was causing him to lose business. The psychologist found that the executive had a good memory but had to remember vastly more than those under him. This comparison had so convinced him he had a poor memory that he had quit trying to remember.

How To Pick A Mate

What kind of a mate do YOU want? This booklet, a condensation of the famous book of the same name by psychologist and marriage counselor, Dr. Clifford Adams, includes practical tests for you and your prospective husband or wife—tests of personality, emotional maturity and love as distinguished from infatuation. For a copy of the booklet, HOW TO PICK A MATE, send 15 cents (coin only), plus self-addressed, stamped envelope (give name of city and state) to Dr. A.E. Wiggam, care of Morning World.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. Make her feel she has plenty of sex appeal, but also build her up as a woman. Don't merely tell her she's "wonderful," but show her how much better she is than Florence, Jean or Helen. This appeals to the deepest urge in human nature—the desire to be important. Our booklet, "How To Pick A Mate," will help. Send 15c (coin only) and self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Because they feel inferior. Their IQ's, as a rule are below average. One psychologist had scores of persons rate others on numerous personality traits. The pictures were so accurate that the students would say, "That's Bob—or Jean—to a T." The outstanding trait of the braggart is stupidity. Boasting bolsters up his inferiority.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes, such belief will reduce the amount you remember. An executive consulted psychologist Roy Dorcus because he believed his poor memory was causing him to lose business. The psychologist found that the executive had a good memory but had to remember vastly more than those under him. This comparison had so convinced him he had a poor memory that he had quit trying to remember.

How To Pick A Mate

What kind of a mate do YOU want? This booklet, a condensation of the famous book of the same name by psychologist and marriage counselor, Dr. Clifford Adams, includes practical tests for you and your prospective husband or wife—tests of personality, emotional maturity and love as distinguished from infatuation. For a copy of the booklet, HOW TO PICK A MATE, send 15 cents (coin only), plus self-addressed, stamped envelope (give name of city and state) to Dr. A.E. Wiggam, care of Morning World.

Solution Of Today's Puzzle In Classified Section

'Affair With Stranger' Marriage, Morals Story

This modern-day drama is concerned with the romance, marriage and near break-up of that marriage between a young playwright and a lovely model. It has aroused critical approval for its forthright approach to an engrossing subject and for the sincere, human portrayals by its stars and cast.

Despite the seriousness of its subject, "Affair With a Stranger" is told with considerable humor and not a few surprising twists. It is set in the always interesting atmosphere of Broadway, its theatrical district with its boarding houses and gay cafes, and the Long Island smart set in which its more successful personalities move.

As the level-headed model who marries a struggling playwright and sticks to him through thick and thin, Jean Simmons has a role worthy of her talent and beauty. Her smart clothes, created for her by Michael Woulfe, will have especial appeal for the feminine fans.

Victor Mature has one of his most sympathetic roles as the playwright, who faces the usual temptations experienced by a handsome and successful male in the Broadway Belt. Prominent in the supporting cast are newcomer Mary Jo Tarola, as Miss Simmons' companion model; Monica Lewis, as a Broadway singing star with an eye on Mature, Jane Darwell, Dabbs Greer, Wally Vernon, Nicholas Joy, Olive Carey and Victoria Horne.

'The Glass Web' Brings New Siren In Starring Role

The precedent of success supports the determination of the screen's newest siren, Kathleen Hughes, to make her "bad girl" role bad all the way in Universal-International's thriller "The Glass Web" which opens today at the Jim Theatre with Edward G. Robinson, John Forsythe and Marcia Henderson sharing star-billing with Miss Hughes.

It was a brief appearance in "It Came From Outer Space" which brought her to stardom in "The Glass Web."

As Paula Rainier, a bold and beautiful blonde vixen, Kathleen follows an illustrious parade of ill-fated femme fatales who have soared to their greatest film heights by playing somewhat less than virtuous women.

It was such a role in "A Double Life" that brought Shelley Winters out of obscurity when she was cast as Ronald Colman's waitress-girl friend. Bette Davis, multiple Academy Award winner, reached the peak with her portrayals of bad women in "Of Human Bondage," and "Jezebel."

Also reaching film fame through infamy were Jennifer Jones in "Duel in the Sun," Barbara Stanwyck in "Double Indemnity" and Anne Baster in "All About Eve."

'War Arrow' Film Deals With Little Known Incident

"War Arrow," the Universal-International Technicolor adventure co-starring Maureen O'Hara and Jeff Chandler, brings to the screen of the Jim Theatre next Wednesday the story of one of the little-known chapters in the history of Indian warfare.

Set in the Texas territory guarded by a slim Cavalry garrison, "War Arrow" deals with the assignment of Major Howell Brady, sent from Washington to mobilize the transplanted and peaceful Seminoles into a guerilla fighting force in a desperate move to put down the devastating Kiowa Indian uprising.

Undertaking this assignment, Brady has his two sergeants (played by Charles Drake and Noah Beery) to help him.

Why Grow Old?

Fun Important To Continued Happiness

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This is one of the nicest of the special days in the year. Valentine should be a day which is more sentimentally observed than it is. This is a day for sonnet writing and flowers and hearts and candy, for expressions of fondness for those we love.

This day makes us realize how much we take the opportunity for love and romance for granted. A husband may be a good provider and a kind, considerate, devoted man, but how long since he brought his wife flowers or planned a special evening with which to surprise her? He remembers her at Christmas and on her birthday and on their anniversary, but he may feel no obligation to be a good companion, to be well-groomed and physically attractive, to be aware of her every day in small ways, to tell her some of the wonderful things he really thinks about her.

Rush to Meet Him?

And his wife? How long ago did she drop the habit of looking as pretty as possible when he returns in the evening, of rushing to meet him when she hears his key in the door, of giving his day a lift with humor and enthusiasm and tenderness?

For how long have the children turned her into all mother and no sweetheart? She may be a faithful, hard-working wife, a fine mother and a wonderful housekeeper, but how long ago did she and her husband stop having fun together, how long ago since they were conscious of one another as individuals?

This must be a two way proposition but it is amazing how a man or woman responds to the attitude of the other. What use is there in getting all dressed up if your husband doesn't notice how you look anyway? Why would a man notice his wife happily if she is poorly groomed, hectic and gloomy, when he returns at night?

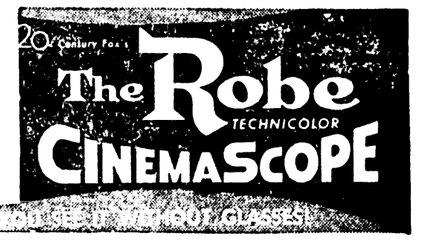

This works in reverse, too. One member of the team can revitalize and stimulate dormant romance in a marriage. Psychologists will tell you that these are important factors in a happy association between a man and a woman, that oversights of this sort can lead to divorce, and anyway, how much more fun it is to be romantic!

Despite the seriousness of its subject, "Affair With a Stranger" is told with considerable humor and not a few surprising twists. It is set in the always interesting atmosphere of Broadway, its theatrical district with its boarding houses and gay cafes, and the Long Island smart set in which its more successful personalities move.

As the level-headed model who marries a struggling playwright and sticks to him through thick and thin, Jean Simmons has a role worthy of her talent and beauty. Her smart clothes, created for her by Michael Woulfe, will have especial appeal for the feminine fans.

Victor Mature has one of his most sympathetic roles as the playwright, who faces the usual temptations experienced by a handsome and successful male in the Broadway Belt. Prominent in the supporting cast are newcomer Mary Jo Tarola, as Miss Simmons' companion model; Monica Lewis, as a Broadway singing star with an eye on Mature, Jane Darwell, Dabbs Greer, Wally Vernon, Nicholas Joy, Olive Carey and Victoria Horne.

'The Glass Web' Brings New Siren In Starring Role

The precedent of success supports the determination of the screen's newest siren, Kathleen Hughes, to make her "bad girl" role bad all the way in Universal-International's thriller "The Glass Web" which opens today at the Jim Theatre with Edward G. Robinson, John Forsythe and Marcia Henderson sharing star-billing with Miss Hughes.

It was a brief appearance in "It Came From Outer Space" which brought her to stardom in "The Glass Web."

As Paula Rainier, a bold and beautiful blonde vixen, Kathleen follows an illustrious parade of ilifated femme fatales who have soared to their greatest film heights by playing somewhat less than virtuous women.

It was such a role in "A Double Life" that brought Shelley Winters out of obscurity when she was cast as Ronald Colman's waitress-girl friend. Bette Davis, multiple Academy Award winner, reached the peak with her portrayals of bad women in "Of Human Bondage," and "Jezebel."

Also reaching film fame through infamy were Jennifer Jones in "Duel in the Sun," Barbara Stanwyck in "Double Indemnity" and Anne Baster in "All About Eve."

"War Arrow," the Universal-International Technicolor adventure co-starring Maureen O'Hara and Jeff Chandler, brings to the screen of the Jim Theatre next Wednesday the story of one of the little-known chapters in the history of Indian warfare.

Set in the Texas territory guarded by a slim Cavalry garrison, "War Arrow" deals with the assignment of Major Howell Brady, sent from Washington to mobilize the transplanted and peaceful Seminoles into a guerilla fighting force in a desperate move to put down the devastating Kiowa Indian uprising.

Undertaking this assignment, Brady has his two sergeants (played by Charles Drake and Noah Beery) to help him.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This is one of the nicest of the special days in the year. Valentine should be a day which is more sentimentally observed than it is. This is a day for sonnet writing and flowers and hearts and candy, for expressions of fondness for those we love.

This day makes us realize how much we take the opportunity for love and romance for granted. A husband may be a good provider and a kind, considerate, devoted man, but how long since he brought his wife flowers or planned a special evening with which to surprise her? He remembers her at Christmas and on her birthday and on their anniversary, but he may feel no obligation to be a good companion, to be well-groomed and physically attractive, to be aware of her every day in small ways, to tell her some of the wonderful things he really thinks about her.

Rush to Meet Him?

And his wife? How long ago did she drop the habit of looking as pretty as possible when he returns in the evening, of rushing to meet him when she hears his key in the door, of giving his day a lift with humor and enthusiasm and tenderness?

For how long have the children turned her into all mother and no sweetheart? She may be a faithful, hard-working wife, a fine mother and a wonderful housekeeper, but how long ago did she and her husband stop having fun together, how long ago since they were conscious of one another as individuals?

This must be a two way proposition but it is amazing how a man or woman responds to the attitude of the other. What use is there in getting all dressed up if your husband doesn't notice how you look anyway? Why would a man notice his wife happily if she is poorly groomed, hectic and gloomy, when he returns at night?

This works in reverse, too. One member of the team can revitalize and stimulate dormant romance in a marriage. Psychologists will tell you that these are important factors in a happy association between a man and a woman, that oversights of this sort can lead to divorce, and anyway, how much more fun it is to be romantic!

CASEY, THE LOCAL BOY, IS SHOWING A TREMENDOUS AMOUNT OF CLASS

LOOK... HE ISN'T AFRAID OF THE CHAMP!

HE GOT THRU PALOOKA'S GUARD!

BONG BONG

HE'S DOING IT... I'M NOT HELPING HIM... HE'S GOT PLENTY OF KNOW-HOW AND MOXIE.

YEOW!

YA GOT 'IM, CASEY!

IT'S AS GOOD AS A CHAMPEENSHIP FIGHT!

CASEY SURPRISES EVERYONE INCLUDING THE CHAMPION... HE STANDS TOE TO TOE TRADING PUNCHES... IT'S A REAL PIER SIX BRAWL AT THIS POINT...

BONG BONG

I'M SURPRISED AT MYSELF, HYMIE... FUNNY HIS PUNCHES DON'T HURT TOO MUCH... JEEPERS! HAS HE GOT CLASS... AND CLEAN...

LOOK, THIS BUM'S SHOWIN' YA UP... THIS IS TH' LAST ROUND... EVEN IF THERE AIN'T NO DECISION... YER TH' CHAMP... MAKE 'IM KNOW IT!

BZzzz

THE LAST ROUND... BOTH BOYS ARE FRESH... PALOOKA IS BEHIND IN POINTS... THEY CAME OUT FAST... CASEY JABBED THE CHAMP AND DREW CLARET... HE CROSSED A RIGHT TO PALOOKA'S JAW... AND... SUDDENLY...

WHAFFF

YES, I THOUGHT IT WOULD PLEASE LADY PLUSHBOTTOM WHEN SHE RETURNS... NOW LET ME SEE... WHERE WOULD IT LOOK BEST

AH, THIS IS ONE EVENING I CAN WALK OUT AND BUY MYSELF A CIGAR WITHOUT BEING PUT ON A QUIZ PROGRAM WHEN I GET HOME.

UGH! THAT GIVES ME TH' WILLIES! PUT TH' OLD LADY ON TH' MANTEL, KAYO.

I CAN'T REACH IT.

NEVER MIND, I'LL DO IT MY-SELF.

KERASH!

NOW, YOU'VE DID IT!

GEE! IT'S A LUCKY THING I DIDN'T BUST TH' FRAME.

WOT TH' HECK! IF LORD PLUSHBOTTOM WANTS A PHOTOGRAPH IN IT, I CAN DIG UP A PRETTIER PITCHER OUTTA THIS OLD TRUNK OF MOON'S.

WHY, EMMA, I DIDN'T EXPECT YOU TILL TOMORROW.

AND THAT, DEARIE, IS WHY MY MOTHER THOUGHT I SHOULD COME HOME TONIGHT.

WELL, MY SWEET, WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THAT.

I WONDER WHAT SHE GOT SO CRABBY ABOUT?

BLAST TH' LUCK... WE SHOULD BE OUT OF THIS TEST AREA! A MISSILE IS DUE!

BUT, ROD, SIR... I HAD TO STOP OUR TAKE-OFF RUN 'CAUSE OF ALL THE SHOALS AND REEFS!

WE'RE IN TH' ONLY NATURAL CHANNEL IN THIS AREA, AND IT'S TOO SHORT TO TAKE OFF DOWN WIND!

...SO-I MUST TAXI BACK AND TRY AGAIN INTO TH' WIND, SIR!

WELL, INSPECTOR, YOU'RE FAMILIAR WITH ALL THE EXACTING PREP-ARATIONS WE MAKE PRIOR TO A NEW MISSILE TEST...

...OR EVEN WITH OUR SMALL ECONOMY SIZE "HVAR" ROCKETS THAT WE FIRE TO TRAIN TECH-NICIANS

FANTASTIC! ALL THIS ULTRA-SCIENTIFIC MISSILE RESEARCH IS THE BEGINNING OF AMERICA'S NOT-TOO-FAR-DISTANT AIR DEFENSE!

...BUT UNTIL THEN, WE DEPEND ON OUR PRESENT-DAY METHOD OF AIR-PLANE DEFENSE!

MEANWHILE—

...I'VE AN IDEA HOW I MAY ESCAPE BEING BLOWN TO BITS ON THIS SAND SPIT TARGET!

Aren't you glad you use DIAL Soap? (...don't you wish everybody did!)

Dial with AT-7 (Hexachlorophene) removes the cause of perspiration odor, keeps you nice to be around all day.

When you're having fun with others, or busy at your work, you never worry about perspiration odor when you use Dial. It's the only leading soap with AT-7 (Hexachlorophene); there's nothing else as good at removing skin bacteria that cause odor. And Dial's AT-7 clings to your skin for days, so its protection increases the more you use Dial. Dial really stops odor before it starts and keeps it stopped all over, as no other leading soap, no deodorant can. Dial's creamy lather is wonderfully mild and Dial smells good. Best of all—your morning freshness stays with you when you use Dial. Better get some more today.

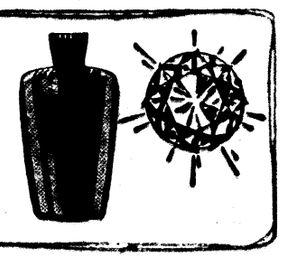

Photomicros Prove Results

The PHANTOM

By LEE FALK and WILSON McCOY

THE PHANTOM IS REMEMBERING THE DAY WHEN HIS FATHER DESTROYED THE SINGH PIRATE FLAGSHIP WITH THE AID OF AN INFORMER! HE WATCHED THEM RETURN IN A ROWBOAT--

HE RUSHED TO THE JUNGLE TO AWAIT HIS FATHER, BUT WHEN HIS FATHER CAME--ALIVE--HE WAS BADLY WOUNDED.

FATHER--!

HE WAS DEAD BEFORE THEY REACHED THE DEEP WOODS-- SADLY, HE WAS CARRIED INTO THE PHANTOM VAULTS, TO JOIN HIS ANCESTORS--

AND THE SON CAME OUT OF THE CAVE, TO TAKE HIS FATHER'S PLACE. THUS THE LINE CONTINUED UNBROKEN--SO DIED THE FATHER OF OUR PHANTOM.

THE PHANTOM IS DEAD. LONG LIVE THE PHANTOM.

LONG LIVE THE PHANTOM!

MY FATHER RETURNED THAT DAY WITHOUT HIS BELT. DO YOU KNOW HOW HE DIED, GURAN?

WE ALL KNOW THAT HE DIED BRAVELY, FIGHTING THE SINGH PIRATES.

GURAN, HE WAS STABBED IN THE BACK! WHOEVER DID IT, TOOK HIS SKULL BELT.

STABBED IN THE--! I NEVER KNEW! BUT WHO COULD DO SUCH A THING TO HIM?

ONLY SOMEONE HE TRUSTED COULD HAVE MANAGED IT! THE INFORMER- THE MAN WHOSE FACE I DIDN'T SEE THAT DAY-

IF HE STILL LIVES, I'LL FIND THAT MAN SOMEDAY!

BUZ SAWYER

Featuring His Pal Rosco Sweeney

by ROY CRANE

A DELICIOUS BREAKFAST, MISS SWEENEY, AND I WANT YOU, NOT PIERRE, TO COOK THE DINNER. NOTHING FANCY, PLEASE.

YES, MR. DIMWITTY.

LET'S SEE, I'LL HAVE HOG JOWLS AND BLACK-EYED PEAS, TOSSED SALAD, AND CHOCOLATE CAKE. I'LL HAVE TO GO TO THE MARKET FOR HOG JOWLS.

HOG JOWLS--- HOW PLEBEIAN!

MAIS OUI! WE MUS' CHASE OFF ZE NEW COOK!

EXACTLY! BUT HOW? BY POURING SAND IN THE SALT.

BY POURING SALT IN THE SUGAR!

SALT

THAT EVENING.

IS THERE ANYTHING WRONG WITH THE HOG JOWLS AND PEAS, MR. DIMWITTY?

ER, AH, MOST DELICIOUS, WICKLIFF... BUT A TRIFLE GRITTY.

AND THE SALAD, SIR?

STRANGE, IT REMINDS ME OF WHEN I WAS A BOY AND HAD TO TAKE COD LIVER OIL. JUST BRING THE DESSERT, WICKLIFF.

DON'T EAT THAT CAKE, MR. DIMWITTY! PLEASE! IT'S FULL OF SALT INSTEAD OF SUGAR!

THOSE HORRID PEOPLE HAVE RUINED THE DINNER I COOKED FOR YOU. BOO HOO HOO!

WE DID NOT, SIR! SHE JUST DOESN'T KNOW HOW TO COOK, SIR!

IMAGINE PUTTING SALT INSTEAD OF SUGAR IN A CAKE!

SHE'S IMPOSSIBLE!
